Senate Hears Eisenhower's Story of Patton

Sen. Butler Blasts 'Candy Diplomacy.'

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Diagrams on page 8.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The New Deal and all that it stands for, including policies outlawed by congress for the United States, has been transplanted bodily to Latin American nations at a cost of more than 6 billion dollars, with the net result that the administration's so-called good neighbor policy is making enemies for this country and preparing South and Central American nations for future war.

Sen. Hugh A. Butler.

This was the substance of a detailed report by Sen. Hugh A. Butler [R., Neb.] given in the senate today. The exposition of the senator's findings on a 20,000 mile trip covering the Latin American republics and dictatorships was made for the benefit of the special senate committee to investigate the war program [the Truman committee] and the joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal spending [the Byrd committee].

Profligate Spending Told.

In his address Butler charged that profligacy marks the carryings on of nearly two score federal agencies, running more than a thousand different types of projects, with 15 different methods of participation in which United States money is handed out as largess in a bungling attempt to buy good will.

The cost of all forms of United States aid to Latin-American nations was placed by Butler at 6 billion dollars in his report, but at the end of the message he appended a list of 81 separate expenditures, commitments, or authorizations which total $8,064,066,470.40, and a brief statement on each, giving his source.

Figures are Conservative.

He said he used the 6 billion figure, approximately 25 per cent under his actual total, to allow for any bookkeeping shifts which the administration may make in defense of its "good will" spending, which Butler asserted is marked by "wantonness and irresponsibility."

[Vice President Wallace says the "agencies involved" will answer Sen. Butler's charges. Story on page 8.]

Among the more important charges made by Butler as examples of maladministration were these:

Paraguay, a "warlike" nation, is preparing for war now and "their big hope is to get enough lend-lease military supplies to enable them to march on Argentina, start a battle, and somehow involve Brazil."

Rubber at $500 a Pound.

Rubber that America is obtaining from Guatemala is costing this country as high as $500 a pound.

Airplane engines destined for fighting fronts, allocated under lend-lease to England, eventually wound up on commercial airplanes owned by a British controled air line in South America.

A dozen sub chasers were given to Cuba as a good will gesture, making impossible their transfer to more needed patrol duties in other waters.

Dictators Kept in Power.

In general the charges by Butler were the following:

1. Lend-lease supplies being given to dictator Latin American nations are being hoarded for future war making by those countries, which in the past have been unable to carry on major war because they

Army Selling Vast Stock of War Material

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The army has put on sale tremendous stocks of surplus war materials in evident anticipation of the end of the war.

This was disclosed here tonight with the discovery the army is issuing catalogs of surplus materials of every description to manufacturers, inviting them to bid on a huge variety of equipment amassed for the war.

In congressional and military circles it was agreed that the articles would not be offered for sale unless the high command expected an early end to the war, at least in Europe.

Material Not Obsolete.

The material is not obsolete, but includes such items as airplane engine parts, hand and precision tools of every description, chemicals, bullet proof gas tanks, motion picture cameras and projectors, and generators.

The discovery that the army has begun the sale of surplus materials came as a total of five arms plants were shut down in the last two weeks by the ordnance department because the army has a surplus of small arms ammunition. Some 40,000 workers lost their jobs.

At the same time the army and the navy announced they will turn back some 18 billion dollars of appropriations for the current fiscal year to the treasury. The announcements brought congressional demands that the war production program be overhauled with a view to increasing the savings to at least 25 billions.

Catalog Lists Items.

A typical catalog of 32 pages on heavy stock of slick paper was sent to manufacturers by the 830th army air forces specialized depot, 3300 Jackson avenue, Memphis, Tenn. This unit is one of hundreds seeking to unload surplus materials.

The catalog explains that only a small part of the items are listed and pictured. On its pages are pictured hundreds of items, scarcity of which was said to be holding back the progress of the war a few months ago.

Called 'Essential to War.'

"It is deemed essential to the successful prosecution of the war and protection against shortages of needed materials that all property not immediately needed by the army air forces be returned to industry for use in manufacturing or other activities connected with the war effort," it says.

"This catalog is designed to bring to your attention some of the many items which are presently excess to the needs of the army air forces which are offered for sale by the air service command. It is proposed to amend and add to the contents of this catalog from time to time as additional items become available to industry."

The first item in the catalog is a listing of 13 kinds of gasoline, water, and air rubber hose with and without coupling in lengths from 10 to 50 feet. On a facing page are photographs of 10 types of gasoline tanks, some bulletproof, self-sealing types.

Then follows a listing of portable air compressors, fuel pumps, refueling funnels, drain cans, lubricators, gasoline meters and nozzles, manual and hydraulic jacks, airplane wheels and engine dollies, fuselage cradles and engine stands.

None of these items is obsolete.

15 Kinds of Hammers.

The catalog devotes four pages to precision tools for carpenters, plumbers, and machinists, for which civilians have been searching hardware stores in vain. Fifteen different types of hammers are pictured. The war has made none of these obsolete.

The catalog lists a scanning lens, which is a precision optical product. Also listed are testing devices and flying clothes, including electrically heated flying suits. Gloves, fleece lined shoes, buckles, and heated gloves are also pictured.

MARIGNY AND NANCY GOING TO CUBA; MAY QUIT NASSAU MONDAY

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 26 (AP).—Alfred de Marigny, acquitted of a charge of murdering Harry Oakes but told to get out of the Bahamas, tonight said he will go to Cuba "as soon as I can." He said he had received a message from a Cuban undersecretary of state authorizing a Cuban passport visa.

"I hope to leave by Monday, even if I have to charter a boat," said De Marigny, adding that his wife, Oakes' eldest daughter, Nancy, 19, "will follow me wherever I go, even to the south pole."

De Marigny's friend and principal defense witness, the Marquis Georges de Visdelou-Guimbeau, has obtained a Haitian visa and it is apparent they will be separated as Visdelou still plans to go to Haiti.

REPORT STALIN AND CHURCHILL IN CONFERENCE

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 26 (AP).—Foreign diplomatic circles reported tonight that Prime Minister Churchill is confering with Premier Stalin, either as a prelude to a tripartite meeting including President Roosevelt, or as a substitute for it. British Foreign Secretary Eden was said to be with Churchill. No confirmation here was possible, but informants believed the talks have been in progress for at least two days.

Charge Illegal OPA Arrest; Churchgoers Picket Office

Flays 'Gestapo'

Charges that a policeman and office of price administration agents used Gestapo methods when they arrested William Mubi, 30 years old, a war worker, last May and accused him of selling and possessing canned hams and bricks of cheese without obtaining ration points for them, were made in federal court yesterday.

Atty. John S. Boyle, representing Mubi, asked Judge Philip L. Sullivan to suppress the evidence in the case, charged the agents with illegal search and seizure, and made these specifice charges:

1. That as Mubi, with three fellow workers including two women, drove away from the war plant early May 25, the policeman jumped on the running board and shouted, "Pull over to the side or I will shoot you."

Food Found in Trunk.

2. That under threats by the agents and the policeman, Mubi surrendered the key to the car trunk and that the hams and cheese stored there were seized.

3. That the policeman got into the back seat between the women, drew his gun, held it in his lap, and snapped, "Let's not have any funny business," when one of the women asked for a match.

4. That Mubi was held at the Chicago Lawn police station while the agents went to his home at 1406 East 70th street, forced their way in and searched it altho they had no warrant, as required by law. Mubi's wife, Estelle, then was brought to the station and, while she and her husband were held, the agents returned to their home and again searched it "without finding whatever articles or evidence they were seeking."

OPA Denies Charges.

"Here is a case that demonstrates the tactics used by OPA agents," Boyle asserted. "Our witnesses will testify that, when the policeman in plain clothes and the agents jumped on the running board of the car, they didn't know whether they were holdup men or not."

"Our agents don't do things like that, and neither do the police," Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan OPA director, declared last night, when told of allegations made by Mubi. "We do not permit and do not make illegal searches. Our operators are not armed, and there were no guns used to force Mr. Mubi to do anything. His car was searched with his permission, and if OPA agents entered his home, that, too, was with his permission."

When John Owen, assistant United States attorney, asked for a continuance, Judge Sullivan set Dec. 20 for a hearing.

Pastor Loses Gas

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 26 [Special].—Members of the congregation of the Christian Temple church, one of the largest in Pontiac, picketed headquarters of the office of price administration for two hours today in protest of the agency's asserted refusal to give their pastor, the Rev. Leland L. Marion, sufficient gasoline to minister to his flock.

They demanded the ouster of A. J. Diebel, OPA director of Oakland county, and distributed a circular in which the minister accused Diebel of casting aspersions on churches by asserting that "the quicker they close, the better."

Pickets Carry Placards.

Approximately 50 persons marched in the street in front of the OPA office in the heart of the downtown district carrying placards which read: "OPA—Oppression, Persecution, and Anti-Americanism," "Don't Dabble with Diebel," "Fire OPA Diebel," and "Christ Temple Denied Gasoline by OPA Diebel."

It was not ascertained whether Diebel was in his office at the time of the demonstration, but if he was he did not make his presence known. Efforts to find him to learn whether he had an answer to the minister's charges were unsuccessful.

The circular distributed by the church members quoted the Rev. Mr. Marion's version of his attempts to obtain a renewal of his C ration card. He said Diebel refused his request and declared he would get only a B book. The minister declined what he termed a 50 per cent cut in his supplemental gasoline allowance, it was said, and since then has been getting along on coupons given him by his parishioners.

Says He Was Shocked.

"I called on Mr. Diebel, assuming I was the victim of a clerical error," the circular quoted the pastor as saying. "Imagine my shock and surprise when Diebel said to me:

"'Your work, Dr. Marion, as pastor of a church, is not fundamental to the war effort. I am not concerned about the churches. I am concerned about getting gasoline for the men who work in shops. In 60 days there will be no gasoline for churches and similar enterprises, and the quicker the churches close the better it will be anyway.'"

Needed Him, Report Emphasizes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—With the war department on the defensive and congress deeply stirred by the incident, the senate today received from Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson the official report on the Patton story requested by the senate committee on military affairs.

The report was read by Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee. It consisted mainly of an account by Gen. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the allied forces in the Mediterranean area, of the episode of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. striking a shell shocked enlisted man in a rage and of Eisenhower's defense of his action in letting Patton off with a secret reprimand and apologies to his victim and to his troops.

Eisenhower Spares Patton.

The latest repercussions of the affair call in question the war department's discrimination between officers and enlisted men in incidents involving breach of discipline. If a private strikes an officer he is invariably court martialed and under the articles of war may be punished with death.

If an officer strikes a private he violates numerous articles of war which prescribe a court martial of the offender. Eisenhower spared Patton a court martial because he considered Patton invaluable to the operations in Italy.

Stimson forwarded Eisenhower's telegraphic report to the senate along with a letter asserting that under war department policy Eisenhower is completely responsible for all matters of discipline in his theater.

Matter Up to Eisenhower.

"The decision to weigh Lt. Gen. Patton's great services to his country, in World War I. and World War II., from these shores to Casablanca and thru Tunisia to triumph in Sicily, on the one hand, against an indefensible act on the other, was Gen. Eisenhower's," Stimson wrote.

"As his report shows, Eisenhower in making his decision also considered the value to our country of Gen. Patton's aggressive, winning leadership in the bitter battles which are to come before final victory.

"I am confident that you will agree with me that Gen. Eisenhower's decision, under these difficult circumstances, was right and proper."

Calls Patton Mainspring.

Eisenhower said in his report that during the Sicilian campaign Gen. Patton was the mainspring of the effort during the sustained drive of the 7th army from Gela to Messina.

"He absolutely refused to accept procrastination or any excuse for delay with a resulting rapid advance of that army which had much to do with the early collapse of resistance in Sicily," Eisenhower said.

"He drove himself as hard as he did the members of his army thruout the campaign and consequently became almost ruthless in his demands upon individual men."

Eisenhower said the slapping incident occurred when Patton was visiting a hospital and encountered two wounded patients who had been evacuated "for what is commonly known as 'battle anxiety,' specifically nerve difficulty."

Patton Loses Temper.

"He momentarily lost his temper in these two instances and in an unseemly and indefensible manner upraided the individuals, and in one of the cases cuffed the individual involved so that the man's helmet rolled off his head," Eisenhower reported.

Eisenhower learned of the incident thru the report of a medical officer followed by reports "from three reputable newspaper men."

Gen. Eisenhower said he took the following action:

"First, to Gen. Patton I wrote a letter advising him of the allega-

LONDON, Nov. 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian armies captured the Nazi stronghold of Gomel yesterday and stormed eight miles beyond in pursuit of hundreds of thousands of Germans retreating thru a 50 mile wide corridor.

"Large enemy forces were routed" from the last Nazi bastian east of the Dnieper river when the Russians charged, Moscow announced. Great quantities of war material were reported seized.

Slay 7,000 Nazis in Day.

The Russians announced more than 7,000 Germans were killed yesterday in fighting that stretched from the Gomel area south to the Dnieper bend.

The Gomel victory, by a "bold outflanking maneuver," was announced in a special order of the day by Premier Marshal Josef Stalin a few hours after the Germans declared they had destroyed the town and fallen back.

Subsequently the soviet daily war reports, recorded here by the soviet radio monitor, said the Russians, plunging westward in a new offensive, had captured 30 towns north of Gomel and 12 west of the citadel. South of this area at least six more hamlets were won.

The new advances tightened the narrow German escape corridor from the Gomel front with the only railroad in that section now well within soviet artillery range. Facing possible entrapment as the Russians close in from three sides are 20 German divisions, or about 300,000 men.

The war bulletin also reported continued successful defense against the German counter-attack hammering at the Kiev bulge. To the south, eight towns were reported captured by the Russians in the Dnieper bend area.

Seizure of Gomel completed soviet strategy by splitting the German northern and Ukraine fronts at the Pripet marshes and liberated a city which has been under Nazi war flags since mid-August, 1941.

Red Drive Grows to 100 Miles.

The Russians, who had almost surrounded Gomel for several weeks, flanked the citadel and made it untenable with the great new offensive on the north which has surged to the banks of the upper Dnieper.

The Germans, meanwhile, said the Russian offensive had mushroomed over a 100 mile front north from Gomel. A Nazi commentator said the front extends from Rechitsa to Krichev.

The German war report said Russian attacks on the lower Dnieper near Nikopol were "largely repulsed."

Slain Japanese Dot Tiny Island.

'Very Heavy' Losses

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—Secretary of Navy Frank Knox today said that American losses on the Tarawa atoll in the Gilbert Islands "were very heavy." He told reporters: "I want you to prepare the public for heavy losses." American casualties on Makin, another Japanese base in the Gilberts, were "very slight," he reported.

BY RICHARD W. JOHNSTON.
[Representing the combined American Press and distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH THE U. S. MARINE ASSAULT FORCES AT TARAWA, Nov. 23 — [Delayed]. — Bandaged heroes of the United States marines broke the back of this lizard-shaped Japanese Gibraltar of the Gilbert Islands today after 60 hours of the toughest fighting in the century and a half history of the corps.

In a four hour push supported by naval gun fire, strafing, and dive bombing, the marines cleared the vital air strip and confined the Jap defenders—the imperial marines—to the island's tapering tail and to a small blockhouse pocket on the north coast.

Japs Do Not Surrender.

The Japanese are not surrendering, but are beginning to commit hara-kiri. However, there is every indication they will fight to the end from strong positions and that many more American boys will die before the last Japs are driven from Tarawa.

No victory in American military history was ever attained at a higher price.

Col. Merritt A. Edson of marine raider fame, chief of staff to Maj. Gen. Julian C. Smith, commander of the 2d marine division, said: "This is the toughest fight in the marine corps history. Nothing in any previous war or this one can compare with it."

Lt. Col. Evans Carlson, himself a famous leader of marine raiders in their exploits on Makin Island and Guadalcanal last year, is here as an observer.

"Guadalcanal was something," he said, "but I never saw anything like this."

[Lt. Col. Carlson later said the position of the marines at one time was so critical that a determined Japanese counter-attack "might have exterminated them."]

No Time to Bury Dead.

The smell of death literally permeates the blasted, shell-torn beaches, scarred blockhouses and riddled plateau topped by splintered, topless coconut trees on this tiny island [Betio]—only two and a half miles long and 800 yards wide.

Until late this afternoon there was not time to bury any of the marine or Jap dead—many of them killed in the first hours of the assault landing.

There is no official count of casualties, but Col. Edson reported this afternoon that only a few hundred men of two battalions thrown into the inner beachhead attack were definitely known to be either wounded or dead. Dead Japs are everywhere, in blockhouses, in the surf and scattered among tattered palm fronds which they have used as cover for sniping.

Tells of Going Ashore.

The assault was made against three designated beaches by three battalion landing teams going shoreward thru a lagoon on the north coast of the fortified air base island of the Tarawa atoll.

These battalions and others supporting the three landing teams went shoreward in Higgins boats and other landing craft under cover of naval and air attacks, but they encountered fire from Jap shore batteries and emplacements.

A shelving reef hung up most of the Higgins boats and wave after wave of infantry had to struggle 500 yards thru water neck deep under a murderous Japanese barrage. At low tide many of the soldiers' bodies dot the reef.

Gen. Smith and most of his staff were blown out of a boat when they attempted to circle the west tip of the island and land a regimental headquarters. The general was rescued by an amphibious tractor obtained by Maj. R. M. C. Thompkins, who waded half a mile thru water chest deep under Jap sniping to hail a rescue boat.

Generals Take Cover.

Brig. Gen. James Underhill, assistant commander of the 4th marine division—an observer—and Brig. Gen. Thomas E. Bourke, Severne Park, Md., division artillery officer and commander of the 10th regiment, were among those forced to take cover in the water behind the stranded craft.

In the initial landings at 8:30 a. m., Nov. 21, one of the three landing teams was so powerfully opposed that only two companies were able to land. They held a beachhead 70 yards wide for more than 24 hours.

I landed at the center beach under Maj. Henry Pierson Crowe, 44 years old, and like the marines I had to walk 500 yards shoreward thru a machine gun crossfire.

Japs Fight with Fury.

Because of the low altitude of the island, which is under 10 feet above sea level at all points, it was impossible to secure any point against enemy fire. Thruout the last 60 hours and probably thru the next 60, Japanese snipers have been taking and will take a toll.

From the outset the Japanese fought with fury and even now, with occasional surrenders and harakiris, there is no indication of mass surrenders or evacuation. Instead the indication is the Japanese will fight to the death in an area more than a mile long.

The Japanese defenses in this area, as those thruout the island, include heavy concrete emplacements, pill boxes with tank proof walls three feet thick, and block houses made from coconut logs lashed together and filled in with coral sand. These make four foot barriers which can withstand much punishment.

Describes Victory Push.

Today's victory push began at 1 p. m. after the arrival of Col. Edson and additional light and medium tanks. Reënforcing marine battalions landed in the relatively lightly defended west end of the island late yesterday and pushed east down an airstrip which forms a diagonal line across the island to a point where the powerful Japanese concrete and log combination emplacements held up Maj. Crowe's battalion.

At the zero hour navy Hellcats strafed the Japanese held area in successive waves. Infantry and tanks advanced only 15 yards behind the strafing planes while battleships and cruisers bombarded the Japanese held area behind the lines.

Despite the intensity of our attacks the Japanese fought back with undiminished ardor. This was testified by the constant arrival of stretcher bearers with wounded and dead marines. But when the east end of the airstrip finally was reached the Japanese doom was sealed and victory—slow and painful no doubt, but victory—became certain.

In these hellish 60 hours the heroism of the marine officers and enlisted men alike was almost beyond belief. Time after time they charged Japanese positions, ignoring deadly fire and refusing to halt until wounded beyond the ability to carry on.

Men with gaping stomach and back wounds almost certainly fatal begged doctors to fix them up so they could return to their outfits, and one captain who was shot thru one arm and both legs sent a message to Crowe apologizing for "letting him down."

Officer Casualties High.

Characteristically, officers thruout the division led the men into battle and as a consequence officer casualties in the battalions ran high. The commanding officer of one landing team was shot thru the throat and killed as he waded into the initial assault. His executive officer was missing, so an observer, Lt. Col. W. I. Jordan, Virginia Beach, Va., took command.

The commanding officer of a flank landing team which was turned back, except for two companies, was forced to land in the central area and was unable to reach his troops until late yesterday.

The exact strength of the Jap defenders is unknown, but it is believed to number at least 3,000 Japanese.

An educated Gilbertese native said the Japanese had moved in 4,000 soldiers and 4,000 coolie class laborers when they first occupied the island, but it is believed that many of the latter were shipped home.

Laborers Give Up.

Significantly, most surrenders, which probably total not more than 200 were by laborers. The soldiers prefer hara-kiri.

On both nights Japanese bombers hit the island but only two to four planes were involved and casualties and damage were negligible. It is believed that this possibly indicates Japanese air strength at Nauru and in the Marshalls is virtually nil, but it was pointed out that Tarawa's resistance indicated air strength is not necessarily a gauge to easy conquest.

After the mop up of the air strip it will be reconditioned for the use of our bombers but the job will be extensive. The island is a strip of desolation.

Actually Tarawa is the name of the whole atoll and the main island is one of 26 and is named Betio. The rest are linked by channels of wading depth but are virtually free of Japanese and are under our control.

Fighting in the Pacific

M'Arthur's Men Win Jap Base on Top of a New Guinea Cliff

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Nov. 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Sattelberg village on a 2,400 foot spur overlooking New Guinea's Huon gulf—from whose coast Gen. MacArthur is in position to invade New Britain—was stormed and captured Friday by Australians. They strewed the high ground with dead Japanese and seized much war equipment, including field artillery.

The Japanese survivors retreated north along the Wareo trail after yielding their first major point in the area since the fall of Finschhafen, 8 miles to the southeast, on Oct. 2, a war bulletin said today.

The victory, achieved by Australians who had to overcome the most difficult type of mountain and dense jungle in addition to heavy enemy resistance, brought to a close military operations which started Sept. 21 with a landing on the coast north of Finschhafen.

Aussies Use Tanks.

The almost precipitous cliffs on which Sattelberg stands, were well adapted to Japanese defense strategy. The Aussies were forced to overcome fixed defenses and dugouts. Tanks played an important part in clearing the way for the infantry.

In addition to capturing Sattelberg the Aussies seized four near-by villages as they cleared out the area.

Allied bombers attacked Wewak, to the northwest of the jungle front on New Guinea; Buka, the northern most Solomon Island, and the Buin-Faisi area of Bougainville.

American "black cat" planes [Catalina bombers] hit a Japanese cruiser 65 miles northwest of Rabaul, New Britain, the night of Nov. 24 with two bombs, causing explosions. Fires were started below the decks. The same night a light enemy cruiser was bombed and "probably destroyed" off Garove in the Vitu Islands group north of New Britain.

Shell Jap Installations.

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Nov. 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Adm. William F. Halsey's destroyers steamed up to tiny Magine Island near the American beachhead of Empress Augusta bay on Bougainville early Tuesday. They shelled Japanese gun installations there while tanks and additional troops were landed three miles distant near the Piva river mouth.

Nevertheless, Japanese guns opened up as the landings started, damaging some ships in the operations and inflicting a few casualties.

The destroyers returned to the scene and blasted the island, which is a mile offshore. The ships' shells silenced the guns.

Sink 9 More Jap Ships.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—United States sea and air forces in the Pacific have sunk Japanese shipping at the rate of a vessel a day since Pearl Harbor.

Latest victims in the war of attrition were seven freighters, a tanker, and a plane transport. They were sunk by American submarines.

These new sinkings, announced today by the navy, brought the submarine toll of sunk, probably sunk and damaged Japanese ships to 505.

The navy reported that all its forces now have sent 745 of all types of Japanese shipping to the bottom in little more than 700 days of warfare—a rate considered far beyond the Tokio admiralty's ability to replace.

ROOSEVELT'S SON SEES JAPS KILL A COLONEL ON ISLE

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Nov. 26 (AP).—Lt. Col. James Roosevelt, 36 years old, of the marines, who accompanied the 165th regiment [old fighting 69th] ashore on Makin Island in the Gilberts, today said its commanding officer, Col. Gardiner Conroy, of New York City, was killed because he forgot his own danger in concentrating on preparations to knock out a Jap strong point after the landing.

"I was only three feet from Col. Conroy when he was killed," the President's son said.

"We were beating our way to a road on Butaritari [main island of the Makin atoll] when we ran into Jap machine gun fire aimed directly down the road. They pinned us down temporarily.

"Col Conroy had been in the rear preparing an attack against a Japanese tank trap ahead. He brought up light tanks for the attack. He was so interested in directing the tanks that he forgot his own safety. He stood in the open directing the movement.

"I think a sniper got him but it might have been machine gun fire. He was hit squarely between the eyes."

FLEET DOUBLED IN 11 MOS.; NOW HAS 817 SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The navy department reported today that the numerical strength of the American fleet has been doubled in the last 11 months and that new craft include more than 40 aircraft carriers.

With the new construction, the report said, 817 combatant vessels now make up the fleets on all oceans.

Within the next two weeks, it said, new construction also will make good the 21 vessels lost this year, bringing the total fighting fleet to 838 ships of all types from destroyers escorts to battleships.

The fleet was doubled Wednesday, the report said, when the new aircraft carrier Wasp was completed. It was the 419th warship completed in 1943 and, with allowance for 21 warships lost since Jan. 1, brought the 100 per cent increase in size.

The present fleet compares with 344 combat vessels when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941.

CAIRO, Egypt., Nov. 26—Attacks in the Arabic press against the French national committee, headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, died down today. The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said editorially: "The Lebanese crisis has made every nation in the middle east realize the mighty strength and value of unity."

HOLDS FAR EAST PREFERS JAP TO FORMER RULERS

New York, Nov. 26 [Special].—The Japanese have proved so superior to their predecessors as colonists in the conquered lands of the far east that the doom of the British and Dutch empires there has been sealed, in the opinion of Ramon Lavalle, former Argentine diplomat who left Tokio early this year.

Lavalle, who has split with his country because of what he regards as its collaboration with Japan, declared statements by allied nations offering the former British and Dutch colonies freedom will be insufficient to regain the confidence of the peoples of the far east, but that the allies must give those territories outright independence at once.

Churchil Ukase Rebounds.

He characterized the statement of Prime Minister Churchill that he did not become the "king's first minister to witness the breakup of the British empire" as one of the most potent weapons the Japanese have had in their propaganda campaign to win favor among the natives of Burma, French Indo-China, Hong Kong, and the East Indies.

That utterance, Lavalle said, played a powerful part in Japan's new policy of conquest, which is aimed at winning the conquered peoples thru "friendliness," offers of "autonomous rule," and "coöperation." The Japanese have learned that torture and terror are weapons too crude for colonization, and are now granting more freedom to the natives than ever Britain or Holland allowed, he said.

Stress Racial Ties.

Thru radio, movies, education and even religion, the Japanese are stressing their racial fellowship with the natives and painting the white man as a devilish ruler. Sitting beside Lavalle during the interview was a Chinese industrialist who arrived in the United States only 20 days ago. He had escaped from Hongkong, where he owned a large factory, after occupation of that island by the Japanese. He said 80 per cent of the Chinese factory owners had been allowed to retain their factories.

Refusing to allow his name to be used because of fear for his family, which is still in occupied China, the industrialist said the Japanese had taken over the sumptuous Hongkong hotel where guests under British rule had been restricted to the British and upper class Chinese. The Japanese, he said, have opened the doors to all Chinese and the hotel now offers a cheap luncheon within the reach of the average native.

Allies Make Big Mistakes.

Lavalle and the industrialist agreed the United States had made a great mistake in underestimating the power and resourcefulness of the Japanese army and navy, and declared we were about to make as great a mistake in underestimating them as colonizers. The Japanese are building an empire of a billion people, Lavalle said, with unequaled natural resources gathered from conquered territory.

"Natives of China and Manchuria," Lavalle continued, "have been promised equality with the Japanese. The Philippines have been granted 'independence.' The Japanese have been most successful in Burma, where they have established a new puppet government."

Because of the American policy in the Philippines, the masses there are still hopeful of the defeat of the Japanese, but even there the Japanese have begun to make progress with their collaboration schemes, Lavalle said.

Members of the state's attorney's office said last night they would oppose any parole sought by Mrs. Eleanor Williams, blonde dice girl, who is serving a 1 to 14 year term at the women's reformatory in Dwight for the slaying of her sweetheart, Gordon McNaughton.

48 HOUR WEEK IS DECREED FOR 27,000 FIRMS

Order Will Be Effective in Chicago Jan. 16.

William H. Spencer, war man power czar for three states, yesterday ordered 27,000 Chicago firms to go on a 48-hour work week by Jan. 16 in an order covering employment in all businesses in the metropolitan area with eight or more employes.

Spencer's order on the controversial question which has been the subject of bitter discussion for the last six weeks, was attacked by both business and labor leaders, including some members of his own regional war man power management-labor committee. Under it all types of business establishments—service, retail, wholesale and manufacturing—must adopt the longer week by the Jan. 16 deadline.

Specifically exempted are only those employing seven or fewer persons, agricultural firms of farmers, youths under 16, employes of local, state and federal governments and individuals who cannot work full time.

Way Open for Exemptions.

Other firms may obtain exemption for all or part of their employes by filling applications with the WMC and obtaining its approval. Each case, Spencer said, will be considered individually and exemptions will be given only where the longer week would be impracticable, where it would not release persons for work in war plants or where it would conflict with laws limiting hours of work.

More than 870,000 persons in Chicago will be on the 48 hour week when it is put into effect, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce, estimated. Many of them, including a majority of war plant workers, already are working six or seven days a week. He said that 728,000 plant workers, 80,000 wholesale employes, 40,000 in retail business, and 22,500 in service industries probably will be working on the extended week when it is fully in effect.

Mystery to Labor Official.

Victor Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, in commenting on the extended work week said: "Apparently the order is based on a supposed shortage of labor here, altho the WMC still is sending workers from this area to the Pacific coast, and the railroads are doing the same thing. Federal housing authority regulations are stopping thousands of women living in housing projects from taking war jobs and encouraging absenteeism by tenants who can't earn over a specified income level. It's a mystery to me why it was done."

A questionnaire will be sent to each employer in the Chicago area next week, Spencer said. Each must fill it out and return it to the United States employment service office at 308 North Michigan avenue. Hundreds of war plants, employing hundreds of thousands of workers, already are working 48 to 60 or more hours a week per shift, he said, but these also must return the filled-in form.

Employers who do not ask exemption but who now have a shorter work week must submit a proposed schedule for releasing workers who will not be needed, but will not be allowed to fire employes until they are assured new jobs by the USES.

Exemption Request Details.

Those seeking exemption or who may ask a work week of more than 40 but less than 48 hours, must return the form filled out and must "prove that a longer work week would not reduce their labor needs." Exemptions may be filed for departments, occupations, or individuals, Spencer said. Chain retail units are considered as individual stores, and those that have fewer than eigh employes are not covered by the order, even tho other stores in the chain, warehouses, and central offices may come under its provisions.

"Since the purpose of the order is not to create unemployment but to provide workers where and when they are needed in war industry, no employer will be permitted to throw 15 or 25 per cent, or any part, of his employes out of their jobs to comply with it," Spencer said. "No worker may be released pending review and approval of the employer's release schedule. The USES must know that there is a job waiting for him. Employers are asked to make out schedules releasing their workers slowly over a period of weeks."

Limitation on Discharges.

Spencer said the order makes no provision for severance pay for discharged employes, except where it is covered by union contract provisions because they will not be let go unless another job is ready for them.

All employes coming under the wages and hours act, Spencer said, engaged in production for interstate commerce, as well as those whose union contracts provide for overtime pay, must be paid time and one-half for all hours worked over 40 in any seven day period. Many office workers, and some local industries such as laundries and other service establishments, are not covered by this provision.

Others not covered are executives and certain supervisory employes, who may find themselves in a position, a spokesman for the war labor board said, where their weekly salary does not equal the new wage scales of subordinate employes. The WLB in the past has granted upward adjustments to cover instances of this kind.

Information WMC Requires.

Spencer said employers asking exemptions must supply this information:

1. A list of the departments or groups affected.

2. For each group, a list of occupations, number of employes, minimum week now in effect, and the number of part time workers in each occupation not available for full time work because of other employment, household duties, or physical limitations.

3. The minimum week requested for each group, with the proposed work week for each occupation, if less than 48 hours is requested.

4. A list of the departments or groups to which the 48 hour week will apply.

5. A complete statement of the reasons for believing that a longer week than the employer proposes would be impracticable or would not contribute to a reduction of labor requirements, either by release of personnel or reduction in the need for additional employes in the future.

Sees Changes in Duties.

"There will have to be a reassignment of duties in many plants," Spencer said, "and in others it will be necessary to combine the work of persons now working less than 48 hours a week. I am certain that an analysis of work schedules by employers will reveal the feasibility of releasing many workers who have been considered essential.

"Traditional ideas on the length of the work week have no validity in a nation at war. Every employer must make certain that his present work force is being utilized intensively. The use of the 48 hour week in Chicago should be interpreted as indicating that the community is mobilizing its efforts to the greatest degree so far as its man power is concerned."

Spencer said that, as a guide to consideration of requests for exemptions, he had obtained the experiences of other cities, which have in general given exemptions to the following:

Clerical and office staffs of manufacturing establishments, newspapers, utilities, banks, retail stores, janitors, and cleaning women.

Six-Day Shifts Some Places.

Many regions have insisted, he said, that exempted persons be required to work as nearly 48 hours a week as possible, on six-day shifts, or have their working hours redistributed, as in the case of retail stores, to give better community service.

Blanket exemptions covering all employes have been granted, he said, only where the total number was fewer than 20, or where interchange between departments was not possible, or where the number of workers per occupation was small.

Office staffs of factories have been considered as separate units.

Exemptions have been granted, Spencer said, where some employes cannot be shifted, or enough work scheduled for a 48 hour week, and where no other employment opportunities for certain workers exist. Seasonal workers have been exempted if they work an average of 48 hours a week during the year.

No Criminal Penalties.

Spencer warned that firms which do not comply with his order are subject to withdrawal of government contracts and loss of other government services such as the USES, but that there are no criminal penalties. Those who remain on the shorter week will not be permitted to add to their working forces and must confine hirings to replacements, he said.

"Most areas to which the 48 hour week has been applied," he said, "agree it has been most effective in reducing future labor demand rather than by obtaining the immediate release of workers. Detroit estimates such reductions at 12,000 to 20,000 workers. It also estimates that 587,920 workers are on a 48 hour or longer week, while only 45,432 are on a shorter week, but that the majority of these work more than 40 hours.

"Chicago must provide 121,000 persons for selective service and war production needs by March 1. I hope the longer week will make unlikely the development of an acute labor shortage here."

Five Stands in Loop

Coins clicked merrily into the red Christmas kettles of the Volunteers of America and the Salvation Army yesterday in their initial appearance of the year. Five stands were set up in the loop, with a man and woman worker at each in their traditional uniforms, jingling Christmas bells.

One of the largest day-after-Thanksgiving crowds in Chicago's history thronged the sidewalks, tossing quarters as well as pennies into the kettles.

Proceeds of the drive will be used to send boxes to fighting men overseas, for winter relief, and for Christmas dinners for the poor. Because of food rationing, checks instead of baskets will be given this year.

U-Boat Sinks Colombian Schooner; 3 Lives Lost

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 26 (AP).—The sinking of the Colombian schooner Ruby by a German submarine was announced officially tonight. The cabinet held a special meeting earlier to discuss the sinking. Newspapers reported three members of the crew lost their lives and that survivors were taken to a hospital in Panama.

REPORT 48 HOUR WEEK PRODUCES LITTLE BENEFIT

The mandatory 48 hour work week imposed on the Calumet-Hammond industrial area last March has had little effect on the labor problems of small industries and has not increased the supply of highly trained workers necessary for large manufacturers, a survey of employers in the area indicated yesterday.

Replies of managers and owners in the district to questions concerning the war man power commission directive varied, but nearly all agreed that there has been no statistical proof that the long work week has eased the labor shortage proclaimed by the federal agency.

Assert Need Is for Skill.

A few business men queried said they believed the supply of unskilled labor had increased or that the demand for such labor had decreased. An official of a large steel company said its problem was one of skilled labor.

"A 48 hour work week may release a taffy puller from a candy factory," he said, "but a taffy puller is not much good around a blast furnace."

Officials of nearly all the large war plants said that it was impossible to determine whether imposition of the 48 hour week had increased their supply of common laborers, since these companies had been on the 48 hour week before last spring.

Ignored by Some Small Plants.

One official of a far south side booster club said some businessmen have ignored the WMC order ever since it was issued because they feared that they would be unable to meet the increased pay roll.

William H. Spencer, regional director of the WMC, said he considered the longer work week "most successful" as it had been administered in the Calumet area, but he added that there had been no studies made to determine its exact effect on labor supplies. His judgment was based, he said, on a satisfactory settlement of nearly all the labor problems presented to the WMC.

OPA Ceiling Suit Asks $4,854 of Fish Seller

The Booth Fisheries corporation, which has offices at 309 Jackson boulevard, was accused of charging $1,618.30 above ceiling prices from July 31, 1942, to April 12, 1943, in a judgment suit seeking $4,854.90 in triple damages which was filed yesterday in United States District court by the office of price administration. In a second suit brought in District court yesterday, the OPA charged Fred Willner, Inc., 659 Fulton street, with collecting $749.69 above wholesale fish price ceilings.

HEROIC MARINE TO BE THEATER OF AIR SPEAKER

A marine corps hero from Evanston, who has seen service in the South Pacific fighting zones, will be among the speakers at the Chicago Theater of the Air program at Medinah temple tonight. He is Pvt. Edward M. Green, who holds several citations. His father has been a marine 12 years.

Pvt. Green will speak on the post-broadcast portion of the program, following the presentation of Jerome Kern's operetta, "Music in the Air," starring Marion Claire with 100 supporting musical entertainers.

Thomas L. Thomas and Ruth Slater will be other soloists. The W-G-N orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will play during the radio program and also during the post-broadcast entertainment, which is dedicated this week to friends of the Chicago Music Festival. Philip Maxwell, director of the festival, will be master of ceremonies of the post-broadcast program.

DETROIT TAKES LONGER WORKING WEEK IN STRIDE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 26 [Special].—Chester M. Culver, general manager of the Detroit Employers' association, tonight said the 48 hour week, which was imposed upon the Detroit area last April 1, has not worked to the disadvantage of employers.

Culver attributed employers' satisfaction with the longer work week to the attitude of Montague Clark, area director for the war man power commission, which administers the program. Culver said that in instances in which factories were not able to accommodate themselves to the 48 hour week, Clark has permitted them to work under the shorter schedule.

No Cost Increase.

"The longer week has not relatively increased the cost of production, nor has it been more expensive for employers to adopt it," Culver said.

Clark today said the 48 hour week in the Detroit area had resulted in the saving of more than 15,000 jobs since April 1.

"The net demand for workers by Detroit area employers has decreased by 15,000 to 20,000 as a result of the 48 hour week order," Clark said. "At the same time over-all employment in the area has increased."

Employment estimates showed there were 705,000 persons employed in manufacturing and 486,000 in nonmanufacturing in the area in March. Present estimates are 780,000 in manufacturing and 500,000 in nonmanufacturing. About 85 per cent of the total number of workers already were on a 48 hour or longer week when the order was issued, and the present figure is around 95 per cent.

No Unemployment.

Paul Stanchfield, chief of the program requirements division of the Detroit office of the WMC, said no unemployment resulted from application of the order.

"Employers were not permitted to displace workers unless they could be immediately certified to other jobs by the United States employment service," he said.

"Most of the saving in personnel was accomplished by the nonreplacement of workers who sought releases for other employment, or who were drafted. Not more than 500 workers were abruptly displaced from their usual jobs."

FAMILY HOPES FINIS WRITTEN IN TYLER CASE

Jurors Omit Stigma of Suicide Verdict.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

In the old fashioned, red brick Kendall county courthouse in Yorkville, where the deeds of the pioneer Tyler lands in the fertile Fox river valley have been recorded since the days of the Civil war, what may be the last chapter in the strange case of Marjorie Tyler was written yesterday.

It was a chapter that left much to the imagination. Here in Chicago where Miss Tyler died Nov. 13 of illuminating gas, a coroner's jury composed of six eminent doctors, called her death a suicide on Nov. 17. Yesterday, six of her townsfolk from Plano returned a verdict which omitted the word suicide. Instead, they concluded that death resulted from "illuminating gas poisoning, possibly combined with some other substance."

The jury appended to its verdict this recommendation:

"We condemn the delay in obtaining medical assistance for the deceased as highly reprehensible and strongly urge that the charts and records of patients in hospitals be so cared for as to prevent changing of same or such substitution as took place in this case."

Family Hopes Case Is Closed.

Near-by in a spacious, tidy home in Plano, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Tyler learned of the verdict with fear that the case might be reopened again to the glare of the publicity which it has been accorded in the last few weeks. They expressed the hope that the carefully worded verdict had been nothing more than a gesture of neighborliness.

It might well have been as the same taciturnity of the verdict marked the talk of other townsfolk who gathered in small groups in the drug store, the barber shop, and the town coffee shop on Center street in Plano. Heads nodded as news of the inquest spread but talk was sparse.

Over in the barber shop, however, Edward Fritt, 71 years old, the town barber who knew Marjorie since she was "knee high to a grasshopper," held sway. But he spoke with due authority as he had been foreman of the coroner's jury at the inquest.

Sees "Plenty of Doubt."

"You see it was this way," he drawled as the snip-snip of his scissors kept up a rapid accompaniment. "There wasn't one of us on the jury who could rightly call it a suicide after we heard the evidence. We figured there was plenty of doubt and we thought that if the Tylers ever wanted to open up the investigation again, our verdict would allow it.

"I've known Marjorie since she was a little girl and she was smart as a whip. It doesn't seem to me that she would do a thing like that."

Fritt contended he had been unimpressed with the testimony of Dr. Victor Lands, resident physician at Wesley Memorial hospital, who admitted he had altered the records in Cook County hospital to protect the reputation of Miss Tyler. Lands discovered Miss Tyler lying across an ironing board over an open gas jet in her apartment across from the Wesley Memorial hospital.

Besides Dr. Lands, witnesses included Dr. A. E. Lord, Plano physician; Dr. Raymond W. McNealy, chief surgeon at Wesley Memorial hospital, who employed Miss Tyler as his private secretary, and Mrs. Mary Agnes Kokes, who lives in an apartment at 223 East Superior street above that occupied by the dead secretary.

Tylers in Plano Since 1852.

The Tyler name in Plano needs little protection. In the Plano cemetery where the body of Marjorie lies beneath a mound of withered wreaths, a monument to the pioneer Tyler family pierces the trees. Back in 1852, Orin Tyler came and settled on rich farm lands. There are townsfolk who remember.

Dr. Lyman Perkins, a balding, bespectacled man of 60 who has practiced medicine for 25 years in Kendall county, sat late in his coroner's office in Yorkville last evening. Perkins had demanded an investigation of Miss Tyler's death in her home town.

"I had my convictions and I had to stand by them," he said. "I've treated a lot of gas poisoning cases and I know a few things about them. I wasn't going to throw up my hands and agree that Marjorie's death was simply that. There is something mixed up in it besides illuminating gas.

Mother Remains Silent.

"I tried to reach Mrs. Tyler before the inquest to assure her that she wouldn't have to appear but she wouldn't come to the phone and I can't say that I blame her."

Mrs. Tyler, a slight, gray haired woman with a determined politeness, again last evening refused to discuss the case. She ushered visitors with graciousness into her home but retired to the back of the house while her husband, an engineer in a plastic factory, met friends. He spoke calmly and said neither he nor his wife believed there had been any malicious circumstances surrounding his daughter's death.

There were pictures of the pretty, 28 year old girl thruout the house. One of her at the age of 8 in Buster Brown bangs stood on the old upright piano. The top of the keyboard was closed, an old fashioned mark of respect to the dead.

Mr. Tyler followed a visitor's glance. "Marjorie used to play fine," he said.

FATHER OF FIVE DIES IN FALL.

CONTROLER LOPS 10 MILLIONS OFF '44 CITY BUDGET

Requests of city department heads for $69,453,521 for operating expenses in the 1944 city budget have been pared to $58,980,919 by Robert B. Upham, city controler, it was announced yesterday as members of his staff prepared estimates to be presented to the city council at a meeting Dec. 1.

The controler's estimate represents a decrease of $141,637 over the corporate purposes fund appropriation of this year.

The entire appropriation for 1944 expenditures is expected to total approximately $160,000,000.

The license committee headed by Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d] yesterday approved a subcommittee report proposing new or increased license fees that, it is estimated, will raise approximately $2,000,000 a year. The report next will be submitted to the full council.

New fees proposed include a tax of $100 a year on juke boxes, expected to produce $500,000; a $20 fee for photo-electric games, expected to net $20,000; fees of $200 for fixed location currency exchanges and $100 for mobile exchanges, expected to raise $30,000; a tax of $5 a chair for barber shops and a graduated fee for storage of flammable material.

Increased fees for tavern licenses, retail liquor package stores, bowling alleys, milk wagons, restaurants, open air parking lots, undertakers, grain elevators, and confectioners also were recommended.

2,600,000 CASES OF CANNED FOOD FREED TO PUBLIC

A government "contingency reserve" of 2,600,000 cases of canned string beans and tomatoes was released for sale to civilians yesterday by the war food administration, which said the cans will not be required for either the military services or for lend-lease distribution.

Office typewriters manufactured since 1935 may be rented without rationing certificates after Dec. 1, and office typewriters built before 1924 may be sold without restrictions, the office of price administration announced yesterday. Portable typewriters manufactured before 1941 also are being exempted from rationing, the OPA reported.

WOMAN RESUSCITATED.

Mrs. May Borue, 42 years old, was resuscitated by a fire department rescue squad last night after she had been found unconscious in the gas filled kitchen of her home at 1957 Washington boulevard. She was removed to County hospital.

LAWYERS ASSAIL ARBITRARY ACTS IN OPA HEARINGS

Commissioner Backs Suspension Edicts.

Reflecting a fear that the office of price administration is exercising summary authority which usurps functions of the courts, members of the Decalogue Society of Lawyers yesterday criticized the OPA's suspension hearings.

The criticisms were voiced in questions put to W. M. McFarland, OPA regional hearing commissioner, after he addressed a luncheon meeting of the society in the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street.

McFarland, in his address, said he considered critics of OPA "justified" in attacking parts of the act under which it operates. He deplored the act's lack of provisions for appealing the agency's decisions to the courts, making it necessary to take such appeals "thru the back door" by seeking injunctions.

Alternative to Seizure.

McFarland defended the authority of OPA to suspend dealers found guilty of violating rationing and price regulations. The OPA, he said, is the alternative to the dictatorial seizure of the distribution of commodities, which he contended the government could do under its war time powers, if it wished.

Suspension orders are not issued as penalties, McFarland said, but as "part of the machinery provided by the government to keep the distribution of rationed commodities in the proper hands."

McFarland's listeners, however, refused to accept this explanation of the way OPA operates.

One lawyer challenged the suspension orders as inflicting punishment and asserted that dealers are deprived of property because they are deprived of the right to continue in business.

Rap Rules of Procedure.

Other questioners criticized the OPA regulation providing that rules of evidence, prevailing in law and equity, should not control OPA hearings, and the practice of suspending an employer for an employe's violations even if the employer was unaware of the acts.

McFarland, in response to another question, said there had been a misapprehension that there is a limitation to the right of a respondent to be represented by counsel. On the contrary, he said, respondents are urged to have counsel. Likewise, he added, there are no restrictions on a stenographic record.

David F. Silverzweig, president of the society, presided at the meeting.

U. S. JURY OPENS QUIZ NEXT WEEK IN LIQUOR 'PLOT'

United States Atty. J. Albert Woll said yesterday the federal grand jury next week will sift evidence "of what appears to be a conspiracy or a concerted effort by firms and individuals to create an artificial liquor shortage here."

It was learned that 14 subpenas had been issued for appearance of witnesses before the jury.

Announcement of the inquiry followed a recent disclosure by E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, that there is no shortage of liquor in the Chicago area. Yellowley said that at the present rate of consumption there is enough liquor in bonded warehouses to last for five years.

BLAMES 48 HOUR WEEK IN CHICAGO ON SLOWDOWNS

Deadline Tomorrow

The contest in which THE TRIBUNE offered a $500 prize and 10 $50 prizes for the best letter suggesting ways and means to increase war production in the Chicago area plants closes at midnight tomorrow. All letters postmarked before that hour will be considered. Several hundred have been received. Winners will be announced in an early issue.

Charges by loyal American members of local 998, United Automobile Workers union [CIO], that production in the big Chicago Studebaker war plant has been slowed down by communist dominated officers of the union were spotlighted yesterday from two sources:

1. William H. Spencer, regional director of the War Manpower commission, said restriction of output and resulting overemployment in the battle to keep up war production largely were responsible for the placing of 27,000 firms in the Chicago industrial area on a 48 hour week.

2. Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] told congress that the government has received "but a fraction" of what it should have received for the money spent on war orders. He charged the administration with wasteful spending on war contracts and failure to control prices and wages, as directed by congress.

Slowdowns Widespread.

"Mal-utilization of labor in Chicago area plants, including war factories, has a direct relation to the application of the 48 hour week here," Spencer said. "There are a number of instances of such misuse of time and effort. If we had better conditions here, with no stoppages and a high morale, we wouldn't need the 48 hour week.

"If workers here had the sense of war urgency, which exists in other communities, production would be at a higher rate. But we don't work as hard here as they do on the west coast and some other parts of the country. We have a sense of security, rather than a sense of urgency, that keeps employes from achieving top production.

"Chicago's production is not as good as it is in other places. It is adequate only as the workers believe it to be adequate, but below par by comparison.

Blames Management, Too.

"Management and labor appear to be about equal in the matter of urgency thruout the midwest. Neither appears to realize that the demand for raw material is one we must work harder to meet."

Spencer would not discuss the Studebaker plant specifically, explaining he had not been asked by either management or labor to step in. He indicated he would do so if invited.

As an example of the waste he condemned in congress, Rep. Hoffman cited conditions at the Studebaker plant. He said THE TRIBUNE articles have shown that "Communists are slowing down production at least 30 per cent in war plants in the Chicago area." He continued:

"The government, because of the contracts it makes with war industries, pays for this idle time and it pays the industrialist a profit on the time lost—the cost of which, thru cost plus contracts, goes into the price paid."

BODY OF WISHON, HOLDUP SLAYER, CLAIMED BY KIN

Relatives yesterday claimed the body of Ernest Wishon, 38 years old, who died in the electric chair in the county jail at 1:10 a. m. yesterday morning for the holdup slaying of Joseph Schulte in his jewelry store at 3155 Harrison street. The attempted holdup and murder took place last June 28.

Wishon went to his death calmly, according to Warden Frank Sain, leaving a note with an excerpt from the 23d Psalm. His last visitors Thursday afternoon were two sisters from Rolla, Mo., where his mother and family live. Wishon's conviction had been upheld by the Illinois Supreme court and a last minute attempt to stay the execution from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals failed.

LINA ROMAY.

Los Angeles, Nov. 26 (AP).—Lina Romay, 21 years old, singer with Xavier Cugat's orchestra and daughter of Porfirio A. Romay, attache of the Mexican consulate, was married last night to John Lawrence Adams, 25, Los Angeles investment broker.

Guests at the civil ceremony included Col. Vincente Peralta, consul-general and Senora Peralta; Consul Manuel Aguilar and Senora Aguilar; Mr. and Mrs. Cugat, and Adolfo de la Huerta Jr., son of the late Mexican president.

The couple is planning a church wedding and a honeymoon in New York City when the bride completes her work in a motion picture.

EAU CLAIRE ARMS PLANT WILL END WORK IN MONTH

Manufacture of Tires in Spring Seen.

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 26 [Special].—The Eau Claire ordnance plant, which at its peak production of .30 caliber ammunition last summer had more than six thousand persons on its pay roll, will wind up its operations as a munitions plant during December, according to an announcement made here today by Capt. M. M. Mason, commanding officer of the plant, and H. O. Hutchens, factory manager for the United States Rubber company, which has been operating the plant.

Tire Production Seen.

Operations are expected to terminate Dec. 27, it was said.

Hutchens announced the actual conversion of Eau Claire unit of the ordnance plant [the former United States Rubber company's Gillette tire plant] to tire manufacture will get under way within the next two weeks and that expectation was that the plant "will be in a position to start production of tires next spring."

Announcement the ordnance plant would be closed down some time this year and converted back to the production of tires was made some time ago, but no definite date or schedule was set.

More Employes Needed.

Altho not making a detailed statement of what was to come, Hutchens said that when the tire plant gets going "we will need all the former rubber workers and several hundred people in addition for operating the plant."

The peak working personnel at the tire plant before it was converted to ordnance in July, 1943, was 2,600 and Hutchens' statement is taken to indicate the company is planning on a much larger production schedule than before.

HERE IS PICTURE OF CANADA IN 5TH YEAR OF ITS WAR

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 26.—The royal Canadian mounted police and the army's provost corps have been conducting a series of raids to catch draft dodgers. Both organizations threaten bigger and better round-ups of the evaders.

Mounties and military police have been swooping down on amusement centers in Quebec and Montreal, detaining an average of 100 young men in each swoop and prosecuting about a fourth of them on charges of failure to report for military duty or failure to keep registrars posted on changes of address. The Red Coats have investigated 14,000 draft dodgers in the French province of Quebec this year and the policemen in khaki, who also arrest the A. W. O. L., have been nabbing about 400 a month.

In the meantime, Canadians continue to boast that 90 per cent of their fighting services are manned by volunteers, notwithstanding the fact that the draft by itself does not conscript men for overseas duty. From its population of 11½ millions, Canada has more than 70,000 in the navy, 470,000 in the army, and 200,000 in the air corps. In the home guards are 72,414.

Call Up Married Men.

This is about one man in the services for every 15.5 population. The United States is raising a military force of 10 millions from a population of 130 millions, about one in uniform for every 13 of its population. The American draftee is available for service everywhere, including the war against Japan, which is receiving little attention from Canadians.

Canada, in its fifth year of the war, now is calling up for service married men ranging in age from 18½ to 30 years, regardless of whether they are fathers. Single men from 18½ to 41 are being drafted.

Volunteers are heavy, according to young married civilians interviewed casually here and in Montreal and Quebec, because there is a stigma attached to refusal of foreign service. The draftees who have declined shipment abroad have been dubbed zombies.

For the army only there were 55,188 volunteers in the first nine months of this year, the latest figures available here. In addition, 29,602 were drafted. Of these 4,564 volunteered for general service and the others became home guard soldiers.

Home Guard Size Reduced.

The size of this home guard is being reduced by discharging the disqualified. Two divisions were disbanded this year. It has been announced that the army as a whole has passed its expansion stage.

Aside from the loss of more than 2,000 Canadians shortly after they landed at Hongkong on Christmas day, 1941, and the disastrous Dieppe raid, the Canadians saw little fighting in four years of war. Of two corps overseas, one division was in Africa and Sicily and was joined in Italy a couple of weeks ago by at least one more division. Others have been growing older standing guard in Great Britain. The Canadian air force and navy have been active and have been credited with valorous performances.

On the whole, however, thoughtful Canadians say that the blood, sweat, and tears are still ahead. Others, including politicians and newspapers, are devoting many words to post-war plans as if peace were in sight.

And the mounties and MPs raid dance halls for draft dodgers. The socialists plot to communize all business and industry. Politicians warm the hearts of the citizenry with talk of post-war prosperity. And hospital ships are returning with sick and wounded. That's Canada in its fifth year of the war as scanned in a two weeks' visit.

MUSTERING OUT BENEFITS OF 7 BILLIONS ASKED

Four Bills Go to Both Houses for Action.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—Congress got a 7 billion dollar program today for financial aid to demobilized service men and women. It was introduced after President Roosevelt urged such action.

It calls for as much as $300 mustering out pay on leaving the service; $15 to $25 a week unemployment compensation, depending on the number of dependents, if without a civilian job at any time during the first 15 months after leaving the service; and social security credits, based on pay of $160 a month, for time spent in the service.

Four Bills to Congress.

The program was introduced in four separate bills. Identical measures covering unemployment compensation and social security credits were introduced in the senate by Senators Robert F. Wagner [D.,N.Y.] Walter F. George [D., Ga.], and Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], acting jointly, and in the house by Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the ways and means committee.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] of the house military committee introduced bills providing for mustering out pay. May said the plan had the backing of the White House.

President Roosevelt urged in a message last week that congress provide now for financial aid to those leaving the armed services.

All Below Major's Rank.

Under the May-Barkley plan, mustering out pay would go to all personnel below the grades of major in the army and lieutenant commander in the navy. It would be $100 for less than four months' service, $200 for four to six months' service, and $300 for six months or more service.

The program of unemployment compensation calls for $15 a week for single persons, with an additional $5 a week for a dependent wife, and $2.50 for each child, up to a total of $25 a week. It would be handled thru the social security board coöperating with state unemployment agencies, and would be denied to those refusing "suitable employment."

The social security provisions would have the effect of bringing under old age and survivors insurance thousands of service men and women who were not covered in civilian life. For those who were covered while civilians, the effect would be to increase the prospective amount of the coverage.

Cost Only Approximate.

The estimated 7 billion dollars cost of the over-all program is an approximation. Sen. Wagner said it is impossible to forecast with accuracy the cost of unemployment compensation and social security provisions since there is no way of knowing how many may need unemployment payments. But he said the cost should not be more than the cost of "running the war for about two weeks during the present fiscal year." This would be about 4 billions.

May made no estimate of what sum would be required for mustering out pay. With 10 million eligibles getting $300 it would be 3 billions.

FARMERS FAVOR MacARTHUR OR DEWEY IN POLL

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 26 (AP).—The nation's farm vote would favor either Gen. Douglas MacArthur or Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York over President Roosevelt if the Presidential election were being held now, according to the December nation-wide poll conducted by Successful Farming magazine.

The President was given relatively strong support by farmers outside the 13 middle west states, but in the farm belt his supporters were definitely in the minority.

The farmers voted as follows on the three poll questions [all figures in per cent]:

President Roosevelt Against Gov. Dewey.

	Roosevelt.	Dewey.	Undecided.
All farmers	38	46	16
Midwest farmers	29	58	13
Other farmers	45	36	19

President Roosevelt Against Willkie.

	Roosevelt.	Willkie.	Undecided.
All farmers	40	40	20
Midwest farmers	36	43	21
Other farmers	43	38	19

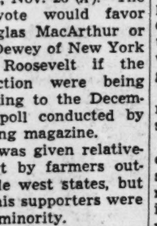
President Roosevelt Against Gen. MacArthur.

	Roosevelt.	MacArthur.	Undecided.
All farmers	37	46	17
Midwest farmers	31	56	13
Other farmers	41	38	21

The poll showed Wendell Willkie would stand a 50-50 chance of getting a majority of the farm vote if he were running a second time against Roosevelt.

EDISON NAMES DEMOCRAT FOR SEAT IN SENATE

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 26 (AP).—Gov. Charles Edison today appointed Arthur Walsh, 47 years old, of South Orange, executive vice president of the Thomas A. Edison, Inc., industries, as United States senator to succeed the late W. Warren Barbour.



Arthur Walsh.

Like the governor, who is on leave as president of the company, Walsh is a Democrat. Barbour, who died Monday night in Washington, was a Republican.

Walsh will serve until a successor to finish Barbour's unexpired term is chosen in next November's election. The term will expire in January, 1947.

Victims in Ohio Farm Slayings

Disputes Are Clews

Washington Court House, O., Nov. 26 [Special].—Convinced the killer of the McCoy family was known to his victims, authorities tonight sought for questioning several persons with whom the family had had business disputes.

A formal verdict of murder was announced in the deaths of the three, Elmer McCoy, 59, prominent farmer and hog breeder; his wife, Forrest, 64, and their daughter, Mildred, 22, a high school teacher. They were shot to death Monday night.

Prosecutor John B. Hill expressed the view the crime was motivated by revenge. He said a search was being made for four men who had been tenants on one of McCoy's farms in recent years and with whom he is known to have had altercations.

"He couldn't get some of his help to do the work the way he wanted it done and always was advertising for tenants," Hill said. "We have been told by members of the family that two men who formerly worked for McCoy had threatened bodily harm. It was known he carried a revolver."

WILLKIE BRIBERY CHARGE AROUSES 1940 DELEGATES

Lyons Asks Inquiry to Thwart Repetition.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The inside story of the dealing which swung the 1940 Republican nomination to Wendell L. Willkie, as revealed in a new book by a former mayor of Akron, O., yesterday stirred delegates to the 1940 convention.

Book stores, besieged with inquiries about the volume, explained that it will be available here in about a week.

"One Man—Wendell Willkie" is published by E. C. Rayner Publishing company, 17 East 42d street, New York City. The author is C. Nelson Sparks, intimately acquainted with Willkie for 10 years in Akron, and who had an important role at the 1940 convention.

"The Republican national committee should investigate Sparks' charges of 'a roomful of money' and other plotting," said Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, choice of the regular G. O. P. organization for United States senator.

Recalls Telegram "Blitz."

"This should be done by a committee representing all of the 1940 potential nominees.

"The American people should be informed of the findings, so that it can't happen again in 1944. If the charges are true, they violate every principle of American decency. Well do I remember the propaganda blitz that flooded the convention floor with thousands of Willkie telegrams."

Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, said:

"Mr. Sparks has made some serious charges and appears to have supported them with adequate documentation. Since they have a bearing on the action of the 1944 convention, they should be examined and appraised by every Republican, together with any defense that may be made. The accusations cannot be lightly disregarded."

Challenge Up to Willkie.

Circuit Judge Julius Miner, another 1940 delegate, said the challenge lies at Willkie's feet, while the nation waits to see whether he picks it up.

"Bribery is too serious an offense to be brushed aside with a refusal to comment," the jurist said. "It reflects upon the integrity of the entire convention. The burden now is upon the accused to meet the charges."

Following are comments of other 1940 delegates:

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude: "The new account supports my suspicion from the start that Willkie was not a Republican. I never was fooled by him, and I never voted for him, altho the final 'bandwagon' ballot shows me recorded for him. At Philadelphia I attended a Willkie meeting and heard him place a figure on his 'donations' which I firmly believed to be incorrect. If he wants to run on the Democratic ticket that will be proper."

Demands Sincere Candidate.

James S. Kemper, nationally known insurance executive, who was a Willkie leader in the 1940 delegation: "The Sparks story is interesting, but it seems to me it is pretty much a case of water over the dam, or, as Churchill would put it, water under the bridge. In my opinion the 1944 convention will consider only candidates who are as sincere as they are capable and who can be depended upon to support the ticket if they do not happen to be chosen on the concluding ballot."

State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder, who is expected to be a 1944 delegate, said the evidence should be considered at the convention along with all other recently accumulated material on Willkie.

ASKS CONGRESS PROBE OF 1940 WILLKIE 'DEALS'

Rankin Demand Wins House Applause.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—A congressional investigation into charges that backers of Wendell L. Willkie "bought" delegates to obtain his Presidential nomination in 1940 was demanded on the house floor today by Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.]. The suggestion brought applause from both Republican and Democratic congressmen.

The charges were made in a newly published book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," by C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., and campaign manager for Frank Gannett at the 1940 Republican convention in Philadelphia.

Used "Roomful of Money."

Sparks, who was an intimate friend of Willkie for 10 years, alleges in the book that Willkie forces bought delegates with a "roomful of money" and charges that a Willkie worker offered him a "lot of money" for Arizona's delegation, which was pledged to Gannett.

Declaring the charges should be investigated at once, Rankin suggested the inquiry be undertaken by the senate, because, he said, the book "refers to certain senators who were leading candidates for the Presidential nomination and were victims of the Philadelphia debauchery."

Terming Sparks' book "an expose of the criminal rigging of the Republican convention," Rankin said "it reveals the greatest saturnalia of fraud, bribery, and corruption in the history of American politics —one that makes the Teapot Dome scandal look like a Sunday school affair."

Politics at New Low.

"If these revelations are permitted to go unnoticed by the congress of the United States," Rankin told the house, "it will be notice to the world that political morality in America has degenerated to the vanishing point."

Rep. Donald H. McLean [R., N. J.] asked Rankin whether his remarks were not based on "partisan prejudice." The southern Democrat replied they were not and said the charges themselves were made by "a leading Ohio Republican"—Sparks.

The exchange between Rankin and McLean was abruptly cut off when Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] remarked that "Friday is not a proper laundry day."

COWLES DENIES ANY LOAN FROM THOMAS LAMONT

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 26 [Special].—John Cowles, publisher of the Minneapolis Star-Journal, today denied a statement made by C. Nelson Sparks in his newly published book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," that Thomas Lamont, head of the Morgan banking house, lent or arranged a loan to him to complete purchase of the paper here. The quotation from the book was published yesterday in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Cowles said that at no time has Lamont "either directly or indirectly loaned a cent either to me personally or to any member of the Cowles family or to any of our companies, nor has he ever 'arranged' any such loan."

"Never Heard from Hopkins."

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 26 [Special].—Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, said here today he never has received a letter in his life from Harry Hopkins and had never met Hopkins.

Dr. Lee made this statement when informed that C. Nelson Sparks, in his book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," quoted a letter claimed to have been written by Hopkins to Dr. Lee in which Hopkins pledged coöperation in an alleged effort to aid Willkie obtain the Republican nomination for President in 1944.

Dr. Lee added he had never heard of Sparks and that he was at a loss to understand how his name had been used in the book.

TROOPS DEMAND TO HEAR FOES OF F. D. R. IN '44 RACE

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 26 (AP).—The editors of the service newspaper "Stars and Stripes" today were wrestling with the toughest problem they have encountered in presenting the news to American soldiers and sailors overseas.

Troops overseas probably will have an opportunity to cast absentee ballots. They already are demanding information about candidates, party programs and controversial issues.

They already have made it plain that they want a complete and unbiased coverage. They don't want to hear only the administration point of view.

Space a Great Problem.

So that means giving equal space and prominence to the critics of the administration.

To publish all the millions of words of campaigning that will be written and spoken taxes the facilities of a full sized metropolitan newspaper in America. "Stars and Stripes" in most theaters is a four page daily with five short columns per page. Obviously it cannot print everything that is written and said.

By way of meeting the physical problem of space Capt. Robert Neville of New York, editor in the Mediterranean theater, plans to have two trained army correspondents in America cover the campaign thru special cable and radio facilities.

Then comes the difficulty of squeezing the available wordage into the small paper—which, by the way, reaches even the very front lines and is regarded as the soldier's gospel..

Criticism of F. D. R. Banned.

Neville plans to quadruple the paper at least once a week and print a "battle page," putting statements of the opposing candidates side by side.

"Stars and Stripes" editorials generally are avidly read by the troops, but there will be no editorial comment on the campaign, Neville said.

President Roosevelt, as commander in chief, is the superior officer of every man in uniform, and army regulations forbid criticism of a superior officer.

At the same time, however, there is a widespread belief that the President will be a candidate. Can "Stars and Stripes" print any letters from soldiers that criticize either the President's handling of domestic issues or the administration's conduct of the war?

Try to Give All Sides.

Technically, no, Neville said, but in that case how is it to avoid the suspicion that the service newspaper—which is a military organ just as an anti-aircraft battery is a military organ—is not acting as a propaganda channel for the administration?

The soldiers and sailors will have to decide their vote mainly on what they read in "Stars and Stripes."

Neville said: "We're going to do our level best to give them all sides of every question, but I'll admit we don't know just yet how that's to be done."

House to Open Hearings Dec. 3 on Bond Ad Bill

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The house ways and means committee today called public hearings to begin Dec. 3 on legislation providing for a program of government financed war bond advertising in small newspapers. The senate approved a 15 million dollar bill for this purpose last week after reducing the outlay from an originally proposed 30 million maximum and eliminating metropolitan dailies from the plan.

MRS. ORA LEE BAILLIE.

Mrs. Ora Bamford Anderson, 48 years old, 661 Sheridan road, yesterday made a belated effort to collect from her former husband, Arthur A. Bamford, an advertising executive whom she divorced in 1920, the money she spent in supporting their daughter.

Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court that when the couple was divorced the wife waived alimony but that Bamford was directed to pay a sufficient sum for the support of their daughter, who was then 1 year old. Twelve years later, he said, Bamford paid Mrs. Anderson $125 and now she is asking an additional $10,140. Eisenman said the sum was figured on the basis of $10 a week expended on the daughter for 12 years and $15 a week for five years. The daughter, now Mrs. Ora Lee Baillie, 24, was in court with her mother.

Bamford, who lives in Florida, was not in court, altho Eisenman said he had been served in the case. Judge Sabath continued the hearing to Dec. 17 when he will consider a motion to enter judgment against Bamford unless he defends the action.

VOTING BY PROXY LATEST IDEA FOR SOLDIER BALLOT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—An attempt to eliminate a proposed federal war ballot for men and women in the service and to let them designate a proxy back home for next year's Presidential election was launched today in the senate.

It was the newest attack against the Green-Lucas bill, which provides for ballots to be cast at the war fronts under the general supervision of a federal ballot commission.

Would Send Sealed Votes.

The new bill, sponsored by Sen. John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], would permit military personnel to mark their choices for President, Vice President, senator, and congressman on a special blank and send it sealed to a friend or relative at home, who would cast the ballot on election day.

[An Associated Press story from Naples yesterday said that troops overseas already are demanding information about candidates, party election programs, and what is being said on controversial issues. The service newspaper, Stars and Stripes, is working on the problem of giving this news as adequately as space limitations permit.]

Retains Commission Idea.

Danaher retained, under another name, the war ballot commission of two Republicans and two Democrats proposed in the Green-Lucas bill. He provided, however, that the names of 10 Democrats and 10 Republicans be submitted to the President by party leaders as a list of eligibles for appointees.

The commission would have no power over the proxy votes except to report to the navy or war secretary any evidence it finds of election irregularities.

Hear Nazis Balk at Going to Russia; 45 Are Killed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 26 (AP).—The "Free Danish" News service today said five German officers were executed and 40 soldiers were killed subsequently in an exchange of gun fire with sentries and SS [elite] guards at the Copenhagen artillery barracks when they refused to go to the Russian front recently.

Sure Thing

Here's a good "catch" bet. Jane and I were having lunch together and she'd unwrapped a package to show me her new pair of gloves. The string was lying on the table. I picked it up and draped it across her water glass. "Bet you can't pick up the ice cube from your glass of water with that string, without making any loops in the string or without touching your hands to the ice," I said.

"I'll bet I can," I offered. "Bet you a box of candy."

"Andes candies?" she asked.

I nodded.

Jane sighed. "You're talking about my pet weakness," she said. "It's a bet."

So I did the trick—and won a box of delicious Andes candies. They're my favorites, too.

Like all good tricks, it's simple. Lay the string across the top of the glass so it touches the ice. Then pick up the salt cellar and sprinkle a little salt over the ice and string. It won't help the taste of the water, but it'll enable you to win your bet. The ice cube freezes to the string and all you have to do is lift the string from the glass. Maybe you can win a box of Andes candies, too.

EISENHOWER'S 'PATTON STORY' TOLD TO SENATE

'I Reprimanded Him for Slapping Soldier.'

Demands Proper Amends.

"Further, I told him that he would necessarily make, on his own initiative, to the individuals involved, amends, and if necessary, take the necessary steps to make proper amends before his whole army.

"I also told him that I would reserve decision affecting his relief from command of the army until I could determine the effect of his own corrective action."

Eisenhower said the problem before him then was the question of whether the incident as reported was sufficiently damaging to Patton and his standing in the army to compel removal, "thus losing to the united nations his unquestioned value as commander of an assault force, or whether less drastic measures would be appropriate."

Here's What Patton Did.

"The following action was taken by Patton: He personally sought out the individuals involved and the persons who were present at the time the incidents took place. To these he made full apologies which it was reported to me were accepted. In addition, he visited each and every division in the 7th army and called together all officers to whom he registered his regret that he should have been guilty of any conduct which could be considered unfair or un-American. The officers of these divisions in turn relayed this message to the enlisted men.

"The measures taken by Patton were discussed by me with the three newspapermen who reported the incident, and apparently they were convinced that the measures taken were adequate in the circumstances. On top of all this I sent the theater inspector general to make a thoro inspection of the 7th army with the particular mission of determining whether or not there existed in that force any general resentment against Patton. The inspector general reported to me that, while there was more or less general knowledge that incidents of the character described had taken place, the men themselves felt that Gen. Patton had done a splendid over-all job and no great harm had been done.

Praises General's Ability.

"In this connection it must be remembered that, while the conduct of Patton in these specific cases was indefensible and resented by every officer who knew of it, Patton has in thousands of cases personally supported, encouraged, and sustained individuals. The net result was that thruout the Sicilian campaign the 7th army had a high morale. I personally supervised this investigation thruout and took those steps that seemed applicable in the circumstances because I believe that Gen. Patton has a great field of usefulness in any assault where loyalty, drive, and gallantry on the part of the army commander will be essential.

"Gen. Smith had a press conference yesterday with all of the representatives of the press and explained the essentials of the entire story as given above. This was done because of reports of the publication in the United States of exaggerated versions of the story.

Commends Newspaper Men.

"In this connection I commend the great body of American newspaper men in this theater because all of them knew something of the facts involved and some of them knew all including the corrective action taken and the circumstances that tended to ameliorate the obvious injustice of Patton's acts. These men chose to regard the matter as one in which the high command acted for the best interests of the war effort and let the matter rest there. To them I am grateful.

"Summing the matter up: It is true that Gen. Patton was guilty of reprehensible conduct with respect to two enlisted men. They were both suffering from a nervous disorder and one man in the case had a temperature. Following an exhaustive investigation, including a personal visit to Sicily, I decided that the corrective action as described above was suitable in the circumstances and adequate. I still believe that this decision was sound. Finally, it has been reported many times to me that in every recent public appearance of Patton before any crowd composed of his own soldiers he is greeted by thunderous applause."

More cases of Patton's assaults on enlisted men are coming to light. The victim in the case on which Eisenhower acted is an unidentified boy from North or South Carolina. Sen. Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] has demanded a court-martial of Patton for this act. Another enlisted man struck by Patton is Herman Kuhl of Mishawaka, Ind.

Calls Patton "Unfit."

Rep. B. W. Kearney [R., N. Y.], retired brigadier general of the New York National Guard, condemned Gen. Patton as "unfit and dangerous for field duty."

Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] said in the house that further controversy "can only undermine the morale of the American people."

Fish said he is a personal friend of Patton and "I believe him to be the greatest fighting man in the army of the United States. God knows we need fighting generals.

"Patton has apologized to the soldier, to the hospital staff, to his superior officers, and to the entire division," he said. "What more do you want?"

Patton Keeps Bible at Side, but Cusses, Says Chaplain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—A month after he had slapped a shell-shocked soldier in a hospital Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. sat in his headquarters in Sicily, a Bible at his right hand, and discussed the spiritual welfare of his troops with a clergyman from the United States, it was revealed today.

The story was told by Dr. William B. Pugh, chairman of the commission on army and navy chaplains, who returned last week from a three month tour of the war zones.

Patton Called Opinionated.

"Gen. Patton is an extremely self-opinionated man and I imagine he thinks he's right all the time," Dr. Pugh said. The general spoke highly of the work of army chaplains and declared that everything should be done to improve the mental outlook of soldiers, Dr. Pugh said.

"The general's conversation included quotations from the Bible and many good army 'cuss' words," Dr. Pugh said.

Dr. Pugh said the slapping incident was told to him in many different versions.

"While I saw no evidences of its effect in my short visit, the incident very probably affected the morale of the troops," he said, adding that chaplains with whom he talked were disturbed by the affair.

Finds Morale Is High.

Dr. Pugh said he was impressed everywhere he went by the ability of American youths to adapt themselves to strange lands and situations. "Their morale is at the lowest ebb when they are not fighting," he said.

"I don't think the Christian church has any finer record than that exemplified by the chaplains in this war," remarked Dr. Pugh, who served as a chaplain in the first world war. "The coöperation of ranking officers in the chaplains' spiritual work and the response of the troops is gratifying."

50,000 EVACUATED IN MEDITERRANEAN BY AIR AMBULANCES

ALGIERS, Nov. 26.—Fifty thousand patients have been evacuated from the front by air in the Mediterranean campaign, it was disclosed today by Lt. Gen. Alexander Hood, director general of the British army medical services.

"Evacuees now for the most part are loaded on 'empties' returning to rear sectors after having come to the front for other purposes," Gen. Hood said. He predicted an era in which all armies would have "complete plane ambulance facilities."

Gen. Hood said that in general the coöperation between British and American medical services in the field had grown so that "when the next front opens we will be able to do each other's work."

ALLIED BOMBERS RIP BURMA FROM TOP TO BOTTOM

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 26 (AP).—Allied bombers and fighters have cris-crossed Burma from top to bottom in the last week and even extended their raids to Thailand, Adm. Louis Mountbatten, allied commander in southeast Asia, announced today.

The thrust into Thailand was made last Saturday by American Liberators, which pounded several enemy airfields, destroying many aircraft and causing large fires.

From Monday thru Thursday fighter-bombers of the 10th United States air force, operating from India, raided in the Hurawng valley, strafing enemy supply rafts and troop concentrations. They destroyed an ammunition dump at Taihpanga. Earlier, United States medium bombers and fighter-bombers damaged railroad bridges north of Katha in central Burma and heavily bombed Myitkyina, a Japanese base in northern Burma. Yesterday United States bombers attacked airports in the Rangoon area and the coastal region of Akyab. Other recent allied targets have been Mandalay, nearby Sagaing, Prome, and traffic on the Irrawaddy river.

CHICAGO NURSE GETS WINGS AS HEAD OF CLASS

Bowman Field, Ky., Nov. 26 [Special].—Second Lt. Clemetta Evenson, 5049 North Damen avenue, Chicago, was awarded the coveted wings of a flight nurse today at graduation exercises for the seventh class of surgical technicians of the army air force school of air evacuation here.

Lt. Evenson tied with two of her classmates, one a Canadian, for top honors in the class of 94 completing the rigid course of training.

Two other nurses from the Chicago area were among the graduates. They are Lillian Kazmierczak, 12358 Ashland avenue, Chicago, and Margaret Parsons of Winnetka, Ill. Tomorrow all members will get their assignments to squadrons now preparing for action on the battle fronts.

REDS ASSAIL DE GAULLE ON COMMITTEE ROW

ALGIERS, Algeria, Nov. 26 (AP).—French Communists took a step toward an open break with the De Gaullists today by publicly accusing Gen. Charles De Gaulle of bad faith in promising the party places on the National Committee of Liberation.

Andre Marty, Communist leader, said De Gaulle had insisted on naming two Communists of his own selection—Fernand Grenier and Andre Mercier—to the committee instead of allowing the party to propose its own choices.

The French consultative assembly has seated Pierre Cot after a lively discussion of his policies when he was French air minister before the war. During the row Cot revealed for the first time that he supplied planes to the Republicans in the Spanish civil war, adding: "My only regret is that I didn't send more."

THINK NAZIS HIT VATICAN WITH ALLIED PLANES

New York, Nov. 26 [Special].—London aviation circles are of the opinion that the Vatican City was bombed by English speaking Nazi crews using captured allied planes and munitions, John MacVane, an NBC reporter, broadcast from the British capital today. MacVane said an article in the English magazine Aeroplane charges the Germans with bombing the Holy City with allied planes. It is known from articles in the Spanish newspaper, Informaciones, the aircraft magazine said, that the Germans have formed squadrons which are flying repaired British and American planes.

SENATORS VOTE TO END CURB ON CHINESE ENTRY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill repealing the 61 year old Chinese exclusion acts.

The measure substitutes for a ban on Chinese immigration the application of a quota under which 105 members of the race would be admitted annually and Chinese residents would be eligible for naturalization as United States citizens.

8TH ARMY GAINS AS PLANES RAKE NAZI RIVER LINE

Nazis Raid Convoy

ALLIED HDQ. IN ALGIERS, Nov. 26 (AP).—Thirty enemy planes attacked an allied convoy in the Mediterranean this evening and eight of the planes were shot down. Seven of the planes were shot down by coastal command planes and the other by the ships' anti-aircraft batteries. Damage to the convoy was negligible. Among the attacking force were Heinkel 177s, which are four-engined planes with only two propellers.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 26 (AP).—Hammered by day long relays of American and British fighter-bombers, Nazi troops have been repulsed in every onslaught against Gen. Montgomery's 8th army, which improved its five mile long bridgehead across the flooded Sangro river near Italy's Adriatic coast.

The enemy's fierce counter-attacks from high ground overlooking the 8th army's hard won positions slackened considerably, an official announcement said today. Enemy guns, emplaced in the hills northwest of the stream, continued to shell the 8th's trenches and supply lines, however.

Battle on 45 Mile Line.

The fighter-bombers raked enemy strong points from the town of Casoli, 15 miles inland, to the Adriatic. Areas around Lanciano and Fossacesia, a short distance behind this front, were particularly hit.

From the bridgehead to an inland point about 45 miles from the Adriatic the 8th army was pounding against the Sangro line or its approaches at almost all points.

Continued brisk ground fighting was reported near the mountainous middle of the Italian front, where 8th army units won new heights northwest of Castel di Sangro.

Artillery Duels on 5th's Front.

Activity on the United States 5th army front on the western half of the line was limited to two violent 15 minute artillery duels as rain and mist reduced visibility.

It was disclosed that the American 45th division, made up largely of troops from Colorado, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, and containing more than 1,000 southwest Indians, had been fighting with Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces since the landing at Salerno.

While generally unfavorable weather kept allied heavy bombers on the ground, a statement from Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz's air command disclosed that the three main railways on which the Germans depend for the bulk of their supplies at the Italian battle front have been closed to traffic for over a month by sustained bombing.

The three rail lines are the central Apennine route from Bologna thru Florence to Rome, the west coast line thru Geona and Leghorn to Rome, and the east coast track from Bologna thru Rimini and Ancona to Pescara.

In long range operations yesterday American Mitchells bombed Ancona, while R. A. F. Spitfires shot up Nazi vehicles near Dubrovnik, Jugo-Slavia. One allied craft was lost during the day.

5TH ARMY DRIVE A SAGA OF RAIN, COLD AND MUD

Toss Food Can by Can Over Swollen River.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 23 [Delayed].—The story of the American doughboys on the Italian front is one of torrential rains, mud, cold, swollen streams, washed out bridges, and almost unbelievable supply problems. They are faced by the slimy and rocky slopes of the Apennines, which are now capped with the first sprinkling of winter snow.

For a time their food had to be tossed can by can across 35 yards of swirling water when a temporary bridge over the upper Volturno river was swept away. Other supplies are being carried into the front lines on the heads of Italian women and on the backs of mules driven thru shell fire by native men and women often accompanied by their children.

25 Mules in Train.

It takes a train of 25 mules to supply a single unit. Each train takes nearly a full day to travel six or eight miles up the slopes and over crags and sticky bog. Rental of the mules costs $3 each a day, which includes the services of their owner as driver. Italian women are willing and able to carry two cases of rations on their heads for a dollar a day. As many as 25 women a day are used in this work.

Camp in Mud.

The fighting men in the lines in many cases camped with their pup tents resting in a sea of mud. The routes to reach them are churned up mazes of ruts and tortuous, marshy by-passes. Their sopping blankets can be seen hanging on the line along the way next to slit trenches and fox holes half full of water into which they plunge for protection during shelling and bombing raids.

The enemy's shelling of important road and bridge communication links has been constant both day and night. At the point on the Volturno where supplies had been tossed across, ingenious engineers later rigged the body of a truck trailer on a cable with pull ropes to haul it back and forth loaded with men and material for the forces in the front lines.

SOLDIERS' PAPER TELLS OF 'PATTON INCIDENT' TODAY

ALLIED HDQ., ALGIERS, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Stars and Stripes, United States' soldiers' newspaper, mentions "the Patton incident" for the first time in its weekly edition, out tomorrow.

It gives the story slightly more than half a column on page two under the single column heading: "Patton 'incident' facts revealed," and presents the account officially released at a press conference by an allied headquarters spokesman earlier in the week.

The issue also carries a follow story from Washington, D. C., quoting War Secretary Henry L. Stimson's remark that responsibility for disciplining Gen. Patton lay with Gen. Eisenhower and that he had nothing to say until he received Eisenhower's report.

The story then says: "There have been a few public demands for Gen. Patton's removal, but editorial comment in the press seems generally to incline to the view that the high ranking general's personal apology to his troops—an almost unprecedented occurrence—takes care of the matter."

ALLIED BOMBERS BAG 47 PLANES IN FORMOSA RAID

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied planes bombed the port city of Shinchiku on the northwest coast of Formosa on Thanksgiving day and destroyed 47 Japanese planes, a record number in this theater, it was announced here today.

Of the Japanese planes destroyed, at least 12 were shot down in aerial dogfights, while all the allied planes returned safely. The announcement said that all the bombs fell in the target areas and smoke enveloped the ground when the attackers departed.

[First announcement of the Formosa raid was made by the Tokio radio. Formosa, 90 miles off China and some 200 miles north of the Philippines, was one of the Japanese bases for air attacks during the invasion of the Philippines.]

100,000 JAPS IN CHINESE TRAP; 2 KEY TOWNS WON

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 26 (AP).—Chinese troops in a big enveloping move have poised a trap around 100,000 Japanese invaders of Hunan province's rice bowl, and recaptured two strategic towns—Tzeli and Shihmen—above Changteh, a Chinese spokesman said today.

A Chungking war report said 8,400 Japanese had been killed in battles mainly in the Tzeli and Changteh areas, since Nov. 19, against Chinese losses of 3,000 men. Changteh itself—northwest gateway to Changsha—was held for five days against fierce Jap attacks, including gas shells and incessant bombing, he declared.

Chinese counter-attacks recaptured Tzeli, 45 miles northwest of Changteh, and Shihmen, some 50 miles north of Changteh, the officer declared.

Dutch City Reported Being Emptied for Nazi Refugees

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Netherlands city of Utrecht, which had a population of about 165,000 before the war, is being emptied of its inhabitants to make room for Germans who have been bombed out of their homes, said the Vrij Nederland, Dutch newspaper published in London. Preparations already have been made to house approximately 100,000 homeless Germans, the paper reported.

RAID BERLIN 5TH NIGHT IN A ROW; U.S. RIPS BREMEN

Record Yank Air Fleet Hits North Sea Base.

LONDON, Nov. 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers blasted smoldering Berlin last night in the third heavy aerial blow on the German capital in five nights, after the greatest armada of United States heavies ever to take the air—with their escorts totaling close to 1,000 planes—pounded the German North sea port of Bremen and northern France targets in daylight yesterday. It was the fifth successive night of attacks on Berlin, Mosquito bombers having raided the city on two of the last five nights.

Germans Tell of Raid.

The German overseas radio said the R. A. F. bombers detoured via southwest Germany to reach Berlin in an effort to lead the Nazi aerial defenses astray and to avoid bad weather.

The broadcast asserted 15 R. A. F. bombers were shot down and that the list still was rising from heavy attacks by German night fighters along the route, and particularly in the Berlin area.

Claiming the attack was less effective than previous raids, the broadcast said that because of the useless lengthening of the route of approach the British planes carried smaller bomb loads.

Heavy opposition was encountered by the American fleet of Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 29 heavy bombers were lost, but 56 German planes were shot down.

Fighters Set Record.

The official announcement of the operations—which followed a heavy R. A. F. smash at industrial Frankfurt and a lighter Mosquito stab at fire blackened Berlin Thursday night—said the "largest force" of British based American heavy bombers ever employed in a daylight assault gave Bremen, an important industrial city of 375,000 people, its 107th raid of the war.

The bomber force which hit Bremen exceeded the previous record group, estimated unofficially at 500 or more, which pounded Wilhelmshaven on Nov. 3.

Of the 56 German planes shot out of the sky, escorting American and R. A. F. fighter planes set a new record by accounting for 36. The bombers got 20. The previous high for United States 8th air force fighters was 25 German planes.

One fighter pilot, Capt. Walter Mahurin of Fort Wayne, Ind., bagged three German fighters. This raised his total to 11, making him the leading ace of the 8th air force.

Attack in France, Too.

In widespread operations yesterday in addition to the Bremen smash, American Marauder medium bombers raided an air field and military objectives in the Pas-de-Calais area of northern France, while other British and allied bombers attacked targets near Cherbourg and fighters made supporting sweeps. Plane losses in these attacks were four medium craft and one light bomber, but five enemy planes were shot down.

London had its second night alert in succession last night, but the German raid was on a small scale. Bombs caused a few casualties in a residential section.

Berlin Death Toll Reduced.

AT SWISS-GERMAN FRONTIER, Nov. 26 (AP).—The bombings of Berlin spread chaos thru the city but the best available reports placed the death toll at around 3,000, considerably less than published Swedish reports, it was learned today.

U.S. BOOMERANG BOMBERS POUND FOE 100TH TIME

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 26 (AP). — The "Boomerang Bombers" have completed their 100th combat mission in the Mediterranean war theater and made good fully on their name. The title was given to a group of United States army Marauder bombers because of their ability to bring all their planes home from the most difficult missions.

Time after time the group's planes brought back their crews safely, sometimes on only one engine, from raids over Tunisia, Pantelleria, Sardinia, Sicily, Italy, and France. In more than 2,000 sorties, the group lost less than 1.4 per cent of its planes because of enemy action.

YANK SAYS NAZI AERIAL DEFENSE HAS LOST PUNCH

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, Nov. 26 (AP).—A Flying Fortress pilot who completed his tour of operations as a deputy commander of one of the groups in the heavy bombing mission today said that for the first time Germany was beginning to look defenseless against United States daylight bombing attacks.

"In the past six months things have changed plenty," said Capt. Robert O. Fricks, 25 years old, of Atlanta, Ga.

"When we first started going over, a mission to Paris was tougher than today's raid, which was supposed to be on one of Germany's most heavily defended cities. Enemy fighters were scarce and the flak [anti-aircraft fire] was not bad."

Meet Few Nazi Fighters.

All the bombers from this station returned safely [from Bremen] without a battle casualty. The crews reported moderate to intense flak around the target but said they encountered virtually no Nazi fighter opposition.

They described their escort of Thunderbolts and Lightnings, which went all the way to the target with the bombers, as the best they ever had seen.

Sky Full of Planes.

"What fighters there were did not come close to us, altho we saw a few lining up against the Liberators," said Lt. Thomas D. Sellers of Norfolk, Va., co-pilot of the "Little Duchess."

Group Comdr. Capt. Frank Chapman of Old Orchard Beach, Me., who flew in the lead ship, said:

SOLOMONS LACK GLAMOR GIRLS, EXPLORER SAYS

Service men in the Solomons may fall in love with the islands, but they certainly won't lose their hearts to the natives, Osa Johnson, the explorer, photographer, and author, said yesterday at the Executives club. She backed up her "word of comfort" to the girls the men left waiting for them with pictures of the islands and their people taken on trips she made with her husband, the late Martin Johnson.

Besides scenery, the islands also have gastronomical attractions, said Mrs. Johnson. In a discussion of the topic, "Tulagi and the Solomon Islands," she mentioned such delicacies as wild pig, turtle soup, steak, and eggs, breadfruit, pigeon, wild lemons, yams [that looked as long as baseball bats in the pictures], and pineapples.

To add to the paradise aspect are butterflies with 18 inch wingspreads and orchids growing both on trees and on the ground.

3 Negroes Steal Watch and Money from Student

Harold Tenenbaum, 21 years old, Kansas City, Kas., a student at the University of Illinois, reported yesterday to police he was robbed of $13 and a $50 watch by three Negroes in front of 1220 Columbia avenue.

LONDON RUBBLE OF AIR BLITZ ON EXHIBITION HERE

Co-operation of Allies Hailed by Briton.

Some of the rubble of the London air blitz of 1940-'41 is on display at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park as part of the British war exhibit which opened yesterday under the sponsorship of the museum and the British information service.

There is a charred beam from the lantern tower of Westminster abbey and a piece of marble sheared from the altar of St. Paul's cathedral. A tiny fragment of the house of commons serves as a memento of the day the Nazi bombers struck at the heart of the British parliamentary system.

From Liverpool, another blitzed city, is a book of admissions records from the Mill Road infirmary [a hospital]. The records cease abruptly on May 3, 1941, when a Nazi bomb plunged into the hospital.

Air Vice Marshal Speaks.

To mark the opening of the exhibit, British Consul Gen. W. H. Gallienne gave a luncheon at the museum attended by civic leaders and army and naval officers of the United States and Britain. The principal speaker was Air Vice Marshal MacNeece Foster, deputy head of the royal air force delegation in the United States.

He praised American-British cooperation. "Never before has there been such an example of coöperation and integration in the work of the military forces of two great nations," he said.

"The comradeship so dearly bought on the battle fields," he said, "may bind the destinies of our children together in a way we cannot anticipate."

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, president of the museum, thanked the British information service for its coöperation. Mayor Kelly was present but did not speak.

Hails Success Against Subs.

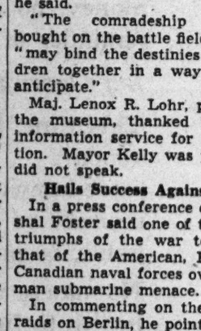
In a press conference earlier Marshal Foster said one of the greatest triumphs of the war to date was that of the American, British, and Canadian naval forces over the German submarine menace.

In commenting on the recent air raids on Berlin, he pointed out that whereas early in the war bombers dropped five to 10 tons of explosive per minute, the heavy concentrations of planes used today are unleashing devastation at the rate of 60 tons or more per minute. He praised the achievement of American airmen in their raids on Germany.

As to the future course of the present air blitz against Germany, Marshal Foster said that the rapid improvements, both in the techniques of offense and of defense, make it impossible to predict what the coming months will bring.

GERMAN THREAT TO RAZE FRENCH CITY REPORTED

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Swiss newspaper Journal de Geneve said today that Nazi occupation authorities have threatened to raze the ancient French city of Grenoble if sabotage continues there.



Theartened City.

The ultimatum was viewed here as an indication of Germany's course in retaliation against Chief of State Henri Philippe Petain's "sitdown strike" resulting from German refusal to allow him to promulgate a new democratic constitution for France.

Grenoble, a hotbed of patriot underground activities and sabotage against German war industry, is an Alpine valley fortress city on the Isere river about 60 miles southeast of Lyon.

LONDON STREET WALKERS POSE MAJOR PROBLEM

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Altho the military police have made great progress in breaking up love making in doorways and loitering on street corners, the problem of prostitution is still causing concern to both American and British authorities in Britain.

One of the difficulties in dealing with the hundreds of girls of questionable character who crowd London's West End nightly is that prostitution is not a legal offense in Britain and that known prostitutes cannot be arrested as such.

A further difficulty is that a charge of soliciting can be made to stick only if the man solicited makes a complaint and appears in court the next day or if the offense is witnessed by a police officer.

Other Charges Weak.

Girls may also be arrested on charges of vagrancy or "obstructing a footpath to the hazard of passersby," but these measures when resorted to bring only light fines.

Girls who admit themselves to be prostitutes on the government employment register, or are suspected of being prostitutes, escape military service or work in war plants. The official attitude is that to put them to work beside Britain's wives and mothers would inevitably lead to trouble. They therefore are left free to ply their trade.

"Amateurs" who have not described themselves as prostitutes sometimes are reported to the labor office if their credentials show they are not engaged in war work. Women without jobs who live outside of London are directed to return to their home towns.

Women Patrol Vice Areas.

The London metropolitan police department has assigned policewomen to patrol the vice districts, but their effectiveness is somewhat curtailed by a conspicuous blue uniform. There are in addition a limited number of plain clothes officers, both men and women, assigned to the work.

When American military police see girls loitering near a leave center, they tell them to move along under threat of calling the civilian police. When a soldier is found talking to a girl suspected of being a prostitute, the M. P. asks to see the soldier's pass and at the same time moves between the pair with his back to the girl, in the hope she will move away. Occasionally one of the girls clouts the officer on the back of the head with her purse and dashes off into the dark.

Women in Britain may be forced to undergo treatment for venereal disease if they are identified by two men whom they have infected. Two women were fined $12 each in Peterborough yesterday for failing to report to a clinic for examination after complaints had been made against them by American medical officers. There have been four such prosecutions in the last year.

BEYNON'S WIFE CHANGES PLEA; ASKS DIVORCE

Lt. Col. James Beynon, stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., told Judge Joseph in Superior court yesterday that for six years he had given his wife, Dorothy, 27 years old, 171 Prairie avenue, Wilmette, "every ground for divorce so that she would sue him."

"If that is the way he feels about it, Mrs. Beynon will change her suit from one for separate maintenance to one for divorce," Norman Becker told the judge after Frank Teed, Beynon's attorney, had attacked the court's jurisdiction in a separate maintenance action. "There isn't any doubt that the court has jurisdiction in a divorce action."

When the change in petitions was made, Judge Sabath awarded Mrs. Beynon temporary alimony of $200 a month for herself and her two children, Dorothy, 3, and James, 2. No date was set for a hearing on the divorce. Lt. Col. Beynon also admitted he was preparing to file a divorce suit in Rockford when served with papers in the separate maintenance suit Wednesday.

INDIANA PRISON FREES 10 FELONS ON COURT RULING

Warden Alfred F. Dowd released 10 more convicts yesterday from Indiana State prison at Michigan City as a result of a recent court ruling which invalidated a former practice of the state parole board. In the ruling, Judge Robert S. Baker of La Porte county Superior court held it was improper to declare parole violators delinquent before issuing a warrant for their arrest.

Warden Dowd said 40 other convicts will have their terms shortened as a result of the ruling, and 85 parole violators now in hiding or held in other prisons will never be obliged to return to finish their sentences.

In additon, 265 parole violators now will have only a few months or a few years to serve if they are caught, the warden said. In releasing the 10 men yesterday, Dowd said he acted on a ruling of Atty. Gen. James E. Emmert, based on Judge Baker's decision.

Bandit Car Crashes

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

A burst from a police machine gun last night killed the driver of a bandit car at Cermak road and Ashland avenue and sent it crashing into a telephone pole. Three other occupants were captured. All are Negroes.

The dead man was Eddie Shelby, 26 years old, 1347 West 13th street. The others are Red Morris, 19, of 1150 Roosevelt road; William Gray, 26, of 1438 West 13th street, and Eddie Combs, 36, of 1645 Washburne avenue.

The car, belonging to Samuel Matthew, 3550 Douglas boulevard, had been stolen earlier in the evening from a garage at 3914 West 16th street. Then the four Negroes held up Walter Rudnicki, bartender in a saloon at 2056 West 18th street, obtaining $40, a case of whisky, and a case of wine. Police said they also robbed taverns at 5451 Drexel avenue, 5159 Bishop street, and 5059 Wells street.

A police squad led by Detective Richard Folsom picked up the car, traveling north in Ashland avenue, at Pershing road. At 29th street the police car drew abreast. The bandits swerved into the police car and the driver thrust a gun thru a front window.

Couple Injured in Leap from Blazing House

Delmar McDaniel, 38 years old, a machinist, and his wife, Avie, 36, were injured early yesterday when they leaped to the street from the second floor of a burning rooming house at 2107 South Michigan avenue. The son, James, 18, was carried to safety by firemen. Other tenants in the building fled. The fire caused damage estimated at $200.

SAILOR RELATES SHOOTING BRAWL WITH TWO COPS

Howard Darnell, a sailor in boot training, told a Criminal court jury yesterday how he was threatened and then shot and wounded by two policemen who posed as FBI agents while off duty in a tavern at 2430 North Clark street early in the morning of Aug. 31.

The policemen, William Hogan and Joseph Murray, now under suspension, are on trial in the court of Judge Harold G. Ward on a charge of assault to kill. They have pleaded not guilty.

Darnell, who has recovered from the bullet wound above his heart, was unable to identify the policemen. Other witnesses in the tavern have named them as his assailants.

Sees Wife to Bus.

Questioned by Asst. State's Atty. James A. Brown, Darnell told how he had visited the tavern after spending the evening with his wife and placing her on a bus for her home at Medford, Wis. The sailor said he had been ordered to report to the Great Lakes Naval Training station the following day and had gone to the tavern to while away some time.

"I had two whisky sours," he said, "and played the 26 game twice. I asked the 26 girl if she would like a drink and she said she would. I turned back to the bar and then noticed a guy there wearing a badge [previously identified as Hogan].

"He said he was from the FBI and asked me, 'Where's your draft identification?'. I told him I was going into the navy and said to him, 'Where is your FBI identification? Show me yours and I'll show you mine.'

Describes Blow in Face.

"Then some one [previously identified as Murray] grabbed me from behind and the guy in front hit me in the face. I managed to break away and hit the man in front of me twice, knocking him against a table."

Darnell said the bartender stepped up and stopped the fight. He said after finding his watch he had dropped, he started to leave the tavern.

"I told the two men I didn't want any more trouble," Darnell resumed, "but they didn't answer. Then I picked up my bag and began to walk to the door. Before I came to the door, some one said, 'Halt.'

"I dropped my bag, lifted my hands and started to turn around. Then there was a shot."

Shot from 10 Feet.

"How far away was the man [identified as Murray] who fired the shot?" Prosecutor Brown asked.

"About 10 feet," Darnell answered, "The shot blinded me and I couldn't see the man who fired it."

Darnell said he fell to his knees and that the 26 girl helped him to a booth.

"Then one of the men [previously identified as Murray] came and said, 'Get away, let the —— die.'"

Darnell said that on the way to the hospital, the same man said, "I meant to kill you, you ——."

Police Sgt. Matthew Hayes testified that when he went to the North Chicago hospital, he saw Murray there. "I noticed his condition," he said, "he seemed somewhat intoxicated. I told him to surrender his gun."

Says Gun Unregistered.

Police Lt. James Frawley said that at the time of their arrest, the faces of Hogan and Murray were flushed and he smelled liquor on their breaths. He said he examined Murray's gun and found that one of the bullets had been fired. He said the gun was not a regulation one and had not been registered with the police gun bureau.

Lt. Frawley said both Murray and Hogan had ended their police work at midnight. They were assigned to the Sheffield district.

Sewer Worker Convicted in Counterfeiting Scheme

Joseph Piacente, 35 years old, 176 East 23d street, employed by a sewer contractor, was convicted yesterday before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe on a charge of possessing dies for counterfeiting 50 cent coins. Piacente denied possession of the dies. He said he had acted as a go-between for an acquaintance named Blackie and United States secret service agents who posed as purchasers. Judge Igoe set Jan. 7 for sentencing.

BARES 6 BILLION U. S. SPLURGE IN LATIN AMERICA

Sen. Butler Rips New Deal 'Candy Diplomacy.'

lack necessary military equipment or the money to buy it. The same dictatorships, run by military cliques, are using the war materials and the aid being extended them by the United States to perpetuate themselves in power.

2. Private enterprise in South and Central America is being forced out by the governments in power, who are eager to build competing plants and industries with gifts and loans from America, and American money is being used in planning future competition with this country.

Income Taxes Unnecessary.

3. Money and aid extended these nations by the United States makes unneeded the levying of income taxes in those countries and prolongs a policy of import taxation on United States goods.

4. Wage scales imported by New Deal agencies to the Latin American nations are higher than native scales, leading to unrest, strikes, jealousies, and the draining of labor from private industry.

5. The people of the 20 Latin American nations construe the good neighbor policy with its gifts and loans as an appeasement policy and treat it as such.

6. President Roosevelt gets the credit for the "good neighbor" policy, not the American people, and there is a definite feeling that the great expenditures will fall off when Roosevelt is no longer President, leading to a desire to get as much as possible now. Butler expressed doubt any real friendliness for the United States exists in Latin America.

7. Jealousies among nations are promoted by rivalry over which benefits most from the United States' spending, and the nations hold up American gifts and loans as examples to the British government, accentuating ill feeling among allied nations.

Give Little War Aid.

8. Contributions by the Latin American nations to the war are small and not proportionate to the amount of aid being given the nations, or to military expenditures being made there.

9. There evidently has been no assurance or planning that this country will have post-war use of air bases and other military installations constructed by the United States at great cost.

10. New Deal policies and personnel have been shifted to the Latin American scene, and the same ideas which have been found impractical in this country are being tried again in South and Central America.

In No Danger Now.

"Surely no one seriously believes any longer that there is danger they [the Latin American countries] will be attacked by Germany or Japan," Butler's report said. "Both our enemies have their hands far too full to waste men and munitions in even attempting to establish a beachhead that could not possibly be maintained."

He said the historically chief function of Latin American armies is to maintain government in power and that they have been an instrument of repression by Latin American dictators. America's policy helps to keep those dictators in power, he said, good or bad, "and most of them are bad."

The poverty of governments has prevented wars between Latin American governments, he contended, but warned that before long "most any South American country that cares to will be in a position to start something."

$500 a Pound for Rubber.

"It would be a sad thing if hemispheric solidarity should be turned into hemispheric chaos thru our gifts of arms," the senator commented.

He quoted an unidentified official of a Guatemalan rubber development corporation as his source for the statement that some rubber from that country is costing the United States $500 a pound.

Butler said Pan American Airline employes in South America gave him the facts on the case of the airplane engines finding their way thru lend-lease to the British owned Teca airline in Tegucigalpa.

The transfer of ownership of the subchasers to Cuba was one of the first things brought to his notice on the trip, he said. He termed the millions of dollars' worth of naval equipment "just a drop in the bucket" in comparison with other things he found.

In addition to questioning the advisability of extending military supplies in such quantity to Latin American countries, Butler questioned the value of all the aid programs.

Can Good Will Be Bought?

"After all," he said, "Latin America is not a major factor in this war. The paper declaration of war fights no battles in Italy, but there are several neutrals and belligerents whose action may be vital. If money can really 'buy' good will is not the good will of Turkey, Sweden, and Portugal, each strategically located, of infinitely more importance to us than all of Latin America?"

India might be helped, he said, and thus establish the key to Burma and China, with a small fraction of the money spent in South America.

He questioned further the matter of how well America's relations with Latin America will stand the "shock of the morning after, when we have finally decided to abandon this open handed largess."

Predicting "this nonsense will stop when we run out of money," he added, "and possibly it will stop sooner if the American bond buyer and taxpayer takes a sufficiently determined stand."

Difficult to Reform Nations.

Turning to the question of the benefit being derived by this country, Butler asked, "Just how much good will do we generate in Latin America by attempting to force them to make over their social forms and economic systems?"

"It is not easy to sell a notion like socialized agriculture," he said, declaring it was hard for the farm security administration to make much headway in this country "in its palmiest days."

"How much more difficult it must be to sell such an idea when it comes from a powerful and possible dangerous foreign nation," he said.

Other "notions" he listed as alien to Latin Americans include the American wage standards, and make-work projects such as featured by the WPA.

"No doubt they [the Latin American nations] will put up with most anything while we are footing the bill, but it seems equally probable that they will throw the whole collection of imported ideas out the window as soon as the spending stops," he said.

Activities by American agencies are all alike in one particular, Butler said—"they all involve the spending, lending, or other use of funds of the United States government."

In this respect he said, "they follow the typical pattern of New Deal thinkers, who seem to believe that any problem can be solved if only enough money is spent—money put up by American taxpayers. They are all attempts in one form or another to buy Latin American goodwill."

A Host of WPAs and AAAs.

While nonessential expenditures have been trimmed in this country there exists in Latin America "a host of little PWAs, WPAs, FSAs, and AAAs," which have been "spawned by the New Deal during the last two years," Butler said.

"It is clear that the New Deal program has been neither abolished nor adjourned, but merely transplanted to Latin America," he said. "The same departments and in many cases the same persons that directed the relief and reform agencies are active now in the Latin American program. Harry Hopkins, as chairman of the munitions assignment board, gives away the lend-lease materials; Howard Hunter and David Saposs, two of Hopkins' former righthand men in the WPA, have found new worlds to conquer in Latin America."

None Has Sent Troops.

The spending, he said, has helped American relations to some extent, but he said that while some of the nations have declared war, "none of them has sent troops."

The New Deal, he charged, never has been able to obtain agreement with its views "expect by buying it."

Butler, who made the trip thru the Latin American countries at his own expense, said the United States has adopted "candy stick" diplomacy in dealing with the 20 nations, 17 of which he termed dictatorships.

He suggested a policy be adopted which will attack the "fundamental evils" of ignorance, inefficiency, malnutrition, and disease, and that in such a manner the United States can assist in a solution of the Latin American problem and at the same time maintain good neighbor relations.

The greatest contribution would be provision of technical assistance, giving of advice, demonstration of improved methods, and loan of technicians and experts in all fields.

Some Progress Made.

The cultural and literary contact of the last few years already has had a favorable effect, and some private foundations, Butler said, have achieved tremendous results thru their work in stamping out disease. Education in some of the nations has made marked strides and there is a stirring "of progressive forces," in his opinion.

Promotion of sound enterprise instead of government enterprise was listed by Sen. Butler as another thing to be desired in the United States' relations with Latin America.

"Even dictators are not impervious to the force of economic and social movements," he said, "and it will be difficult to stand in the way of progress if some of their neighbors are benefiting from the steps I have outlined.

Urges Trial of His Ideas.

"To some these policies of mine may seem prosiac and unsensational. To them I answer, is it not worth a trial, before we bankrupt this country in trying to save the Latins? We cannot go on wasting our substance on foreign countries indefinitely, and we cannot help the Latin Americans unless they are willing to help themselves."

His plan, Butler said, is a much better plan than "the present naively conceived and badly coördinated program of boondoggling."

It could be carried on for a small fraction of the present cost of the good neighbor policy, he said, placing a tentative estimate of its cost at perhaps 50 million dollars a year.

RFC Unit Spends Billion.

The recapitulation of the 1941-42-43 cost of the good neighbor policy appended by Butler to his report includes expenditures, commitments, loans, credits extended, and purchases and expenditures in Latin America, or for Latin America in the United States. Items ranged from $3,000 spent for preparation of transcripts for radio broadcasts in Spanish and Portuguese, to an item of $1,001,361,060.05 which Butler says is the amount of RFC subsidiary purchases in Latin American countries thru May 31 of this year.

Additional commitments by the RFC and subsidiaries are listed at 1 billion dollars, a figure Butler says he obtained from Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce and head of the RFC.

"The United States, by means of gifts, grants, loans, subsidies, and premium prices paid and other forms of aid such as lend-lease, industrial development expenditures, construction of bases, spending of United States pay rolls in their countries, building plants, roads, and other facilities for them seems to be carrying on its tax burdened back the economy of all 20 Latin countries," Butler said in commenting on a table which his report contains, showing the comparative budgets, debts, and aid of the various countries.

Total Budget Is Billion.

The 1941 budget for all 20 Latin American countries was little more than a billion dollars, the Butler report said, or $8.55 per capita, while the United States budget for the same year was $461 per capita. The same per capita comparison for 1942 budgets, Butler figures, would give comparative figures of $12.50 and $762.

The aid extended to Costa Rica by this country amounts to approximately $200 a family. As a comparison, he said, American aid to China amounts to about 50 cents a person.

In a review of projects and impressions, country by country, Butler pointed to what he said were instances of lack of coördination in administering the spending of American money.

Excerpts from this section include:

In Costa Rica a business man complained he cannot hire workers to help run his business because the laborers all ran to American projects to work at five times the established local rate.

The governor of the Panama Canal said the elaborate spending now will mean additional spending will be necessary after the war to keep up standards.

This country immediately should negotiate a treaty to prevent any other power from using the Galapagos Islands in future years.

Defaulter Gets More Money.

Peru is in default of $81,600,000 of bonds, but in spite of "this default on private loans from United States citizens the United States Export-Import bank extended credits to Peru of 30 million dollars."

The Dominican republic was praised as coöperating 100 per cent with the United States, and Brazil's aid in the African invasion thru American use of Natal and Recife air bases was noted.

United States federal expenditures, loans, and purchases in Puerto Rico amount to more than 60 per cent of the total Puerto Rican income.

Inflation Started.

Butler contended the United States has bought "useless" islands and has "held out lend-lease largess in such splurging fashion that supplies have not been accounted for." In addition, inflation has been started by the spending, he said.

In this latter respect, Butler cited the example of Chile, where he said monetary and credit expansion has resulted in a 100 per cent inflation of prices since 1938.

"Chile is an example of the troubles generated by the overgenerosity of the United States," he said. "It illustrates the economic pressure our reckless spending is causing in most of the Latin American countries. Uncle Sam is considered the tailor of terror politics."

MOUNT PROSPECT WAR WORKER GIVEN AWARD BY TRIBUNE

The 16th winner of the Chicago Tribune War Workers' award, Edward G. Kessler, employed in the Chicago plant of the Douglas Aircraft company near Park Ridge, was presented with a gold and diamond pin during a ceremony broadcast last night from the studios of radio station W-G-N.

Presentation was made by Lt. Henry J. McTighe, army air corps bombardier. John D. Weaver, manager of Douglas' Chicago plant, and Kessler, who lives with his wife and three young children in Mount Prospect, also spoke.

Kessler, who has been helping build planes for seven years, suggested an idea for painting sheet aluminum stock before it is formed into parts. The idea, which has been adopted in all six Douglas plants, saves 4,151 work days a year in the Chicago plant alone. It also conserves paint and turns out a better product.

OPA PERMITS FOOD IMPORTS IF TOURISTS SURRENDER STAMPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The office of price administration, showered with complaints that food seized from travelers by custom collectors is spoiling in public buildings in border towns, today decided that tourists will be allowed to bring in food if they agree to surrender ration stamps within 20 days after entry. Many of the protests came from communities along the Mexican border last summer.

Gourmands who had traveled in Mexico or other Latin American countries had attempted to bring into this country various delicacies, including sausage, cheese, and meats. These imports were halted by guards who had been instructed by the OPA to bar them unless the tourists gave up ration points.

The impounded food often was stored without refrigeration and after a few weeks in the southern climate, it began to deteriorate. Public officials appealing to district OPA offices were told there was no regulation to cover the situation.

WALLACE TO LET THE SPENDERS ANSWER BUTLER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Vice President Henry Wallace will leave to "the agencies involved" the job of answering the assertions made in the senate today by Sen. Hugh A. Butler [R., Neb.] that the New Deal has spent more than 6 billion dollars to transplant to South and Central America its pet economic schemes.

"I feel compelled to express my deep regret to our Latin American allies in the war for the shocking slur which has been made against them," Wallace said in a statement.

"The fantastic figures which have been used in an apparent effort to discredit the good neighbor policy will be refuted by the agencies involved."

Denied by Rockefeller.

Nelson Rockefeller, coördinator of the office of inter-American affairs, said in a speech in Washington that Butler's estimate "is a misrepresentation of the facts."

Rockefeller asserted that spending by all government agencies, including military and naval installations, totaled less than 600 million dollars in Latin America, but "as in the case of the 6 billion dollar figure" did not, he added, include "the sums spent for goods, services, and raw materials."

In the senate after Butler ended his report, Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] asserted the report was "not fair and just" and was given at an "inappropriate time." He challenged the accuracy of Butler's estimate, asserting he understood only 2 billion 700 million dollars has been spent in South America.

No Latin Slur Intended.

When interviewed later Sen. Butler said if there was any "shocking slur" in his report "it is certainly not intended for our Latin friends."

"The only ones who are shocked, I think, are the few New Deal devotees left," Butler said. "Our Latin American allies know I am a genuine friend for I visited all of them. I didn't even pass up the one that has not broken with the axis [Argentina]."

To McKellar's comment that he had "let his imagination run away with him," Butler replied the figures in his report were documented. He also urged McKellar, who is acting chairman of the appropriations committee, and the committee to pay closer attention to what he termed "manipulation of lend-lease," which Butler blamed for much of the spending.

MARCO'S

IS THIS HIS REWARD?

Hail the conquering hero . . . But don't forget him!

When the shouting and the tumult dies . . . when his bonus is spent and his sacrifices are forgotten . . . what then?

Will he be back in useful civilian life . . . or, with no money, no job and discouraged, will he be a grim reminder of the trust that we betrayed?

Let's learn a lesson from World War I!

This time, let's have no more "Soldier Boy" apple vendors . . . no more veterans' bread lines . . . no more bonus armies. Let's not abandon the seriously maimed or mentally ill to live out hopeless lives as public or private charges.

No man or woman who has risked death or sacrificed health to fight for this country should be denied the best we can offer in medical treatment, rehabilitation and the right to earn a decent livelihood!

AMERICA FACES A CHALLENGE!

Already the wounded are coming back from the battlefields in growing numbers. They're a brave lot who have paid with broken bodies and shattered nerves for the democracy we enjoy and the victory we must win. Thanks to the miracles of modern medicine, far more of the casualties will be saved to live than in the last war — but many more of the living will come home crippled.

Their rehabilitation is our paramount obligation—not in the dreamy future, but now—today. How can this be accomplished? (1) Unify existing veterans' laws; (2) Simplify procedure for prompt attention and proper care for all cases; (3) Provide adequate rehabilitation facilities and centralized direction through comprehensive legislation so that no serviceman is neglected.

The power to act lies in Washington. It is up to you and your neighbors to create in your community a demand for action.

WHAT THEY SAY . . .

"We must, this time, have plans ready for the return to civilian life of our gallant men and women in the armed services—instead of waiting to do a hasty, inefficient and ill considered job at the last moment."

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, July 28, 1943

". . . a matter which I think deserves the greatest attention in order that our injured boys may receive the consideration that they so justly deserve. . . . Disabilities, no matter how honorably gained, remain present, but the cause is soon forgotten."

Hon. Charles S. Dewey, United States Representative From Illinois

"Proper care and rehabilitation of our war casualties is a sacred obligation of the nation. Thanks to efforts like these we may hope that never again, with respect to such casualties, will it be said that this democracy is lacking in gratitude."

HINDU VISITOR GAINS AID AT UNRRA PARLEY

Protests India Delegate to Conference.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 26.—A Hindu sat down in a hotel parlor a block from the UNRRA headquarters today and began a protest against one of the six votes the British hold against the single vote of the United States.

Girja S. Bajpai [top] and J. J. Singh.

The Hindu was J. J. Singh, president of the India League of America and a visitor to the conference of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration. The vote to which he objected was that of Girja Shankar Bajpai, delegate from India.

Singh said Bajpai is in reality the delegate of the British government in India and not of the native Indian government. He called upon UNRRA to act on the Indian famine.

Goes to Press Hotel.

Singh talked in a soft voice to reporters who attended the informal press conference he held in their hotel, the Madison, after it had been explained that visitors to the parley are not accorded press conference privileges in UNRRA headquarters, the Claridge.

And tonight the embarrassing subject of the Indian famine was threatening to overshadow the conference itself. Delegates from three nations were reliably reported to be considering submission of a resolution for aid to India, whether the British like it or not.

Singh said he has been informed by Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of state and permanent chairman of the UNRRA council, that UNRRA's activities are limited to war areas liberated by the allied nations.

The India league president said the Indian delegate had expressed unwillingness to raise the issue unless there be a certainty the conference will approve aid to India.

China Takes India's Side.

But Singh said the Chinese delegate, Tingu F. Tiang had promised favorable consideration of the proposal. Singh added that most of those with whom he had talked at the conference had been most sympathetic. It was learned that Singh had been able to pass the military police who guard the UNRRA parley in this peaceful city on a temporary visitor's card furnished by the Chinese.

News that Singh is demanding UNRRA assume British responsibility in the Indian famine traveled fast. Reporters were being informed at a UNRRA "background" conference a few minutes later that UNRRA must not give the impression Uncle Sam is being a Santa Claus when the Chinese delegate appeared. Background conferences are press gatherings at which committee representatives explain committee reports with the understanding their remarks are not to be attributed to them.

Question of Parley's Scope.

The Chinese delegate hastened to explain that there was a question whether or not the Indian famine fell within the scope of UNRRA. He said he is not the proper person to raise the issue as "there are other delegates in a better position to deal with it." But, he explained, if the question should be submitted it would receive his personal favorable consideration.

Bajpai later was asked by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE if he represented the British government. He replied that he represents the Indian government, altho acquaintances say he holds the rank of minister in the British service. Asked his stand on aid to India, he called attention to the UNRRA statement that it is limited to countries liberated by the allies.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will present the Chieto club, composed of Chicagoans serving in the European theater of operations, with a British flag in a ceremony at Mansion House, London's city hall, on Dec. 9, Lt. Col. Harry J. Dooley, the organization's president, said today.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., United States ambassador to the allied governments in exile, will present the group with an American flag. Following the flag ceremony and a short concert, the Chicagoans will be treated to light refreshments by the lord mayor of London, Frank Newson-Smith, who will be host for the evening.

Dooley said attempts are being made to have the ceremony broadcast, with a reply by radio from Chicago's Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

ONE HAND SPLIT, CHICAGOAN BAGS A NAZI FIGHTER

A BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND [Delayed]—(AP).—A Flying Fortress waist gunner from Chicago has been officially credited with shooting down a German fighter plane with one hand. His other hand was split by a 20 millimeter shell.

For this accomplishment, Tech. Sgt. Robert J. Conley, 636 North Pine avenue, has been recommended for a decoration in addition to the Purple Heart. Conley's shooting was done during the Oct. 14 raid on the Schweinfurt ball-bearing plant—an operation which cost the 8th air force 60 bombers but sent almost twice as many German fighters flaming from the sky.

SEA OF SLUDGE OUSTS 50 FROM HOMES IN EAST

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—Engineers, their ingenuity taxed by the thick, lava-like waste from the Solvay Process company's soda ash manufacture, experimented today with water and cinders in an effort to cope with the more than 40,000 tons that rolled over the countryside thru a dike break.

The dirty, whitish mess that ran rampant yesterday covers nearly two square miles, and has driven 50 person from their homes. Tons of the sludge have settled on the state fair grounds, now an army air force depot.

More than 100 truckloads of cinders were dumped on a highway, in the hope it would solidify the sticky mass. This method was then abandoned in favor of diluting the semi-liquid waste with water and pumping it away. It was expected to take many weeks to complete the clean-up job.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The distinguished flying cross has been awarded to Lt. Glen A. Loban of Ojai, Cal., for "heroism and extraordinary achievement" in aerial action in the Solomons last January. Lt. Loban, whose wife lives at La Grange, Ill., since has been reported missing in action.

ADM. MULLINNIX MISSING, NAVY INFORMS WIFE

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 26 (AP).—Rear Adm. Henry M. Mullinnix, who received much of the credit for success of the campaign against German submarines in the Atlantic, is missing in action in the Pacific. His wife received this news from the navy department today.

Top man in the 1916 graduating class at Annapolis, he served on a destroyer in World War I., advancing from ensign to lieutenant. At the start of this war he was in charge of one of the air patrol sections in the North Atlantic. He subsequently commanded an aircraft carrier until nine months ago when he was promoted to rear admiral, after which he was assigned to the Pacific war zones.

Mullinnix was born at Spencer, Ind., July 4, 1892, and was graduated from high school at Attica, Ind., in 1909. Two years later he entered Purdue university, but did not complete his education there.

A younger brother of the admiral, Allen P. Mullennix, is a captain in the navy. The admiral's father, who had been superintendent of Attica schools for 17 years, died last February. Mullennix's mother lives in Attica.

Widow Awarded $2,800 in Blackout Death Suit

Creston, Ia., Nov. 26 (AP).—A District court jury today awarded Mrs. Charles Graby $2,800 in the death of her husband, an air raid warden killed when struck by a police car driven by William Danner during a practice blackout Dec. 14, 1942. Mrs. Graby had sued Danner for $5,000, alleging he was negligent in driving the police car without lights during the blackout. District Judge Homer A. Fuller ruled out all attempts of attorneys to bring in the blackout during the trial.

U. S. RUNWAYS EQUAL N. Y. TO BERLIN HIGHWAY

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Runways required by Britain based American army air forces are equivalent to a 20 foot concrete highway extending from New York to Berlin, Brig. Gen. C. R. Moore said today in dedicating a new American built airdrome.

The new airdrome was built by a battalion commanded by Maj. Joseph A. Christ and turned over to the air force by Brig. Gen. W. J. Weaver.

A scroll marking the project's completion was presented by Sgt. Gordon C. Carson, representing the battalion, to Sgt. Edgar M. Behan, representing units that will serve on the field.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

A. K. writes: A few weeks ago I was reclassified from 3-A to 1-A. When I went to the board office to protest, they told me to sign in the blank space on my questionnaire and I would get an oral hearing before the board. I've received an induction notice for Dec. 2 and my draft board informs me that I had my chance to present evidence for deferment because of an incapacitated mother, and I lost the chance in allowing the blank form to go before the board of review. I have an average intelligence and so must be only one of many to whom this misunderstanding causes great hardship. Why don't you publish something to set us right on this procedure?"

ANSWER: In a mimeographed article, "Steps in Making an Appeal," we outlined the procedure for obtaining a hearing before local board of appeals. We will gladly send this article to any one sending a request and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Registrants frequently lose out because their files do not contain up to date information, hence the board "is in the dark" about a registrant's situation because of insufficient or out of date evidence of dependency or employment conditions. It is up to the registrant to see that the information in his file is up to date at all times.

M. J. O. writes: "My son entered the army the 26th of June. His first pay was $10, the second pay $2.30, his third pay $1.23, and his last pay was the huge sum of 76 cents. He can't understand it nor can any of the other men stationed where he is because they too never receive a full pay and don't seem to find out where the money goes. I receive an allotment from him, but that shouldn't make all that difference."

ANSWER: If your son is only making an allotment for you, that costs him $22, but if he is making an allotment for a sister, brother, or father, his deductions amount to $27 a month. He probably is carrying insurance, which subtracts another $5 to $10 a month. His laundry runs from $1 to $3 dollars. Then, too, the post exchange probably got some of his money. If he has not authorized any deductions except insurance and your allotment, he can take the matter up thru channels and get an accounting.

R. B. writes: "I am a young veteran of the present war hospitalized at a veterans' hospital near Chicago. I wonder if there isn't some one who would give or lend me a table radio? I am in a ward with a lot of other men and a radio would help out a great deal."

ANSWER: If any one has a radio to give or lend this Yank and his buddies, write this department and we'll send you his name.

THE INSIDE STORY OF WILLKIE.

The inside story of how big money, in cooperation with Park avenue society and the British ambassador, foisted Wendell Willkie upon the Republican party as its candidate in 1940 has at last been told in some detail by a man who was in a position to know how the job was engineered. He is C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., who, as Gannett's manager, had a ringside seat at Philadelphia. He calls his book, "One Man," a neat play upon the title of Willkie's best seller, "One World."

Sparks tells how Thomas Lamont of the Morgan bank was among the first to take up Willkie. Another was John Cowles of the newspaper owning Cowleses of Des Moines and Minneapolis. Sparks says Cowles is related to Lamont and had been assisted by Lamont in the financing of a newspaper purchase.

At this point, Gov. Stassen enters the stage. He had indicated a preference for Dewey. Cowles, who was close to Stassen, suggested that the governor go east to talk things over. He returned within a few days with Lamont's assurance that he would be temporary chairman of the convention and thus would have the privilege of delivering the keynote speech. He returned also an enthusiast for Willkie.

A week before the convention was called to order a dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Reid, attended by the Lamonts, the Willkies, the Pillsburys of Minneapolis, the Robert Tafts, and Philip Kerr [Lord Lothian], who then was British ambassador. The Reids, who have relatives in the British aristocracy, own the New York Herald Tribune, an interventionist newspaper. The ambassador was asked to say a few words. He seized the opportunity to say [this was in the late spring of 1940, a year and a half before Pearl Harbor] that it was the duty of the United States to go all-out, at once, in aid of Britain. Lamont indorsed these sentiments. Willkie, in turn, indorsed everything that both Lothian and Lamont had said. Mr. Taft refused to pay the price demanded for the support of these powerful interests. He said merely that his position on intervention in the war had been made clear on the floor of the senate and he had nothing to add to it, or subtract from it, in private. Shortly afterward, he excused himself and he and Mrs. Taft left before the other guests.

Thus the barefoot boy of Wall street passed his examination, and Taft flunked. Willkie went into the convention supported by big money, big social position, and the British embassy and came out the Republican nominee. Mr. Sparks has a good deal of light to throw on the use of money by the Willkie managers in swinging delegations to their cause. How much was spent he does not know, but he is satisfied that it was a bigger sum than all the other candidates together had at their disposal.

All of this story checks with the previously known facts. It checks, in particular, with the important bit of secret history reported by John O'Donnell in his column in the New York Daily News on Nov. 8 of this year. Mr. O'Donnell was assigned to cover Willkie in 1940. He was recalling a conversation with Willkie that took place on Aug. 28, 1940, "in the twilight under the apple trees in the back yard of Willkie's Main street home in Rushville, Ind."

This is the story as Mr. O'Donnell tells it:

"Wendell was about to start his tour of the nation. The wires that afternoon had just brought Willkie word that Sen. Hiram Johnson of California, running on his traditional isolationist platform and denouncing the Roosevelt foreign policy as the road to war, had received the senatorial nomination of the Republicans, the Democrats, and the Progressives of his native state.

"That political news was important. It meant that the voters on the Pacific coast, at least, regardless of party, were against the turning over of over-age United States destroyers to belligerent Britain, were against the Roosevelt torturing of international laws governing our Roosevelt-proclaimed neutrality. And what was Roosevelt's White House challenger going to do about it?

"As reporters smoked vigorously to banish the Hoosier mosquitoes and dug at chigger bites on their ankles, the Republican White House candidate told us that he had sent this telegram to the victorious isolationist Hi Johnson:

"'Congratulations on your magnificent victory. It is fortunate the people of California recognize a true progressive even tho some others may not.'

"The final phrase was a slap at 'Mr. Third Term Candidate' F. D. R., who a fortnight before had barked back at Hi Johnson's 'keep out of European wars' doctrine with the tart observation that the white haired old Bull Mooser, running mate of the great T. R., 'was no longer the liberal and progressive of his earlier days.'

"Now, just as a footnote to United States Presidential campaign history, at that point we asked Mr. Willkie:

"'Does your message of congratulation to Sen. Johnson, who won his victory as an isolationist, mean that you indorse his foreign policy or will you repudiate it?'

"Candidate Willkie asked that the question be put off the record. He said he didn't want to say anything at that time on such a ticklish subject.

"Now the important thing about this is that later, in a private talk on the Indiana back porch, W. W., brought up our question. This was his observation:

"'That question you asked and I didn't answer was, of course, tremendously important. But here's the situation. I know, I'm positive that if I should indorse Hi Johnson's foreign policy of isolationism, that if I'd campaign on that issue, I'd lick Roosevelt worse than he licked Landon.'

"We asked the natural question:

"'If you think the American people believe that way and you want to represent them in the White House as our President, then why not come out cold turkey and fight it out on the only line that counts?'

"Willkie gave a very frank answer:

"'I can't do that because of promises I've made—commitments which my friends and supporters have received from me. And I think I'll win anyway.'

"Then we asked another—the one we thought was our $64 question: 'And where does that leave the majority of the American people, who, you admit, would elect a President next November who thinks as Hi Johnson does—if they only had a chance?'

"There wasn't any answer to that one, as we remember."

In the light of Mr. Sparks' revelations, there can be small doubt about the identity of the friends to whom Mr. Willkie had made his promises. He had committed himself to the Anglophiles of Park avenue, the big shots of Wall street, and the British ambassador. It was they who had picked Willkie; it was they who had got him the nomination; and it was for them that he betrayed the will of the American people.

The charges made by Mr. Sparks and reinforced by Mr. O'Donnell are extremely serious. They demand answers. The columns of THE TRIBUNE are open to any of the persons and institutions concerned who may wish to qualify or deny what Mr. Sparks and Mr. O'Donnell have said.

MORE MEN TO DO LESS WORK?

William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, has announced the imposition of the mandatory 48 hour work week in the Chicago area. Employes in a great many of the war plants in this area for many months have been working a 48 hour week or longer, with time and a half for overtime; the new order is expected to affect those firms whose work has not been so vital as to warrant that practice, or who have been able to operate satisfactorily on the customary 40 hour week.

The idea is to free employes from this latter group of establishments to meet a man power shortage in the war industries. Mr. Spencer issued his order with some reluctance, and only after he had been told to do so by the Washington office of WMC. A directive had been in his hands for several weeks, telling him to invoke the order or show cause why he had not done so.

The regional officials of WMC are supposed to certify the need for such an order before it is issued, and Mr. Spencer has been hesitant to do this. But Washington took a long distance glance at the Chicago man power situation and overrode the hesitancy.

Mayor Kelly and a good many other responsible citizens in Chicago have declared that the man power shortage here is not critical enough to warrant a mandatory 48 hour work week, and the regional WMC officials have not contradicted them. The Kaiser shipyards on the west coast continue to advertise for help in Chicago, offering railroad fare to Mr. Kaiser's yards among other inducements, under the auspices of the United States Employment service. If there really is a man power shortage here, that kind of thing ought to have been stopped long ago.

The slowdown in the Studebaker airplane engine plant here, a slowdown that is paralleled in a good many other war plants in this area, according to letters from war workers received by THE TRIBUNE, is one cause of a man power shortage that the WMC has overlooked.

If you have 100,000 employes who are loafing a third of the time, you can bring production up to par by putting a halt to the loafing or by employing another 33,000 men to do the work that the first group should be doing. WMC has chosen the latter method in remedying whatever man power troubles Chicago may have.

The 48 hour week order is intended to force more workers into the war plants by freezing them out of the jobs they now hold in other industry. It is difficult to see how a department store clerk, for instance, forced out of her job by the 48 hour week order, is going to be much good on a war plant turret lathe without many months of training.

It is significant that the seers in the Washington office of WMC had made up Mr. Spencer's mind for him on the 48 hour week question long before the slowdown condition in Chicago war plants had been very widely known. If WMC had been anxious to remedy the man power situation here it would have done something about the slowdown long before it reached public attention. But the New Dealers can think only in the burocratic mold, and the result is never the sensible correction of an obvious abuse, but always more regimentation.

MR. PEPYS LIKES DRAGONS.

27th Nov.—Have not quite finished with football, for today I will keep a close ear, tho not an eye, on the doings in the Mayor Kelly or Snow Bowl game between St. George and Phillips High schools, which is causing excitement among the Harold Teens. A high school game is always a sight to behold, especially when for a championship, because often the lads come to fourth down with 45 or 63 yards to gain, a condition which is like being $2,000,000 in debt.

Shall whoop it up for the St. Georges, whose device is a dragon, since they are my neighbors and I have often peeked thru their fence to watch them practice. Besides, I think they are the smallest high school in either league, and so deserve applause for winning their way in this tournament. The average citizen could not find his way to St. George's without asking several policemen, because it is tucked away on dead-end streets in the 8th ward of Evanston. If any one wants to know, it can be found by bearing due east a couple of blocks from St. Francis hospital, or by following boys with large white dragons on the back of their jackets.

Observed Thanksgiving day by feasting in the home of friends, upon whose hospitable board a 16-pound turkey was available for as many helpings as any war time appetite could ask, and in the evening returned to my ivory tower to jot down my thoughts, if any. Now to prepare for the Line o' Type contributors' dinner on Dec. 4, and the Press Veterans' dinner on Dec. 11, and Christmas, New Year's, and Twelfth Night, which is as far ahead as I can arrange my planning. When rebuked for not preparing some gadget with which to embellish the millennium I made answer: "The future? The future is merely tomorrow."

SAY IT ISN'T SO!

What has become of the darlings Dionne?
How goes it with their adolescence?
Of all feminine charms the quintessence.

Appraised by the vox pops, appearing on box tops,
In movies, in books, and in state,
The world watched their growth and appeared nothing loath
Just to love them and pay all the freight.

I've heard sundry hints that the looks of the quints
Are not what their public had hoped for;
And Time in the main is making it plain

How I would regret if this first world's quintet
Should find their romances hard sledding,
And I'm hoping some day all the world will be gay
With the very first quintuple wedding.

Storm Center Over Great Lakes.

The Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic society, a group of amateur Christmas carolers who are favorite characters of the society editors, is under investigation by the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, which is dedicated solely to river and harbor improvements. An officer of Dredge and Dock writes:

"We have received many telephone and personal calls from long-haired fiddlers three, bow necktie tenors, and others of that ilk, who are anxious to obtain early auditions so as to join this Philharmonic society. We fail to understand the use of the first three words of our company's title by this mysterious organization. Possibly some wit has employed the word 'dredge' instead of the more appropriate 'dirge'."

After receiving full information about Dredge and Philharmonic, with the dossiers of its ringleaders, Dredge and Dock replied:

"Possibly these gentlemen have seen our large hydraulic dredges in action, sucking up large volumes of solutions from the lake bottom, and they may have conceived that this was an appropriate name for their caroling and imbibing efforts to welcome the Yuletide."

MUMPS MAY ATTACK ADULTS.

MUMPS is one of the many tedious and annoying afflictions of childhood. Strangely enough, some escape as youngsters only to be attacked during adult life. This is one disease which most of us would prefer to have and get thru with rather than be obliged to face a severe siege later.

We are all familiar with the symptoms. Two or three weeks after exposure one parotid or the other will begin to enlarge. These glands lie deep within the cheek, in front of the ear, and constitute important sources of saliva. Swelling will be preceded by headache, lack of appetite, or chilly sensations. Puffiness increases for a few days, whereupon healing begins—with gradual recession. As a rule, within 8 or 10 days the episode is over.

But this may not be the end of the chapter. After a short interval of convalescence the other side may be forced to go thru the same experience. Occasionally all the depots which produce saliva will be affected. In such circumstances pain may be striking, with the parts tender to the touch.

What is the cause? We are dealing with a filtrable virus which may be found within the mouth during the first week. It has also been detected in the blood and can be transmitted by inoculation. The ailment can be communicated, even before swelling is exhibited. Thus, the scattering of the "starter" is relatively easy thru coughing and sneezing.

The virus has a strong affinity for the sex glands and, when extension to these structures takes place, the temperature usually rises. For about 24 hours the patient may be quite ill. The best possible nursing will be demanded to prevent more serious trouble.

First of all, we must make certain that the mouth and the nasal passages are kept clean. Gargles are indispensable. Next comes confinement to bed and this is difficult with the youngster who feels perfectly well and who wants to play. But bed rest must be insisted upon until every vestige of engorgement has subsided. Should the organs in other parts of the body become involved, the application of ice bags, combined with suitable supports, will be helpful.

No restriction in diet is required and appetite may determine what the victim can eat. If there is pain on chewing or swallowing, the edibles will need to be soft or semi-solid.

Can the malady be aborted or stopped? Altho attempts have been made, thru the use of immune serum, results are still in doubt. The program is as follows: Between three weeks and three months after a seizure, blood is collected from individuals who have recovered. Two teaspoonfuls of this material are administered directly into a muscle, as a preventive against the disease. This is sometimes of value in stopping the spread of the disorder in boarding schools, military establishments, and the like.

In the presence of any general epidemic, convalescent serum is worth a trial. It seems to have some value in warding off untoward symptoms.

Glioma is a gluelike tumor, involving the eyeball. Glaucoma is a disease, the chief symptom of which is hardening of the optic, due to deficient drainage.

YES, APOPLEXY.

D. N. writes: Can a person have paralysis more than once?

REPLY.

Yes. For example, if the cause is a small brain hemorrhage, absorption of the exudate may be followed by recovery. Symptoms may return should another blood vessel break.

SEVENTH NERVE.

Notes at Random.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—The Union station here operates a lost and found department which right now has an extraordinary stock of army overcoats dropped in transit and haste. However, its most treasured holdings are in that branch known as "will call." Here thirsty travelers have deposited half empty bottles of liquor which they hope to come back and finish some day. Note: The attendants are extremely trustworthy.

Tales of Mrs. Roosevelt's safari to the Southwest Pacific still drift home. The latest came in a letter from a general in Australia. It concerns the day she was racing thru the countryside in a jeep driven by soldiers. As her party approached a long stretch of sandy beach, military police perched on motorcycles made frantic signals for them to stop. "Have to detour," one explained. "It's Mrs. Roosevelt," the driver said. "Our orders are that she goes anywhere." "But . . ." hesitated the M. P. "O, well, I guess it's all right," he added. "Pass on." So on they went and came to the beach, roped off and guarded at strategic intervals, and in the water were 3,000 soldiers, bathing. And the bathers, thinking the jeep contained one of the male dignitaries often touring the area, raced from the water to get a close view of him. The general reporting the incident wrote that Mrs. Roosevelt passed it off with beautiful aplomb. "It's perfectly all right," she said. "I have boys of my own." Every one immediately felt better about it all.

The Congressional Record, that word by word chronicle of all that is uttered in the official halls of congress, is appetizing reading for a rainy night, particularly the appendix, the part in which the nation's legislators reprint their own speeches, editorials praising them, or any article, sermon, or letter that fits in with their thoughts of the day.

Glancing thru Tuesday's Record, we were astonished at the preponderance of poetry in the appendix. Not until we had read every line of it [and the day's take, poetically speaking, totaled 391 lines] did we realize that the most well-thumbed book in the congressional library must be Bartlett's "Book of Familiar Quotations." Some of the boys stop at two lines; others throw in an entire 63 line poem, particularly if written by a constituent.

In giving these outbursts the careful study they merit, we found they had one remarkable similarity: Not one contained a line that might be termed gay, sprightly, or even romantic. They range from a well known tidbit by Robert Burns to an ode [a constituent reciting the virtues of his congressman who died] which surely will never be known. We cite four lines of this as proof:

". . . came a man to play his part
At a time of perplexation
When the great stage of the nation was set for the whole duration . . ."

The death of this gentleman and another moved a second congressman to insert in the Record, in its entirety, the mournful 91 lines of William Cullen Bryant's "Thanatopsis," while a third inserted Burns' tribute to the earl of Glencairn. A fourth then inserted two quatrains with a familiar ring but no identification.

By this time the entire house must have been racing to the cloakroom to find rhyming remarks adequate to the occasion, for some one quickly added a 16 line memorial to the late Gen. Billy Mitchell [a trifle tardily, as he died in 1936], and some one else inserted a 54 line ode to Jim Watson of Indiana on the occasion of his 80th birthday. These, with stray stanzas worked into a reprinted address to the American Legion, brought the appendix to a ringing close.

Unknown poets of America, discard despair. Write a poem to your congressman. He will find you a publisher, the United States printing office, and an avid public, yourself.

DISGUSTED STOREKEEPER.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 23.—I would like to add my appreciation for the disclosures that are being made in some of these war plants. It is a national disgrace, and some day will be uncovered as such. We have much the same situation in our town. The largest plant in town is doing war work about the same way the Studebaker plant in Chicago is. I have been told first hand by employes in this and other plants that they are told by the union how many units they can turn out, and they do not go over this amount. The amount they are allowed to turn out is far below their capacity.

I do not know that the union is Communist dominated, but I do not see how that makes any difference when the result is the same. One of the watchmen at the large plant is not even allowed to sweep out the little coop he stays in. He must wait for a union sweeper to do it. He cannot even wipe off a pane of glass.

I am running one of the largest retail units in this town of 50,000 and without any male help, except what schoolboys I can get in after school, where formerly we had four or five men working. It burns me up to work night and day to keep things going, and then give most of what I make in taxes to pay the salaries of these loafers. On practically the same income my taxes are twenty times what they were five years ago, and the amount of work I am doing is much greater, and while struggling under almost insurmountable burdens placed on retailing by government regulation, we must grin and bear what is going on in these war plants. They are overstaffed from 30 to 50 per cent in order to turn their work out while we struggle along without any help, and foot the bill in the bargain. DISGUSTED.

THANKS FROM THE MARINES.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Due to the press of business and the strenuous activities attendant upon the 168th anniversary of our corps, I have neglected writing to you of my appreciation for the space provided the marine corps during your splendid navy show. It was indeed an honor to be included in such an outstanding tribute to the naval service.

I would also like to take this opportunity to express my thanks and gratitude for the contributions made by W-G-N and THE TRIBUNE toward our 168th birthday celebration.

The anniversary will long be remembered by the marines and the complete enjoyment and success of the day was due in no small measure to the efforts made by W-G-N and THE TRIBUNE.

CHESTER L. FORDNEY,

WANTS A CURFEW.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Why not help curb juvenile delinquency by having the Chicago city council enact a curfew law requiring every one under 18 years of age to be off the streets? Those picked up would be held until their parents are advised, and asked to call at the police stations for them. "DROFAX."

AND WHEN DO WE FIGHT JAPAN?

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Isn't it about time that "America First" and numberless others get over the baby-talk that we were in the last war and this just to save the British empire?

In the last war Germany insulted us with impunity—witness Bernstorff's captured diplomatic files, in which he called us jackasses and nitwits and taunted us with being money-mad, etc.; then sabotage, which took a heavy toll, and, though promises were solemnly made that there would be no recurrence of sinkings, ships were sunk and we were finally told that only one ship a week could cross the Atlantic, painted in accordance with Germany's dictates. The world wondered at our meekness, and we only declared war when the last spark of our self-respect seemed to have gone.

And now, again, the claim is made that we are fighting to save the British empire. Why this unfair and un-American attitude? We are in the war because of Japan's dastardly and cowardly attack at Pearl Harbor, where one-half of our fleet was lost; and Germany is just as ruthless as its Japanese ally.

JOHN W. ANDERSON.

FIRST FURLOUGH.

Dyersburg, Tenn., Nov. 22.—I have just returned from Chicago where I spent 10 glorious days of my first furlough. I want Chicagoans to know what a thrill it is to visit your town. Since I have been in the army I have been stationed in California, Texas, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Tennessee. In my opinion none of these states have the knack of extending genuine hospitality like your own city has.

I was especially impressed with the U. S. O. on South Michigan avenue. Just imagine being served steaming hot, delicious chicken soup, good American hot dogs, and homemade cake that melts in your mouth. And it's all free. Then to top it off they hand you a free ticket to the best play in town.

The fellows here at camp don't believe me when I tell them about it. You are fine people, living in a great city.

CAN PRESENT EVIDENCE.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People].—I own a small parcel of land for which I paid $20 per foot in 1927. The federal public housing authority informs me that this land is now under condemnation proceedings. They offer $2.50 per foot, stating this to be fair compensation. The property has been assessed by the county for twice that amount and I have been paying taxes based on that valuation. I. Am I compelled to accept $2.50 per foot, a price which I consider entirely unfair? J. S.

No, in the sense that you can present in the court proceedings your evidence as to value.

Holiday Brings Large Share of Romantic News

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Thanksgiving holiday brought forth its fair share of romantic news, with weddings and engagements of interest galore. From New York came word of the marriage there yesterday of Miss Harriet Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore of Winnetka, to Samuel Gelfan of San Francisco and New York. Mr. and Mrs. Moore went east for the quiet ceremony, after which they and Mr. Gelfan, who is called Peter, and his bride, departed for Boston to share a wedding dinner with the Moores' younger son, Francis D. Moore, and his family. The Moores' elder son, Philip Jr., and his wife were celebrating their own wedding anniversary yesterday at home in Winnetka.

Mrs. Gelfan, who was graduated summa cum laude in politics and economics from Bryn Mawr college, studied at the London School of Economics and in Moscow, to which city she returned again as a member of the research staff of the Institute of Pacific Relations. She has been executive secretary and director of the American Russian institute in New York and met Mr. Gelfan in Chicago in connection with Russian war relief work. The Gelfans probably will live in New York. They are expected in Winnetka at Christmas time. Mrs. Moore is co-chairman of the Russian War Relief society in Chicago.

Mrs. Lois Field of Santa Fe, N. M., and Lawrence Meeker of Chicago are announcing the marriage Wednesday of their daughter, Marchia Lois Meeker, to Arthur Friedman, assistant professor of English at the University of Chicago. The ceremony took place in the Thorndike Hilton chapel, with a reception for the families and a few friends following in the apartment of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William M. Field, in the Sherry hotel. The senior Mrs. Field and the bride's mother and young brother, William III., all came from Santa Fe for the wedding. Mrs. Harry Bingham served as matron of honor; Louis Landa was best man, and ushering were Mr. Bingham, Gerald Bentley, and Lloyd Warner.

The bride, a graduate of the Shipley school and of Barnard college, is finishing her work for her doctor's and master's degrees at the University of Chicago. Mr. Friedman, a Californian, and his bride will be at home in his Woodlawn avenue apartment.

Other Wedding News.

The news of Miss Eleanor Norris' marriage tonight in Miami, Fla., will come as a surprise to Chicagoans, as no announcement had been made of her engagement to Lt. (j. g.) Arthur Reed Kneibler Jr. of the naval reserve. Mr. and Mrs. James Norris of Lake Forest are in the south for the marriage of their elder daughter, which will take place in St. Stephen's Episcopal church. Later a small family reception will be held in the Coral Gables home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. James D. Norris.

The bride, who made her debut in 1940, was graduated from the Ethel Walker school and was in her senior year at Cornell university. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kneibler of Kenosha, Wis., was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and from Northwestern university's law school. He is on duty at the aviation gunnery officers' school in Jacksonville, Fla.

Another surprise wedding that will take place at 5:30 p. m. today in the Lake Forest residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Loeber is that of their daughter, Ann Loeber Harrington, to Lt. [j. g.] Lawrence Eugene Denman, son of Mrs. Burt J. Denman of Wilmette. As it is a second marriage for each, the ceremony will be a quiet one with only the families present. Lt. Denman and his bride will be at home in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shaddelee have come from Grand Rapids, Mich., for their brother's wedding, but the bride's brother, Lt. Loeber Jr. of the navy, and his wife were unable to come from St. Louis.

From Mr. and Mrs. Lyman J. Craig of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., comes the announcement of the marriage Oct. 30 of their sister, Mrs. Ruth Lorimer Musgrave, to Glenn R. Douglas of the army. The ceremony took place in Watford, Hertfordshire, England, and post-war at home cards give Tantallon, Spooner, Wis., as their future residence. Mrs. Douglas, who is a member of the Chicago Junior league, is in England with the American Red Cross, for which she worked extensively in this area before going abroad.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey L. Whittemore of Evanston are entertaining at the Glen View club's dinner-dance tonight to celebrate the engagement of their daughter, Sara Elizabeth, to Dr. Charles George Farnum Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Farnum of Peoria, which is being announced today. Miss Whittemore, who always is called Betty, was graduated from Pine Manor and is a member of the Evanston Junior league. Her fiancé was graduated from Dartmouth in 1939, and from the Northwestern university Medical school this year. Dr. Farnum, who holds a commission in the army medical corps, is serving his internship at the Presbyterian hospital. The wedding will take place in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Arnold of Evanston have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Saxe, to Pvt. John Wilson Smillie II. of the army specialized training program, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wilson G. Smillie of Pelham, N. Y. Miss Arnold is attending the National College of Education. Pvt. Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

In an atmosphere of industrial clangor created by crane bells, engine testing, machine motors, and sparking welding tools, women join the men in making Diesel engines at the plant of the Electro-Motive division, General Motors corporation, in La Grange.

Women form only about 15 per cent of the shop personnel, but their jobs, in most instances, are the same as those performed by the men. The manufacture of Diesel engines for LST [landing ship, tanks] and SC [sub-chaser] boats and freight locomotives, involves welding, coil winding, coil taping, burring, mill grinding, lapping, and gear hobbing, and women do all these types of work and many more, including drafting, blueprint reading, offset printing, inspecting, and crane operating.

Welders and crane operators were exclusively men before entrance into service thinned the ranks, and women first were called in to take over two years ago. There now are three women operating the large cranes. Women also are department heads. There are six foreladies in the transmission department.

In the shops the equality of men and women extends to dress, which calls for safety clothes when the job demands it. A figure in overalls and a metal mask, working in the blue light of welding tools, might be either man or woman.

Dolores Newman.

The plant has a "safety girl," Miss Dolores Newman, who works at a milling machine. As a member of the company safety committee, she sets the example for her fellow employes by wearing the proper protective clothing. She's only 19 years old, and before entering war work she was a cashier and clerk.

Miss Tessie Paluch, a welder, used to do office work. Housework used to occupy Miss Margaret Poley before she decided to back her brother and sweetheart, who are overseas, by getting into war industry. Miss Poley works at taping and repairing armature coils, as does Miss Olga Kalinka, whose brother is in the army air forces.

Employes, men and women alike, are trained on the job. General good health is the only job requisite.

Six women employes of Electro-Motive have gone into service, one into the WAC, another into the SPARS, three into the WAVES, and still another is in North Africa with the Red Cross.

Electro-Motive has a convenient employment office situated in the loop at 38 North Dearborn street.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY.

Love's Labor Lost.

The most razzed white collar girl around town is Ann Tima, a secretary whose enthusiasm for keeping up the morale of her soldier sweetheart took an unexpected turn. She bought some dates, pitted them, and stuffed them with nuts, carefully tucking an infinitesimal love note inside each date. Off she ran to the postoffice to put her unusual gift into the mail.

Sober second thought followed. Suppose, when the gift arrived at the army camp, the young soldier shared the box of dates. Her love notes might be opened by strange—and unsympathetic—eyes. Nervously she dashed off an airmail letter to her own true love saying she hoped he would keep the dates to himself.

But the dates already had arrived. However, a letter by return mail thanked her for the package and assured her that her anxiety was unnecessary. "Please don't worry," he wrote consolingly. "Contents of the notes are safe inside our stomachs."

The Boss Does a Houdini.

As a closing line in a letter which would require a super-Houdini, may I offer this out of my shorthand notebook as dictated by the boss: "So if you have anything up your sleeve, now is the time to pull the rabbit out of the hat."

What They Read.

Business girls who donate or send books to men in service may be interested in the comments of Alice J. Garwood, assistant service command librarian. In an article in Branch Library News, Miss Garwood says:

"The most popular book in the army library is the unabridged dictionary. It settles more arguments on the use and misuse, spelling, and pronunciation of words and helps get more letters in the mail than Mr. Webster ever dreamed it would. Atlases run a close second. A day seldom passes that the librarian isn't poring over a map with a service man, computing the distance from his home or re-tracing a recent trip.

"As for books in general, the interests of the library readers are as diversified as their educational and geographical backgrounds . . . . escape literature, from comic books to Zane Grey, to 'Capricornia' or 'The Robe.' Historical novels are popular . . . realistic novels . . . . news of books with laughs travels fast . . . . collections of cartoons make a terrific hit, as do any picture books [not juvenile]."

Classic and modern poetry, books which the boys have meant to read since they left college, nationwide best sellers, texts on mathematics—algebra, geometry, or calculus—are as "popular as Carole Landis."

Inter-Office Communication.

Don't you feel it should be duly recorded in the White Collar Girl column that the first grandmother in the WAC is a former Chicago white collar girl? She is 2d Lt. Helen M. Smith, and for nine years she was a sales clerk at the Englewood branch of the Commonwealth Edison company. Su.

New Mittens Feature Color and Warmth

BY REA SEEGER.

Super mittens, the kind you couldn't lose because they look like a small Pekingese, feature extreme depth of wool fuzz and color. It's no feeble comparison, for the beige and gray mittens, especially on the hands and with the hands folded across the chest, certainly look like those fascinating little dogs. The wool fuzz is so thick and deep that the fingers will be well protected thru an entire day out of doors in sub zero temperature.

These mittens are snappy accents for street suits, coolie coats of black or dark colored wool, ski outfits, knitted dresses, and fur jackets. Worn with a simple black wool suit, such accents become the most dramatic color spots imaginable. They come in luscious pastels, shell pink, baby blue, yellow, and rose; vivid shades of copper, orange, green, and cherry red, and neutrals, gray, beige, and white and black.

Such mittens make ideal Christmas gifts for the debs and junior debs on any list, for high school girls and the college crowd. The price is considerably under $5, and they look twice that much.

These very new mittens are not to be mistaken for the ordinary fuzzy mitts, for the new arrivals are sensationally eye catching because of the swank outsize and the unusual colors. They're big and fluffy, featherweight, and warm as an electric heater. The colors alone are worth all the excitement.

U. of W. Alumnae Club Will Have Benefit Tea

The University of Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago will give a benefit tea and book review program for a scholarship fund and war activities at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Ridgeville Community house, 908 Seward avenue. Miss Dorothy Posey will give the book talk.

Thru the Looking Glass

The women who, for the first time in their lives, are doing all their own household chores find the tasks far more destructive of good looks than they need be. These newcomers to an old field can learn some valuable tricks from the women who have done their own work for years.

One very simple one is this: After doing dishes, wash and dry your hands thoroly before you dash out the back door to dispose of scraps. Hands wet with warm, soapy water will chap twice as fast if you venture out in the cold. Wash your hands when you finish the job, dry them well, and smear on a little of your favorite cream or lotion. It will soothe the skin and protect it.

When you dust or sweep, cover your hair. Hair picks up grime in an amazing fashion, and all luster and liveliness will be obscured by the film of dust. The old caps that housemaids used to wear had their origin in a sensible purpose—protection from dirt. The smart young matron who does her own work should shroud her locks in a bandanna before she tackles any dust raising chores around the house.

And don't, for heaven's sake, think that old shapeless shoes are the ones to wear when you fly around at your work. It's when you're working that your feet need the support of sturdy, flat heeled, well fitted shoes. You'll be less tired if you work in saddle shoes than you would if you shuffle around in mules. Besides which, mules are hazardous—all right for the bedroom, but an invitation to accident when you have work to do or stairs to climb.

And don't forget that a layer of cream on your face and neck as you dust or scrub will serve two purposes—skin oiling and protection from dirt! ELEANOR NANGLE.

The six national champion 4-H club cooks began a holiday in Chicago yesterday—a reward for a total of 37 years' experience amid the pots and kettles in the preparation of 12,060 meals. With that record, they still tell their ages; they are all either 17 or 18.

The national champions are among the 37 state winners of 4-H food preparation contests who were awarded trips to attend the 22d National 4-H club congress, opening tomorrow in the La Salle hotel. In addition, each of the national winners will receive a $200 scholarship to any college she chooses. Eight hundred delegates and leaders, about half the peacetime attendance, are expected at the congress.

Juanita Floyd of Holdenville, Okla., is the pecan pie maker. Yesterday was her 18th birthday. She has canned 12,225 quarts of food and has completed other cooking projects in six years.

A bread baker is Dorothy Jean Strand, 18, who is South Dakota food preparation champion despite her Ellendale, N. D., address. In four 4-H years she has produced 1,250 loaves of bread, 162 dozen quick breads, and 136 dozen cookies among other items. She can sew, too, as her modish brown jersey frock proves.

Annie Blanche Johnson, 18, Kinston, N. C., specializes in desserts, and values her five years of food projects, including 1,236 meals, at $2,382.95, counting cost of food prepared. She also sews, tends 200 chickens, and goes to teachers' college.

Sweet potatoes and refrigerator ice cream interest Dorothy Pate, 17, of Portales, N. M. Her club work runs to a value of $3,522.56. Her cooking record includes six years of baking 2,150 products, using 6,000 recipes, preparing 8,575 dishes and 5,675 meals.

Tiny Priscilla E. Atwood of Sanbornton, N. H., has a record of 1,901 meals in six years. At 18, she's a freshman in the University of New Hampshire. Cooking preference? She likes the main dishes, plenty of meat and potatoes.

The sixth champion, Audrey Averill, 17, Collins, Mont., in eight years' cooking, has prepared 1,580 meals.

Nearly all of the girls are thru high school and those not in college now plan to go soon. They will be interviewed over a national broadcast at 10:30 a. m. today and will be entertained at a breakfast at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday in the Palmer House. Their visit here ends Thursday.

Bringing other 4-H girls and boys to Chicago is the Chicago Market and Fat Stock show, opening Monday for a four day run at the Union Stock yards. More than half of the 4,558 head of cattle, sheep, and swine to be exhibited have arrived. The judging of fat cattle in the carlot division will be started tomorrow.

INSTALMENT XII.

A MEETING.

Tim grinned apologetically at Neal. "I ain't so sure now about this country being a heaven for bad men," he said. "It kinda gets my goat. Now if I was a killer instead of a one gallus brushpopper, when I heard the wind sobbing I'd start thinking about the poor devils I'd sent to kingdom come."

"That's where a killer differs from you and me, Tim. He starts with a conscience, I reckon, but he gets rid of it soon as he can." Neal rose and stretched. "I'm going to roll up now."

Both of them were asleep inside of five minutes. They did not wake until daybreak.

A wooded prong led them to a ledge. From the summit of shale slope they descended to a small green valley, at one end of which was a clump of pines. Out of the grove rose a thin trail of smoke.

Neal gave one last word of counsel. "Remember, Tim, we don't want to get on the prod. If we start trouble there will probably be two graves in the nearest gulch covered with rocks. Yours and mine. This is a peaceable conference between two parties who don't trust each other any farther than they can throw a bull by the tail."

"Lookin' for someone," a voice called.

Neal drew up and put his hands on the horn of the saddle. "Like to have a powwow with Cad," he said amiably.

"Cad isn't here." The owner of the voice was a giant in boots, buttternut jeans, and a blue shirt checked with white.

The owner of the K-B smiled pleasantly. "I reckon he isn't far away, Dave. He'll see me."

"Stay where you're at," Dave Dagwell ordered. "I'll find out if he's here.

He called, and a smoothfaced lad with ruddy cheeks appeared in the doorway. What's doing?" he asked, his eyes on the strangers.

"Find out if Cad's around and if he wants to see MacGowan, Russ," he snapped.

Russ vanished into the house. Neal had last seen these two men at the Lane funeral. He mentioned this to Dagwell.

"If you hadn't butted in the boys would have rubbed out that high-flyin' buzzard, Reynolds,'" Dagwell growled.

"That would have been fine for you boys," Neal retorted. "A half dozen posses would have come in to clean up the Gap and there would have been war."

"Which would suit me down to the ground," Dagwell flung back.

Clemson limped forward to meet them. One of his legs was shorter than the other due to a fall many years before from a bucking horse. He wore an unctious smile on his sly and evil face.

"Sure good to see you boys," he said with a heartiness as obviously false as his smile. "Come right in and rest your weary bones."

Neal knew they were not welcome but gave no sign of it.

The visitors took the offered chairs. "It's been quite some time since we last met, Cad," mentioned Neal easily. You don't get down much, do you?"

Neal agreed that might be so. Both of them were marking time.

"The boys tell me you got as far as the old cabin the other day," the lame man carried on. "I was right proud you didn't get this far. Checking up on Reynolds, the boys said. That's good."

"Not if he did it," Neal agreed.

"He did it all right. Him or his crowd."

"I don't think so."

The hooded hawk eyes of Clemson searched the cattleman's face. "Who do you think did it?" he asked, his voice low and smooth.

"Can I talk with you alone?"

Clemson looked at Dagwell, who left the room with Russ.

"Shoot," the outlaw suggested. Neal leaned forward and spoke in a low voice. "I think Jess Blackburn killed him and shot Lane's daughter yesterday afternoon."

Either this last was news to Clemson or he was a good actor.

"Shot her from the brush across the creek from her house," Neal said.

"What would Jess kill her for?"

"I didn't say he killed her." Neal stretched the truth. "He wounded the girl. She's not dead yet."

"Sure was a crazy thing to do. Who saw him shoot her?"

Neal gave his reasons for accusing Blackburn, aware that the other would not accept them.

"You're crazy," Clemson cried. "That's no evidence at all."

"It satisfies me."

"Why, I'll bet Jess has an alibi." Neal's smile was sarcastic. "I'll bet he has."

"If the boys say so, that would let him out. Cullen would accept it as a good alibi."

"Cullen isn't in this," Neal told him. He turned back the lapel of his coat and showed the star. "You're up against Uncle Sam this time."

The hard eyes of the outlaw narrowed. "So that's yore game," he said venomously.

"Reynolds wouldn't agree with you about that," MacGowan differed. "But get me right, Cad. If I haven't lifted a hand against anybody in the Gap, the reason was that I wasn't hired to run down criminals. I'm a cattleman. But this is a horse of another color."

"You've picked yourself a job," Clemson said softly, and smiled.

"Meaning what?" Neal demanded bluntly.

"Meaning only that they claim Jess is a holy terror with a gun. I wouldn't know."

"You would keep your hands off?"

"Of course." There was a hint in his voice. "It's up to you, Mr. Marshal. I don't think Blackburn is guilty. But that is your business. Take him out if you like."

"Where can I find him?"

Clemson lifted his hands in a gesture that disclaimed any part in this. "I haven't the least notion where he is."

Neal rose. He spoke gently, as if to himself. "That's too bad. No use hunting for him without a posse. I'll go out and bring back 25 or 30 special deputies. If we don't find Blackburn we'll pick up several others wanted by the law."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The fact that a player did not lead such and such a card is highly significant to a declarer who knows how to visualize the unseen hands. For example:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
Match-point scoring.

NORTH
♠ Q 6 5 2
♥ K Q 4 3
♦ 7

WEST
♠ K J 8 7
♥ J 9 7 5
♦ K 6

EAST
♠ 10 9 4 3
♥ 8 6 2
♦ 10 9 3 2
♣ 7 4

SOUTH
♦ A Q J 8 5 4
♣ Q 9 6 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West led the seven of spades, East played the nine, and declarer won with the blank ace. Now, not knowing the distribution of diamonds, declarer played properly in cashing the ace and then leading the queen. West won, cashed the spade king and continued with the spade jack, dummy's queen winning. East followed suit with the four and three of spades.

Declarer now entered his own hand with a heart to the ace and cashed the diamond jack. West's failure to follow created a problem. Declarer could concede a diamond trick to East, thus setting up the rest of the suit, but how would he regain the lead to cash those established diamonds?

West's discard on the third diamond had been the ten of clubs, which made it fairly evident that he was guarding the heart suit. If he was now down to the high spade, three hearts and the K-J of clubs, it would be easy to cash the king and queen of hearts, then throw West in with a heart or a spade and force him to lead from his club king. But declarer saw a serious flaw in this plan: it was extremely doubtful that West had the high spade. He had led the seven, and later had shown the king and jack. The ten was still at large. Was it conceivable that West, if he had held the K-J-10 at the top of his spade suit, would have opened any card but the jack, the top of the interior sequence? Declarer thought not, and of course he was right.

South decided to enlist the enemy's help if he could. He put East in with a diamond. And now East did exactly what declarer had hoped he would do—he cashed the high spade. What this did to poor West was plenty! Declarer at this point had the Q-9 of clubs, a heart and a diamond. Dummy, waiting for West's discard, had three hearts and the A-8 of clubs. West's five card holding was three hearts and the K-J of clubs—but he had to discard one card! If he let go a heart, the low club would be thrown from dummy and all the hearts would be good; if West blanked the club king, dummy would discard a heart.

On the Calendar.

Tonight's formal dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle club will be an especially festive occasion, for the club has engaged an orchestra to replace its customary music by records. Dinner will be preceded by the Saddle cocktail hour from 7 to 8:30, when drinks will be served at cost.

Two hundred reservations have been made for the Onwentsia club's party tonight. The event will be a formal dinner dance.

About 80 of the sub-debutantes along the north shore have been invited to tea tomorrow afternoon by Miss Beverly Jo Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Hicks of Winnetka. Miss Hicks is a junior at the New Trier High school.

To celebrate the 17th anniversary of the Jack and Jill Players, the group is presenting its founder's dramatization of "Heidi," which will have its premiere at 2:30 p. m. today. During the winter the Players will "troupe" thru the north shore, alternating with Saturday productions at their home theater, 180 East Delaware place. The group supplies young actors and actresses to appear in the Junior League radio show, "That Men May Live," with Mrs. Richard M. Lamport in charge.

More than 1,000 guests are expected at a card party to be given this afternoon at the Lake Shore club for the benefit of the Cenacle convent. Mrs. Bolton Sullivan is chairman of the party, which is an annual affair.

Young persons who attend the Sophomore Assemblies will meet tonight at the Winnetka Woman's club for an informal party.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

Ration book No. 1 has served its purpose and may be destroyed. These stamps were intended for coffee, but coffee is no longer rationed, and they aren't to be used for anything else. Get rid of book 1. . . . "You keep telling us to save fats," writes a reader. "How can we save fats if we haven't any coffee cans to collect them in? If the government wants us to save fats why don't they manufacture some kind of container?" Apparently this reader hasn't seen recent publicity on fat salvage. It is no longer possible to collect fats in coffee cans. Any tin can will do—one that has held tomatoes, corn, or peaches. The tin will be salvaged, too.

"Now that raisins are scarce and rationed, what are we going to use in fruit cakes?" asks a homemaker. Raisins are more plentiful now than they were a few weeks ago, but they probably will stay on the ration lists. Figs are unrationed and available in fair supply. They may be used in almost any recipe which calls for raisins. Mixed candied fruits might be used to replace raisins. They cost no points. I suggest the use of fruit cake recipes which require only a small amount of fruit.

Almost in tears, a woman telephoned about a pound of butter which had become rancid. What could she do with it? Use it in cooking, we told her. A perishable such as butter should be wrapped well and stored in the refrigerator apart from any strong flavored foods, for it absorbs flavors readily and stales rapidly. . . . "What meats aren't rationed?" asked a male voice on the telephone. Kidneys, tripe, oxtails, brains, pigs' feet and tails. Delicious dishes may be made with any of these.

Mrs. Nathan Leibowitz is the president.

Children Do Not Develop at Same Rate

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Parents ask me, "What should my child weigh and how tall should she be at a certain age?" so they ask me often "What should a baby be expected to do at six months, 10 months, 15 months?"

And just as I don't like to give weight-height charts, so I don't like to say, "A baby should be able to do this and that at six months, 10 months, 15 months." I don't like to say it because there can be no set rule.

If I should say, "Your baby should be able to do this at 10 months;" or, "Your little girl should be able to do that and that and that at 15," and then you noticed that your child didn't, you might fret yourself sick."

Nursery schools have had elaborate notes kept in this connection and have tabulated the activities of their children according to ages. This is interesting and helpful, but it cannot be taken too literally by the mother, because nursery school procedures, equipment and group life are usually different in many ways from home life. A little child always at home might become more adept in some things and less in others. I've noticed these differences when visiting nursery schools and then when with children at home.

So never mind about your arbitrary charts and standards of behavior and achievement. Give your small child opportunity, the right materials, freedom for work and play, and your wholeheaterd interest, and the result will be good.

Urges Teachers Help Keep Boys at Studies Until Calls to Service

The war department, thru its spokesman, Lt. Col. Jay Dykehouse, yesterday gave some advice to high school and junior college mathematics and science teachers. Speaking before 400 members of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics teachers at the Palmer house, he urged efforts to keep boys in school until they are called into service.

Do not let a boy think he is going to be an airplane pilot just because he is admitted to the air forces, Col. Dykehouse declared. The service, he said, will determine what his role will fill—navigator, "grease monkey," or any of many others. Avoid the sugar coating, he continued, asserting that everyone entering the services may face harder work than they expected.

Col. Dykehouse said schools should have the best possible guidance counsellors who are familiar with all types of programs. He closed with a warning that the army's and navy's needs for doctors, dentists, and engineers have not been met and proposed that every boy with proper qualifications be urged to try for the navy V-12 program or the army specialized training program.

Move Started to Get Negro Women Jobs as Clerks in Stores

Preliminary steps in a move to obtain employment of qualified Negro women as clerks and in other jobs in Chicago's retail stores were made yesterday by a special committee appointed by the woman's division of the Chicago Urban league. With a view to expanding into a large metropolitan group, representatives of religious groups, women's clubs, and civic organizations have been invited to work with the committee, which met at 343 South Dearborn street and will meet there again at 10 a. m. Tuesday. Mrs. Edward O. Brown of the Council of Social Agencies, Mrs. Willard Gedwetz of the Chicago Woman's Aid, Miss Laura Ault of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Betty Schneider of Friendship house were among those attending yesterday's session.

The committee chairman, Mrs. Norman Freehling, a member of Chicago Woman's Aid, cited the necessity for educating the public to the idea of accepting Negro women for the proposed employment, thru contact with personnel managers, thru public speakers, and thru intensive recruitment and training of the type of personnel needed by employers today.

Dracula's Son Bats Around in Horror Film

A Universal picture, directed by Robert Siodmak, featuring Louise Albritton, Robert Paige, Frank Craven, and Lon Chaney; presented at the Woods.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Spell Dracula backward and you have the name under which the son of Dracula is found batting about under in this horror film.

Count Alucard, of course, is a vampire. . . . He comes over to this country in search of young, virile blood. Requiring a place where he can establish the coffin to which he must return each sundown, and from which to work, he selects the Caldwell estate, killing the aged Caldwell and marrying one of the daughters—Katherine—who wishes thru him to attain immortality for herself and the nice young man [Frank Stanley] to whom she is engaged. . . .

Completely matter of fact and credible performances by Frank Craven, as the village doctor; J. Edward Bromberg, as a professor versed in vampire lore; Robert Paige as the fiance, and Evelyn Ankers as Katherine's sensible sister, are effective foils for the spooky doings of Lon Chaney as the vampire and Miss Albritton as his girl friend. . . . Direction was smooth and lines are neatly turned and well delivered. Photography helps maintain the supernatural atmosphere and suspense.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 26.—If her ex-husband had his way, when Orson Welles and Rita arrive back home, they'd have to walk. Just before leaving, her car was taken by her ex-husband from a parking lot, but it since has been returned. . . . I thought Ruth Waterbury and Elaine Osterman were off to Mexico to write about their movies down there, when all the time it's been just a vacation. . . . It's Wendell Willkie's story that when Mme. Chiang Kai-shek was in New York and Winston Churchill in Washington, he phoned to ask whether she would come over for a meeting. Her reply: "I'm not well, but I'd be delighted to see you any time you come to New York." Then Mrs. Roosevelt phoned an invitation, also the President. Mme. Chiang felt gentlemen should call on ladies. Then, too, it might have been taken as an indorsement of "let's take care of Europe first"—when her one idea was and still is to get more help for China.

'Twill Be Fun.

Bob Hope always licks Ed Gardner at golf, but it will be nip and tuck when they play together in "Duffy's Tavern." . . . When Edgar Bergen subbed for Ken Murray in "Blackouts," Ed Gardner went over to see him while he was slinging on the grease paint. Edgar was delighted with its flavors, and Duffy said, "I can see the headlines now—'Vaudeville Revived—by Charlie McCarthy!'" . . . Winnie Sheehan, back from New York, is bubbling over about the reception Eddie Rickenbacker got from the picture pioneers at their annual dinner there. All the bigwigs went for Rick hook, line, and sinker. And why not? They learned plenty from his two hour off-the-record talk. . . . Bing Crosby is back from a month's holiday for an added scene in "Going My Way" and to start "Road to Utopia" Dec. 2.

Show Business.

Walter Brennan and Charlotte Greenwood were chewing the fat about actors who blow up in important scenes and some of the reasons. Walter was telling about a hulk of a man on the "Sergeant York" set who was selling long undies, when Gary Cooper, as a gag, put into his case a huge pair of women's silk bloomers, which he pulled out to show during a long scene—and the look of abject horror on the guy's face when he saw them. Then Charlotte told the one about the former Broadway star who was playing an old priest. He went over and over and over the scene, couldn't retain the lines. Finally he put his head down on the table and cried like a baby, saying, "I can't do it—I'm thru and I know it." He was—and in 10 days the man was dead.

One of the Best.

After the holidays Andy Devine will be off on another tour to entertain our service men. In the meantime, he's whittling away at a B picture at Universal. Before he went touring the U.S.O. asked him where he'd like to go. Andy said, "Where it's toughest." He did—to Greenland and Labrador, where sometimes it was 30 below. Mary Elliott, a Metro singer, went along. They picked up two enlisted men en route. Wonder when he's going back on Jack Benny's program? Everybody asks for Andy. . . . Young Rosemary De Camp should never have started playing mothers. She's got herself another—that of Anne Blyth in "The Merry Monahans," which co-stars Donald O'Connor and Jack Oakie.

Andy Devine.

Seems Incredible.

A friend of mine rented her home to three members of "Frenchman's Creek" company on location. Among them was Joan Fontaine's stand-in. When my friend asked the stand-in whether Miss Fontaine didn't think it was beautiful country, she replied, "I couldn't say." "Why? hasn't she mentioned it?" "No," said the stand-in. "I've been with Miss Fontaine several years now and she hasn't yet said 'Good morning.'" . . . Signe Hasso plays opposite Spencer Tracy in "Seventh Cross" and doubles as a Hollywood correspondent for a Swedish newspaper. . . . Xavier Cugat has such a passion for stripes he even wears a striped tuxedo. Only kind he doesn't go for are those worn behind prison bars. . . . Warner Baxter is about to sign a two picture deal at Paramount. . . . People say they're in love—Anne Baxter and Oliver Thorndyke. . . . Richard Le Grand of the Gildersleeve show marries Alice Nixon Dec. 6. They'll honeymoon in Ensenada. . . . Cafe au lait Ida James sings "Shoo-Shoo Baby" in Walter Colmes' "Trocadero." She's cute as Christmas.

10,000 Syphilis Cases in Little Harlem.

New York, Nov. 26 [Special].—Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins, commissioner of health, today reported to Mayor Fiorella La Guardia there were approximately 10,000 recorded cases of syphilis in the Bedford-Stuyvesant [Little Harlem] section of Brooklyn in the last five years. Dr. Stebbins' findings substantiated the August grand jury's report that prostitution and venereal disease were rife in the section.

The jury report, returned Nov. 15, said lawlessness was widespread in the area. It blamed these conditions on Mayor La Guardia.

T. B. Rate Four Times Higher.

Dr. Stebbins said the tuberculosis death rate in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section, which embraces 12 square miles, is four times higher than in the rest of the city, exclusive of Harlem.

Dr. Stebbins said his survey "showed serious public health problems in this area."

Msgr. John L. Belsford, pastor of the Roman Catholic church of the Nativity, which is in the "Little Harlem" section, today said he believed the grand jury's exposure of lawlessness within the area is "fair and reliable."

Asks "Are Police Free?"

The priest said the issue is whether the police are free to institute their own remedial action or whether they have to abide by orders from the mayor.

"The situation boils down to this," he said. "Is the police department really free to do what it thinks it ought to do, or does it get its orders from the city hall?"

COURT UPHOLDS LEASE BARRING NEGRO TENANTS

Municipal Judge Charles S. Dougherty yesterday, in effect, upheld the validity of restrictive clauses in leases forbidding Negro occupancy of property covered by the lease. He held that Henry Richard, 5234 Dorchester avenue, had violated the terms of a five year lease granted him last June by the Lake View Trust and Savings bank on property at 534-42 North Wells street by renting to Negroes. The ruling was contrary to one last month by Judge Samuel B. Heller in Renters court involving property at 412 North Clark street.

"I do not hold that restrictive covenants in leases are valid," said Judge Dougherty, "but a question of public policy is involved and I do not believe it is within the domain of the lower courts to decide on such a matter."

DEFER INQUEST IN DARLAK DEATH OF GLASS WOUND

A coroner's inquest into the death of Paul Darlak, 17 years old, of 1257 West 14th street, brother of Edward Darlak, a Touhy gangster who participated in the Stateville prison break a year ago, was ordered continued yesterday until Dec. 9 to permit further police investigation. Darlak's body was found at 18th and Throop streets Thursday morning. A trail of blood led from the body to within 10 feet of a broken store front window at 1215 West 18th street. Police surmised Darlak fell on a jagged piece of glass while reaching thru the window which had been broken with a brick.

ARREST BOGUS LIEUTENANT IN 4 BURGLARIES

William Zichterman, 28 years old, who, police said, has been posing as a 2d lieutenant at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, was arrested yesterday on four charges of burglary.

One of the charges involved the burglary of the home of J. Findlay Smith, 7121 South Winchester avenue, where Zichterman's sister, Bernice, rooms.

Police said Zichterman admitted purchasing a 2d lieutenant's uniform after he found credentials belonging to 2d Lt. Hubbard McWhirter of Amarillo, Tex. They said Zichterman was dishonorably discharged from the army last year.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Dorothy Amstien, 9135 South May street.]

THE QUESTION.

Did you and your wife [or husband] ever misunderstand each other's signals in public?

WHERE ASKED.

The Pittsfield building, 55 East Washington street.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. A. Cooney Siegman, housewife, 1707 Greenleaf avenue—We were seated in the theater about five rows apart. After a few minutes the seat beside me was vacated. When my husband turned around, I motioned for him to come back and take the seat. He just waved at me. Later I learned he was saving a seat for me, too.

George Rubin, cab driver, 418 South Central Park—We were visiting at a friend's home when my wife pointed toward the door with her thumb. I thought she wanted we men to leave so she and the woman could talk confidentially. We went out for a couple of hours. Later she told me she wanted to go home.

Attilio J. Monaco, junior auditor, 2053 Birchwood avenue—Our bridge table used to be a perpetual scene of misunderstood signals. I've tried to nudge my wife, or step lightly on her toe, but she always would ask what I wanted. She plays a better game when she doesn't have to waste time concentrating on my signals.

Frank J. Sebbes, sales manager, 1808 Farwell avenue—I knew my wife would be embarrassed if I told her that the zipper of her dress was unfastened, so I tried to point it out without attracting our guests. I pointed to my side, and she asked if I felt all right. Finally she caught on, but it was an ordeal.

Leonard E. Simpson, storekeeper, 8105 Ingleside avenue—There was a woman's name I didn't want my wife to mention in the presence of another man and his wife. I frowned as she started on the topic and she stopped abruptly in the middle of the conversation. That was more embarrassing than if she had mentioned the name.

Mrs. Ernest L. Rumsfield, housewife, 6057 North Troy street—A soldier, my son's best friend, came to call on my daughter on three consecutive nights. When my husband heard he would call, he said, in a loud voice, "That soldier again?" I motioned to be quiet, but he stalked into the living room to tell our daughter what he thought. He found the soldier already there.

OUR STATE, BORN IN 1818, IS GOING TO HAVE PARTY

Vandalia, Ill., Nov. 26 (AP).—Illinois will observe the 125th anniversary of its admission into the union Dec. 3 with a parade at this former state capital. And if one of those tough 1818 pioneers could stand on the sidelines he just wouldn't believe it.

Along paved streets and between cheering lines will move a mile long parade of military units, bands, and defense groups.

Gov. Green and others will speak over a state-wide radio hookup.

Kaskaskia, a village of 622 in 1810, became the first state capital. The first "statehouse" was a private dwelling, the general assembly renting three rooms at $4 per day.

Two years later the capital was moved to Vandalia, by then an up and coming settlement, and in 1837 to Springfield.

WOMAN HURT IN FALL DIES.

Mrs. Flora Parnell, Negro, 23 years old, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered six weeks ago in a fall from her fourth floor flat at 1020 Franklin street.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY CAR IN CICERO DIES OF INJURIES

John Duran, 47 years old, yesterday was fatally injured when he was hit by an automobile at 31st street and 52d avenue in Cicero. He lived at 5232 West 31st street, Cicero. The driver of the car was George Zelenka, 3613 South 52d court, Cicero.

John Ziegler, 71 years old, died yesterday in Southtown hospital of injuries suffered Thursday when he was struck by an automobile at 49th street and Ashland avenue. He lived at 6416 Normal boulevard. The driver was Morton J. Elwood of 2848 Adams street.

Railroad Fireman Killed When Head Hits Signal

Edward Ford, 48 years old, a fireman for the Chicago and North Western railroad, was killed yesterday when he leaned too far out of a locomotive cab and struck a signal tower at Leavitt street. He lived at 8041 Langley avenue.

ST. GEORGE, PHILLIPS MEET FOR CITY TITLE

NOTRE DAME SEEKS NO. 10 AT GREAT LAKES TODAY

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

PACIFIC coast critics who took Coach Fritz Crisler to task for allowing his Wolverines to pour it on the undermanned Minnesota eleven were reminded by one Sgt. Sam Wilkie, Michigan '38, now stationed in California, that the Wolverine-Gopher feud is a personal matter with alumni of both schools. . . . Said the sergeant: "When the Gophers had the power and Michigan did not, we Ann Arbor fans knew what to expect and were not disappointed. . . . This year it was our turn." . . . He added: "Tom Harmon is missing in action. Would you want to call back any of the yards or touchdowns Tom made against your California Bears in that 1940 41 to 0 rout?" . . . Wrestler Joe Benicasa has changed his name to Benicasey and now is billing himself as the "Fighting Irishman." . . . Bobby Venner, who once fought Barney Ross and later brought two Omaha Golden Gloves teams to Chicago's Tournament of Champions, now is Lt. R. B. Venner of the navy medical corps stationed in the South Pacific. . . . Said Coach Charley Bachman after his Camp Grant eleven had played its last game with Fort Riley: "It was an interesting experience, this coaching a group of soldiers. . . . Altho the season was not what an alumnus of a university would call a success, I contend it was just that. . . . My boys tried as hard as if the national championship rested on every play. . . . They gained the training and experience which will stand them in good stead when they are called to the battle fronts and they were grateful for the opportunity to engage in the game they all like so well. . . . Now I'm going back to Michigan State, where next year, I am sure, we will have a varsity of our own again." . . . Pitcher Luke Crosswhite, who starred for the Oregon State prison nine, was released recently and has been signed by the Seattle club of the Coast league.

The boxing season is a year round affair at Keesler field in Biloxi, Miss. . . . Weekly shows are held winter and summer. . . . Florida horse racing fans are so thrilled by the prospect of the sport's return this winter, hundreds of them visit Hialeah Park daily just to gaze at the empty stands and paddock. . . . Altho the Midwest conference will not have a regular basketball schedule this winter, Cornell and Lawrence colleges, which went ahead with football when their rivals gave it up, are prepping quintets. . . . Lawrence, which maintains a full program of sports, again expects to present a strong swimming team. . . . Myril Hoag will be available for outfield duty with the White Sox, after all. . . . He has been released from the army because of dizzy spells.

Scotch Inspiration.

I was invited by two friends of mine
To celebrate their golden wedding day,
To sup a little glass of ancient wine
And be a bit hilarious and gay;
I knew that I should bring a gift of gold
But being Scotch I didn't like to buy,
For golden plated things I had been told
Had prices that were prodigally high.

I thought of golden butter, but the price
And ration points were more than I could stand,
Gold peach preserves would have been very nice
Had I sufficient ration points at hand;
But by sheer inspiration, in the end

This is the country that I love,
This is the country far above
All other countries . . . for us,
Our forebears planned and made it thus.

A country made strong, and courageous those days.
So we, who are American bred,
This heritage have from those pioneers, dead.

And O, to know that our land is free,
That above all else we prize liberty.
To have with us peace loving folks each day,
To still have faith in man, and say:

Notre Dame's football team, hailed as the nation's best and ranked as the finest offensive eleven in Irish history, comes to the end of the 1943 championship trail this afternoon at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. At 2 o'clock Notre Dame will bid for its 10th victory and an undefeated season.

Notre Dame's home trained varsity—only two of the 11 starters are navy transfer students—has earned undisputed supremacy this season by scoring 49 touchdowns and a total of 326 points. This record and the national title are the stakes for which the Irish fight this afternoon.

Great Lakes' Bluejackets also have an incentive greater than the prestige to be gained by whipping the nation's No. 1 team. If the Bluejackets can overthrow Notre Dame, a prohibitive choice by the public, Great Lakes can claim the service championship, a title won last season.

22,000 to Attend.

Twenty-two thousand navy men are certain winners today, for they will see the climactic battle without charge. Those fans who have watched Notre Dame's triumphal march in previous games will listen to accounts of the game on Ross field.

Permission to attend has been granted the prize companies of the recruit regiments. These companies have been judged the best in drilling, in daily inspections, and in classroom work. In addition, the service school students, men assigned to outgoing units, men from the anti-aircraft training center, marines, nurses, and hospital patients, will attend.

Six radio stations, however, will carry play by play accounts of the game and practically all metropolitan newspapers in the midwest will be represented.

Face Best Line.

Despite an excellent record of nine victories and two defeats, the Bluejackets scarcely figure to play on a par with the Irish unless the Notre Dame boys slump far below their consistent work in previous games. Great Lakes has compiled a total offensive average of 297 yards a game. Of this, 211 yards have been gained by rushing, but today the Bluejackets will face the best line of their season. Notre Dame has yielded only eight touchdowns and six of these were scored in games which the Irish won handily.

In previewing today's possibilities it must be noted Purdue and North-

BY FRANK NORRIS.

St. George's Dragons and Phillips' Cats will march into Soldiers' field this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock to decide the city-wide high school football championship in the 10th annual Mayor Kelly bowl game. The weather man's promise of ideal conditions today is expected to help attract a crowd of 80,000 to the lake front arena. Net profits will be turned over to the treasury of the Chicago service men's centers.

The teams completed their final preparations yesterday with light drills and black board demonstrations. Coach Lou Tortorelli of Phillips excused John Coleman from yesterday's workout because the blocking quarter back was suffering from a cold, but the star is expected to start today's contest.

Two Backs Have Leg Injuries.

Max Burnell of St. George was not quite as fortunate as his rival since he faces the possibility of meeting Phillips, the favorite, without the services of two of his back field stars, Dick Ratcliffe, full back, and John Alcock, left half. Both backs were suffering from leg injuries, but Burnell said both would be in uniform.

St. George, co-champion of the Catholic league with Mount Carmel will be striving to maintain its league's monopoly on the championship which reached two straight last year when Leo humbled Tilden, 27 to 14.

The Cats from Phillips are trying to add to the City league's total of five victories in this series. Two of the previous Kelly bowl games ended in ties.

Phillips Has Host of Reserves.

Phillips will have every advantage a football team can ask. It will have a weight edge of 30 pounds per man in the line. It has the highest scoring back in City league competition in Claude [Buddy] Young, and Coach Tortorelli is well supplied with reserves.

St. George, hampered by injuries, is determined to win. The team appeared to reach its peak in October, bogged down thereafter, but has been coming strongly in the last two weeks. St. George was conceded little chance to beat the powerful Mount Carmel team in the league's championship game. It didn't win, but it did tie the Caravan and subsequently won the coin toss which decided the league's representative in the bowl game.

If ever a team was primed to upset a highly regarded favorite it is this St. George eleven. The team does not know the word quit and has proved it can bounce back from a bad break or an opponent's score and still win.

Young Scores 140 Points.

Young, who owns the City league scoring title with 96 points in sectional play, has scored a total of 140 in a span of 10 games. He is the most elusive prep running back in Chicago. In addition, he is the state's 100 yard dash champion.

The Dragons' scoring punch must come from this group of backs: Marty Wendell, Whitey Jones, Larry Coutre, John Pflum, and Jack Ryan. If Ratcliffe and Alcock play St. George's chances will be increased.

Pre-game ceremonies will begin at 1 o'clock, and will be continued between halves. Ten high school bands, two military bands, R. O. T. C. units, WAVES, and a detachment from the naval armory will participate.

PIN STARS ROLL 8 GAMES TODAY

City Preliminaries Are to End Tomorrow.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago qualifying phase of bowling's biggest show—the third All-Star National individual match game tournament—enters the stretch today, when the fifth and sixth blocks of the local round robin competitions will be decided at the five elimination centers. The seventh and final four game block in each trial will be rolled tomorrow afternoon, with the two leaders each gaining places in the main event, to be conducted by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America at the Auditorium service men's center lanes. This top flight competition of American bowling will begin one week from this morning and will run for nine days and nights thru Dec. 12.

Petersen System Used.

The first four blocks of the Chicago round robin were settled last week-end. All of the local tenpin toppling is being determined on the basis of the Petersen cumulative point system. By this method, a bowler earns one point for each 50 pins, one point for every game won, and one point if he wins the lesser number of games, but still has the higher total of pins in a match. A four game total of 849 pins, with

West Point Host to Navy for First Time in 51 Years Today

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—Altho the annual Army-Navy football game is only 24 hours away, the biggest mystery today was the drug which miraculously cured a quartet of ailing Midshipmen and removed a carload of minor injuries from the cadet roster.

With the 44th meeting of the service teams scheduled for tomorrow in the semi-seclusion of mountain guarded Michie stadium, there wasn't a first class casualty on either team, except for Robert Pearce, second string Army guard, who will be unable to play because of an infected leg.

"Invalids" Ready to Play.

Among the most healthy appearing were Ben Chase, Jack Martin, George Brown, and Don Whitmire. All have been described as suffering from various ailments during the week.

Likewise, Ed Murphy. He's the guard with the talented toe in the Army setup and does the kicking-off and extra point kicking for the Cadets. He received a blow on the head in last Saturday's Brown encounter and didn't report for practices earlier in the week.

Tomorrow's game, the first Army-Navy game here in 51 years, will be played before a restricted crowd of 16,000, altho the stadium is arranged to hold 28,000 comfortably.

Every one of the spectators will be a bona fide resident of an area 10 miles in circumference from the exact center of the football playing field, a restriction applied by the war department in permitting the game to be played.

Scheduled for Philadelphia.

The game easily could have filled the 102,000 seats in Philadelphia stadium, where it was originally scheduled until war interfered, especially since the two clubs come up to their annual game with only one defeat apiece.

The visiting Midshipmen, who will get vocal support from one-half of the military academy's student body, are the favorites, however, because they trimmed Pennsylvania, while the Quakers tied the Cadets, 13 to 13.

APPLING IN CITY FOR ARMY TEST

Star Sox Shortstop to Take Exam Today.

Luke Appling, veteran Chicago White Sox shortstop who led the American league in batting last season, with .328, will report for induction into the army this morning at 7:30 o'clock at his local draft board at 1104 East 47th street. Appling, 34 years old and the father of two daughters, arrived in Chicago yesterday from his home in Atlanta, Ga.

Luke Appling.

Appling came to the White Sox in 1931 after serving a year in the minors with Atlanta, where he went directly from the Oglethorpe university campus. The 5 foot 10 inch right hander always has played shortstop with the exception of the 1932 season when he was listed as a combination outfielder and infielder. He weighs 175 pounds.

Luke's accomplishments since joining the Sox have been many. He also led the American league in batting in 1936, and paced the shortstops in assists and chances accepted in 1933-'35 and 1937. He also was named by the Baseball Writers' Association of America as all-league shortstop in 1936 and 1940.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov 26 (AP).—Two unbeaten elevens—Southwestern Louisiana institute and Randolph field—clash tomorrow and the unofficial southwest football title and an almost certain bowl bid hinge on the outcome.

The Fort Sheridan football team, which beat Camp McCoy last Sunday, 26 to 0, will meet a team from Patterson field, O., in Highland Park this afternoon.

Glenview Air Five Beats Illinois Tech, 52 to 40

The Glenview Air station basketball team opened its season at Glenview last night by beating Illinois Tech, 52 to 40. The leading scorer for Glenview was Don Hillock, forward, from Washington, D. C., who made 13 points. He was tied for scoring honors by Tom Kilgariff, navy V-12 student at Illinois Tech.

HAWK AND BRUIN SCORING STARS READY TO CLASH

Mosienko to Test Skill Against Cowley.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Mosienko of the Blackhawks, and Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins, at this moment are tied as the National Hockey league's leading point scorers, with 19 apiece, and Doug Bentley of the Hawks is only a point behind.

It may still be that way when the three tally gluttons appear on Chicago Stadium ice tomorrow night, but more than likely the two Hawks will be confronted with the task of overtaking Cowley. Cowley will be in action against Toronto—Mosienko and Bentley will be in repose. Buddy O'Connor, playing tonight for the Montreal Canadiens against the pushover Rangers, might hop ahead of everybody.

Because hockey schedule makers somehow became affected with the same screwiness that attacked baseball calendar perpetrators, the Bruins will be making their third appearance here this season. Seven home games for the Hawks and the Bruins will have appeared in three of them. Thus far the Hawks have not played in Boston.

Bruins Are Welcome.

On the basis of the first two games, the Bruins will be welcome. The boys from Boston lost here Nov. 11, 6 to 4, and the following Thursday took even a bigger jolt, 7 to 3.

The Bruins have been more effective against other teams in the league, and if they beat Toronto tonight will come here tied for second place with the Hawks. If Toronto wins, the Leafs will go into a tie with the Hawks. The only way for the Hawks to retain unshared possession of second place, is for the Leafs and Bruins to tie.

The Hawks, as a result of a spectacular victory over the world champion Detroit Red Wings Thursday night, have a home ice winning streak of four straight. A surprisingly large holiday crowd of 15,741 saw the Chicago success and apparently most of those fans expect to be in the Stadium again tomorrow night. A sellout has been indicated, but the lads in the ticket coops still were displaying fairly good stacks late yesterday.

BRUINS SIGN TWO AMATEURS.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26 (AP).—Manager Art Ross of the Boston Bruins, signed Tommy Brennan and Joe Schmidt of the Boston Eastern Amateur Hockey league club to contracts tonight before his forces entrained for week-end engagements in Toronto and Chicago.

Bluejackets Will Oppose Irish Today

western, which have beaten Great Lakes, dominated the play from scrimmage. Purdue outgained the Bluejackets on the ground, 186 yards to 46, and Northwestern had a statistical advantage of 203 yards to 81. Here is the obvious reason why Notre Dame should win this afternoon.

Bruins to Lead Attack.

Notre Dame's great half back, Creighton Miller, is the pivot for the Irish attack. He is ably supported by Full Back Jim Mello and Julius Rykovich and Bob Kelly, the right half backs. Great Lakes has a group of star backs but several of them are not in peak physical condition. Steve Juzwik, Emil Sitko, Steve Lach, and Ray Jones are fine ball carriers. They operate, however, behind a line which does not measure up to the standard set by the Irish line.

Moreover, if today's game should be decided by an air attack, Notre Dame possesses talent superior to that of Great Lakes. John Lujack has clearly demonstrated in the last three games that he not only can throw accurately but that he knows when pass plays should be called.

Racing Board Holds Meeting on 1944 Dates

The Illinois Racing board yesterday conducted a hearing on the allotment of dates to the various Chicago tracks for the 1944 season. Following the hearing, Maj. Ednyfed Williams, chairman of the board, and his colleagues, Frank Mandel and William Fay, went into executive session to weigh the conflicting interests of the operators. They decided to defer the fixing of the dates until the matter could be given further consideration.

The main point at issue is a conflict between Washington Park and Hawthorne over the week which begins on Labor day, Sept. 4. Hawthorne wishes to open its meeting on Sept. 4. Washington Park has filed two applications, one for a regular meeting ending on Labor day and a supplementary application for a meeting which would include the entire Labor day week with the stipulation that, if this period is granted, the track will conduct a full week of racing for charity at any time which the board may designate.

Another conflict occurs in the placing of the Lincoln Fields meeting. This track has asked for dates beginning May 22 and ending June 24. The opening date leaves an idle week following the closing date of the Sportsman's Park application May 13, and the ending overlaps by a week the proposed opening of the Arlington Park meeting June 19.

THE THOMASES, SAINT, SOLDIER TO FIGHT DEC. 10

Saint Thomas, Harlem heavyweight, will meet Lou Thomas of Fort Custer and Indianapolis in a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium Dec. 10. The card is topped by Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia heavyweight, and Nate Bolden. An additional 10 round event will bring together Claudio Villar, claimant of the heavyweight championship of Spain, and Dan Merritt, Cleveland.

IOWA SEAHAWKS FAVORED OVER GOPHERS TODAY

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 26 [Special].—Two former Minnesota football stars, Bud Higgins and Dick Burk, will be in the Iowa-Pre-Flight starting lineup against the Gophers in Memorial stadium tomorrow.

In addition to Higgins and Burk, the Seahawks are expected to use officers in the game, which means the crippled and battered Gophers go into the battle with little chance of beating the nation's No. 2 eleven. A crowd of 25,000, the largest since the homecoming game with Purdue, is expected.

Johnson Replaces Lossie.

Arne Johnson will be at center for Minnesota in place of Bob Lossie. Right Half Back Chuck Avery insists he's ready to play, but an injured rib has kept him on the sidelines all week. In his place at the start will be Freshman Bob Collison. The third new starter probably will be Guard Bob Graiziger. Graiziger was hurt in the Iowa game.

The game is the latest closing date in the history of Minnesota football, and will be the final appearance for the duration of the entire team with the exception of Tackle Bill Aldworth, Half Back Red Williams, and Quarter Back Bill Peterson.

Maznicki and Todd Out.

Altho heavy favorites, the powerful Seahawks will be without the services of their two star backs, Frank Maznicki and Dick Todd. The starting lineup:

Bears, Cards End Schedule Tomorrow

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Harry Clark doubtless will clinch the 1943 National Football league ground gaining title tomorrow when the Bears and Cardinals close their regular campaign in unison at Comiskey park. Already Clark virtually has clinched the individual scoring lead among the Bears and has exceeded the yardage gained by the 1942 Bears' leader, Gary Famiglietti.

Clark has romped for 517 yards in 108 thrusts at enemy lines in nine games for a 4.8 average. Last season, Famiglietti ground out 503 yards in 118 attempts, finishing second to the Pittsburgh Steelers' Bill Dudley, who had 696 yards in 162 tries.

Fifth Last Year.

Last season Clark gained 273 yards in 58 attempts, which placed him 15th among the ground gainers, tho his average of 4.7 compared favorably with the one he will take into tomorrow's contest.

The handsome left half back has scored 48 points to 40 built up by Bob Snyder on 34 points after touchdowns and two field goals. Snyder's only chance to pass Clark rests on whether or not he will be called upon to try for field goals. It may be that kind of game, with the Cardinals getting their last opportunity for a 1943 victory.

One touchdown by Clark will enable him to match the 54 points scored by Ray McLean in 1942 when the Scooter led the Bears in points. Last year, Harry ranked ninth in scoring in the league with 36 points.

Luckman Is Necessary.

The Bears anxiously will watch Sid Luckman in today's final drill. Sid left the hospital yesterday and watched the Bears work out. The chunky quarter back has been in the news constantly of late—for throwing seven touchdown passes against the New York Giants, for joining the maritime service as an ensign, for being treated roughly by the Redskins, and lastly for being hospitalized with an attack of the grippe.

If Luckman is unable to go thru with his plans to play against the Cards, the burden will fall on Snyder, who has been used chiefly to kick off and to try for points after touchdowns. Ray Nolting, veteran back, also can fill in at quarter back. But neither is a Luckman, and that's why the Bears will be very solicitous of Sidney this morning.

LANE—Lewis Wm. Lane, who passed away a year ago today.
Friends may think I have forgotten
When at times they see me smile;

Where rests the one I loved so well,
But whom I could not save.

ASK SAFEGUARDS TO REDUCE FIRES IN NEARBY AREAS

Precautions Suggested to Prevent Deaths.

Wider use of existing fire fighting equipment, more rigid inspection, and use of warning devices were urged yesterday by state and city fire officials to reduce the number of fire fatalities in unincorporated areas, many of them war born communities of makeshift houses.

It is feared that, with colder weather and greater strain on heating plants, structural weaknesses in these homes will result in numerous fire deaths. Recently, within a three day period, nine persons perished in fires in houses lacking adequate fire protection.

John H. Craig, state fire marshal, recommended that communities which have no fire equipment and are unable to purchase it because of the war, guard their homes by purchasing fire protection from near-by municipalities. Such a program was approved by the last session of legislature, he said.

Can Levy Small Tax.

Communities that remain after the war can provide better protection by organizing community fire districts under plans set up in 1927 by state statute.

"These fire districts are authorized to levy a small tax to purchase equipment," Craig said. "There already are 100 of them in the state, and a dozen others are being formed. These new groups, some grown up near war plants, are unable to get fire engines because of war production board restrictions."

Chief John L. Fenn, head of the bureau of fire prevention of the Chicago fire department, said many fires in unincorporated areas resulted from faulty installation of electrical and heating systems by "jacks of all trades"—usually the owners themselves.

Should Correct Faults.

In Chicago, a permit must be obtained before such installation can be made, and an inspection is made afterwards. There are no such requirements in the unincorporated areas of the county.

"This permits construction of dwellings without proper exits, with faulty heating plants, and with overloaded and poorly protected wiring systems," Chief Fenn said. "These places should be inspected and the faults corrected. If that can't be done, warning devices should be installed that will save lives and cut down property losses."

Robert J. Daly, assistant state fire marshal in Chicago, said his nine inspectors cover all of Cook county, outside the limits of Chicago, and Du Page county. They pay particular attention to schools, hospitals, and other institutions, but make inspections of dwellings only when a violation is reported or when an inspection is requested.

BACKS VILLAGE CHIEF, BLAMES WPB IN DEATHS

Albert Brandt, Oak Lawn village president, last night agreed with the statement of the village fire chief, Elmore Harker, that refusal of the war production board to grant priorities for needed fire equipment hampered the department in fighting a blaze in which a mother and two children perished.

"They did offer to give us a priority for parts to improvise a small capacity piece of equipment," he said, "but that wasn't what we asked for."

Chief Harker blamed WPB, at least in part, for the deaths of Mrs. Anne Monreal, 30 years old, her son, Robert, 8, and her daughter, Mary, 2, when fire destroyed their home one block from the Oak Lawn village limits.

An inquest into the three deaths was postponed until Dec. 22 so that the husband and father, Edward, may testify. He is in a hospital for treatment of his burns.

REPAIR PLANTS GET STEEL AND OTHER METALS

OCR Eases Control as Supply Gains.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—Civilian repair shops will get steel, copper and aluminum, as well as materials and parts, under an order issued today by the office of civilian requirements.

The order will permit electricians, plumbers, blacksmiths, radio, upholstery, and farm machinery repair shops, and others engaged in any kind of repair work, to buy up to 20 tons of carbon and alloy steel, 500 pounds of copper and brass products, and 200 pounds of aluminum in certain forms in any quarter.

Wire Bottleneck Ended.

The order indicates improvement in supplies of the major controled materials, including copper wire, hitherto one of the big bottlenecks in electrical production and repairs. Electricians, electrical contractors, and repairmen for refrigerators, radios, and household appliances will be permitted to buy $150 of copper wire, or one-eighth of the quantity used in 1941, whichever is larger.

Other materials may be purchased in such quantity as needed for maintenance and repair work.

Must File Certificate.

Repairmen will be required to file with their suppliers a simple certification declaring themselves eligible for the priority rating granted for maintenance, repair, and operating equipment.

Special provisions are made for those specializing in industrial repairs. The order permits the war production board to authorize an industrial repairman to buy up to 2,000 pounds of copper wire and a total of 2,000 pounds of copper and copper based alloy, brass mill and foundry products. They may also be authorized by WPB to use an AA-2 priority rating. Applications for authority must be addressed to WPB in Washington.

CANADA LIFTS CURBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 26.—When Canada converts its industry from war to peace needs, it will be on a basis of supply and demand, rather than a regulated industry. This was stated officially here today in connection with announcement that restrictions on scrap aluminum have been removed and three steel control orders lifted.

In announcing removal of these restrictions, C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, said, "Similar orders will be issued from time to time whenever it is possible to permit more extensive civilian use of materials."

Cuts Reported in Ordnance District Costs

A reduction of 41 per cent in the civilian personnel of the Chicago ordnance district during the last year, and other operating economies were disclosed yesterday by Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, district chief. The number of civilian employes of the district has been cut to 4,045 from a peak of 6,822 last December.

Fifty-nine per cent of the employes are women, compared with 51 per cent last December, Gen. Hammond said. Of the nearly 3,000 men and women who left jobs with the district, more than 1,000 entered the fighting forces.

Close Four Regional Offices.

Other economy moves during the year included the closing of regional offices in Rockford, Peoria, and Calumet City, Ill., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

Since November, 1942, the district's ratio of operating expenses to monthly material disbursements has been cut from more than 1 per cent to 0.75 per cent, described as one of the lowest operating ratios for any ordnance district. The expenditures cover cost of purchases and inspections, auditing, making payments, and renegotiation and termination of contracts.

Indulge in No False Optimism.

"These economies have been achieved without in any way hampering operating efficiency and despite the fact that the district is producing nearly twice as much army materiel as a year ago," Gen. Hammond asserted.

"The economies do not imply that the ordnance officials are indulging in any false optimism regarding an early end of the war. Our department heads are keeping an eye open for all possible means of saving the taxpayer's money without interfering with our primary function."

The district is administering 3,262 prime contracts and purchase orders valued at $3,878,604,175. It leads the 13 ordnance districts in number of contracts and is second only to Detroit, Mich., in valuation.

SURPLUS, FRESH RUN HOGS SOLD OUT IN 2 HOURS

The clearance for all hogs offered in the Chicago stock yards market yesterday was the best in recent weeks. All of the 9,500 carried over from Wednesday and fresh supplies were sold during the first two hours of trading. Prices for all except "government weights" and the heaviest butchers were higher than on Wednesday.

The big packers bought "government weights" freely at the floor of $13.75 a hundred pounds, despite the fact that all hogs purchased would have to be held until late Monday before they could be butchered.

The relatively low level at which light hogs below 200 pounds sold Wednesday attracted large eastern orders and these rose mostly 25 cents. Most 200 to 270 pounders cashed steady, but weak to 10 cents lower prices prevailed for butchers above 270 pounds.

Lamb prices advanced 50 cents in brisk trade to the highest position in three months. The $15.15 top was $1.90 above last week's low and highest since Aug. 30.

BORG-WARNER GETS CREDIT.

The treasury announced it had entered a tax credit of $574,724 for Borg-Warner corporation, Chicago, to cover overassessments for 1932, 1933, and 1938.

Stock Market Weak on New Hope of Peace

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Financial markets reflected a mild revival of peace thinking today and stock prices declined generally. Shares of companies with armament connections bore the brunt of selling, but even issues with better prospects failed to advance.

Inspiring the trimming of commitments was the belief that Germany could collapse overnight. Many customers also awaited word of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference. Dividends were more or less pleasing, but a recession in October railway net profit from last year, because of taxes and other costs, was a restraining influence.

Prices began to decline after a slightly uneven opening and there was little if any comeback at the close. Losses of fractions to 2 or more points were widespread, altho dealings were relatively slack thruout.

CHICAGO PRICES LOWER.

Prices were mostly lower yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, but a number of issues attracted buyers. Middle West corporation, which accounted for one-seventh of the volume, rose a small fraction. Illinois Brick was more than usually active, and advanced to a new high for the year. E. L. Bruce also reached a new peak. Commonwealth Edison, Chicago corporation common, and United States Steel were off fractionally.

BRAZIL'S BONDS GAIN.

New York, Nov. 26 (AP).—Strong rallies in South American bonds following disclosure of a new debt service plan by Brazil contrasted with lower trends in other sections of today's market.

Most of the Brazil bonds moved up 1 to about 6 points, usually on moderately light demand. One or two lost ground, reflecting disappointment of holders at the individual treatment accorded them in the plan. Other South Americans, including obligations of Chile, Argentina, and Peru made moderate progress.

Middleton, Conn., Nov. 26 (AP).—Resumption of output of limited quantities of zipper tape for civilian use was reported today by Russell Manufacturing company, which since the war began has been making the tape only for the military services.

WHAT THEY EARNED

Walworth company yesterday reported profit was $1,791,611, equal to $1.30 a common share, in the nine months ended Sept. 30. Federal income and excess profits taxes took $4,572,375, or 70.3 per cent of earnings before taxes. Provision was made for a possible refund to the government on renegotiation. Because of renegotiation and other factors applying to 1942, profit of $1,428,760 or $1.03 a share, originally reported for the first nine months last year is not an exact comparative figure.

JEEPS MUSTERED OUT AS NOT FIT FOR ARMY MAKE CIVILIAN DEBUT

The army jeep made its civilian debut yesterday. And as Hyman Berg, used truck parts distributor at 1608 South Wabash avenue, happily watched his 16 jeeps being unloaded, he remarked, "Twenty-five miles to the gallon—wow!"

Berg submitted a sealed bid in October for the jeeps, classified as unserviceable for army use, and was told his were the first sold to a civilian.

He intends to resell them, asking customers to pledge purchase of $1,000 to $5,000 in war bonds. Involving about $50,000 in bond pledges, he said seven had been sold—to a coal mining company in Kansas City, Mo., an Illinois coal company, a rancher in Houston, Tex., and a resort worker in Phoenix, Ariz.

"One jeep will be retained for my use," Berg said, "and I intend to give a free ride to all customers who will buy a bond in the fourth war loan drive."

TWO MINES CLOSED

West Frankfort, Ill., Nov. 26 (AP).—Two large Franklin county coal mines—Peabody No. 18 and Old Ben No. 8—were idle today as a result of controversies regarding overtime pay.

Informed sources said the dispute involved main line motormen and bottom men and resulted from conflicting interpretations of the new wage contract.

WHISKY DIVIDEND MEETS SECOND COURT OBSTACLE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 26 (AP).—A second restraining order enjoining the Tom Moore Distilling company, Baltimore, Md., from paying a dividend in liquor was signed in Circuit court today by Judge James E. Chenot. The petition for the order was filed by Bernard J. Ratigan, who said he was the owner of 2,353 shares of the company's common stock and represented other stockholders owning approximately 32,000 shares.

Withdrawals Increase.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—A treasury report today placed October whisky withdrawals at 5,358,000 gallons, of which 1,066,000 were bottled in bond, compared with 4,879,000 and 640,000 gallons, respectively, last September, and 11,425,000 gallons in October, 1942.

Report Coal Men Agree on Parley Basis

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The soft coal industry, except for southern operators, was reported tonight to approve negotiation for a wage contract on the basis of the agreement worked out by John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, and Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

Harry M. Moses, spokesman for the "captive" mines owned by steel companies, entered the talks between Lewis and mine operators for the first time today at the urging of Ickes. After the afternoon session, informed sources said he had lined up with the majority in favor of basing a contract on the Ickes-Lewis formula.

Fighting against this, Edward R. Burke, representing southern Appalachian producers, argued to the wage conference that the war labor board was sure to reject any such contract.

Terms It Futile.

He insisted it would be futile to negotiate an agreement that would not be sustained by the labor board, which he said interpreted the Ickes-Lewis pact as providing eight full hours of productive work a day.

Burke said it is clear that a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to determine travel time will report it more than the 45 minutes a day assumed by Ickes and Lewis and that the additional travel time necessarily will reduce actual work to less than eight hours.

Therefore, he maintained, the WLB will be forced to reduce the miners' $57.06 weekly pay under the Ickes-Lewis formula.

As an alternative he called for a contract guaranteeing eight hours of productive work, and paying a lump sum each week for travel time as a "working condition" but not as part of the working day.

Rail Strike Parley Dec. 3

Cleveland, O., Nov. 26 (AP).—President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today announced leaders of the five operating railroad unions would meet here Dec. 3 to consider peaceful and legal means of withdrawing our members from their jobs in the event a satisfactory solution to our wage problems is not reached."

Counting of ballots in a recent strike poll taken among railroaders "probably won't be completed before Dec. 5," Whitney said, but "we're going to figure out ways of making an orderly withdrawal of our services if necessary."

The brotherhoods asked a 30 per cent wage increase, and rejected a 4 cent hourly raise offered under government sanction. The five unions represent trainmen, engineers, firemen and enginemen, conductors, and switchmen.

SHIFT TO PEACE GEAR NOT HARD FOR HARVESTER

Farm Tool Business Partly Retained.

Reconversion of International Harvester company to peace time production will entail some problems, but will not be as difficult as for some other companies, especially auto makers, which are completely in war work, a company spokesman said yesterday. He said that in any event several months would be required at the end of the war to swing into normal production.

His company's farm equipment production has not ceased during the war, altho the level has fluctuated, he asserted. A substantial proportion of Harvester's farm equipment facilities was not adaptable to war production and has been engaged in production of farm machinery insofar as war time limitations, either thru shortages or by edict, would permit, or has remained idle.

Uses Former Warehouses.

The company was in the peculiar position of not using a large amount of its peace time facilities for war work, but has used buildings that formerly were warehouses, or, as in the case of the former Bettendorf, Ia., tank arsenal, a plant owned by the government and operated by Harvester.

This plant is still in war work, altho the government terminated its tank contract with Harvester after only a few tanks were produced.

Several factors enter into the outlook for reconversion, including the question of whether the government will continue rationing materials, whether the changeover will be gradual or abrupt, the matter of the availability of machine tools, whether government limitations on civilian production will be maintained, amended, or lifted entirely, and other imponderables, the spokesman said.

Doubts Quota Will Be Met.

Altho the government has relaxed restrictions on the production of farm machinery in 1944, the Harvester spokesman said he doubted that the new quota, which permits double the production of this year, or about 80 per cent of the 1940 production, will be reached.

He said this would not be because of the unavailibility of facilities or of raw materials, but because of the continued tight supply of component parts for farm machinery and the increasingly difficult problem of obtaining adequate man power because of the heavy drain into the army and navy.

He said the problem was especially difficult in respect to obtaining bearings, bushings, electrical equipment, magnetos, carburetors, gears, axles, and in some cases complete engines. These parts are also in heavy demand for military automotive and aircraft production, which accentuates the problem, he asserted.

He explained that many of Harvester's normal products are going into the war, with more than half the total output channeled into war production. Its peace time production consists of motor trucks, tractors and industrial equipment, farm implements, steel, binder twine, and refrigeration equipment.

Christmas Shopping Lifts Department Store Sales

Early Christmas shopping in the week ended Nov. 20 boosted department store sales of the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district 18 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales in Chicago increased 17 per cent, and gains in Indianapolis, Detroit, and Milwaukee were 42, 9, and 30 per cent, respectively.

Weekly Pay of Men in Illinois Industry Tops $50 First Time

Increasing war production has boosted average weekly wages of men in Illinois industry above $50 for the first time in history, Francis B. Murphy, state labor director, reported yesterday. Manufacturing and non-manufacturing companies paid an average of $50.90 weekly between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15, he said.

Separate statistics on manufacturing plants showed an average of $51.75 a week for men and $29.90 for women. The average for all reporting companies for both men and women was $43.60.

Pay Rises 35 Per Cent in Year.

"Employment advanced 2.9 per cent and pay rolls 3.2 per cent in the Chicago metropolitan area between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15," Murphy said. "During the last year of increasing war production employment has risen approximately 13 per cent and pay rolls 35 per cent. A large part of these gains resulted from additions to plant forces in large war production plants in the Chicago area which started production in the last few months."

More than half the Chicago gains were contributed by groups that include the machinery and aircraft industries, Murphy said. Reports from 6,492 companies thruout the state with 975,411 employes showed increases of 1.7 per cent in employment and 2.5 per cent in wages.

Statistics compiled by the Chicago Tribune business survey department showed further gains last month from October, 1942, but in most instances the percentage increases over a year ago were less than in September. The rate of advance also was slowed in most indices for the first 10 months of the year, indicating that big gains from rising war production in this area had been reflected in earlier statistics.

Size of Gains Trimmed.

Last month's percentage gains were smaller than in September for electric power production, department store sales, and Chicago Surface Lines passenger traffic, altho elevated and bus line statistics showed larger improvement. A 10.1 per cent decline in building permit valuations contrasted with a rise of 72.8 per cent for September.

In the following table the first three figures for each period are index numbers; others are dollars, kilowatt hours, numbers of persons or units, as indicated:

Rollins Sued by Church on Fraud Charge

Suit was filed in federal District court yesterday charging E. H. Rollins & Sons and the St. Louis manager of the brokerage firm with frauds of more than a half million dollars in the handling of church investment funds.

Atty. Thomas C. McConnell filed the action in behalf of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, a church that since has been merged with the national Methodist church organization. The suit demands the return of all money allegedly withheld illegally during the time the brokerage firm handled the investment funds.

Follow SEC Charges.

The charges are largely a repetition of those made against the Rollins firm and its St. Louis branch manager, Walter C. Rawls, during extensive hearings early this year before the securities and exchange commission. This case is before the SEC at Philadelphia, Pa., for decision on whether the brokerage firm and Rawls are to be expelled from the National Association of Securities Dealers and deprived of SEC registration.

Rollins began handling the church investment account in 1934, and the SEC inquiry began Dec. 31, 1942. Junius F. Rawls, brother of the St. Louis defendant, was treasurer of the mission board.

Blame "Markups," "Churning."

McConnell charged that the brokers invested in "highly speculative" securities and kept any profits for themselves while charging the losses off to the church fund of about $1,800,000. "Markups" of securities extended to 33 points in one instance, and "churning" or needless reinvesting of security funds netted the brokers one-quarter point on each transaction, he said.

"The allegations in the suit will be answered and resisted," the Rollins firm said last night. The company said the testimony in the commission's case "shows that the board desired a liberal yield," that "the board's funds are intact" and that "the board had a realized and unrealized profit as of July 17, 1943, of approximately $160,000" as a result of the Rollins firm's efforts.

People and Events

G. Ray Schaeffer has been appointed director of merchants' services of Marshall Field & Co., Hughston M. McBain, president, announced yesterday. Schaeffer will devote his time to the promotion of the Chicago market and will supply merchants thruout the country with information on Chicago merchandise sources. For many years he was advertising and sales promotion manager for Field's retail store, and since 1941 has been on the war finance committee for Chicago and Cook county.

G. Ray Schaeffer.

Col. William G. Edens, widely known banker who retired in 1931 after 26 years with the old Central Republic bank, will observe his 80th birthday today at the Winnetka home of his son, William M. Edens, second vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Col. Edens, a familiar figure at national bank conventions, which he has attended in recent years as an "honorary" vice president of the Terminal National, received birthday congratulations from his old friend, Gen. John J. Pershing.

23 Million Rail Refunding Bonds Authorized by ICC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line railway to issue 15 million dollars of first mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds, and $7,850,000 of second mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds to retiré outstanding obligations. The Southern railway was authorized to assume obligations for interest on the new bonds.

Potatoes End Unchanged After Touching Ceiling

Idaho russet potatoes for November delivery closed unchanged yesterday at $3.25 a hundred pounds after reaching the $3.29 ceiling price earlier in the session. Sales were 26 cars. One car of February eggs, United States extras, sold at 37 cents a dozen, up ¼ cent from Wednesday's bid.

MOVE TO DROP DUTY ON GRAINS BREAKS PRICES

Big Canadian Flow Is Predicted.

A house committee's support of a resolution to suspend temporarily import duties on wheat, oats, barley, rye flaxseed, cottonseed, and hay, combined with new peace talk, depressed Chicago Board of Trade grain markets heavily yesterday. Wheat lost 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents a bushel, oats 1¼ to 1⅞ cents, rye 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents, and barley 1⅝ to 2 cents.

To encourage imports of live stock feed and supplement short domestic supplies, the house ways and means committee approved legislation to remove tariff duties for a 90-day period. Recommended by the war food administrator, the measure was reported favorably at a time when production of milk and poultry in some areas is being affected seriously by an insufficient supply of feed.

Brokers construed the possible flow of Canadian and Argentine grain into this country, limited only by available transportation, as decidedly bearish. The present duty is 8 cents a bushel on oats; 15 cents on barley, 12 cents on rye, and 65 cents on flaxseed.

Demand Largely by Shorts.

Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered in all grains on the way down, and demand was regarded as coming largely from shorts, altho there was some wheat buying attributed to cash interests. The break was helped by reports that the war food administration contemplated permitting western distillers to switch to corn or grain sorghums as a source of industrial alcohol.

Experts expressed the belief that congress, in its effort to assure supplies of feed grains for northeastern states, failed to recognize the unusually large movement of Canadian wheat and other grains into this country despite the duties. The WFA estimated recently that Canada would ship 175 million to 185 million bushels of wheat, oats, and barley to the United States in the 1943-'44 crop year.

CCC Already Importing.

The Commodity Credit corporation was estimated to have purchased 25 million bushels or more of Canadian wheat since July 1, importing the grain for feed purposes free of duty as a result of a Presidential order.

Expectation of a higher ceiling on cash corn was said to be causing farmers to hold back supplies. If distillers are permitted to use corn for industrial alcohol, brisk competition is expected because of the shortage of feed grains in the east.

CORN LOANS BOOSTED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—The war food administration announced today that it would make price supporting loans to midwestern corn belt farmers on 1943 corn at rates ranging from 81 to 97 cents a bushel. Last year's rates were 72 to 89 cents. The corn belt includes all counties of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa and the major producing counties of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Minnesota.

Outside the corn belt, the loan rates will range from 81 to $1.01 a bushel, compared with 1942 rates of 57 to 74 cents. Rate everywhere this year are equivalent to 85 per cent of the parity price of corn, the WFA said. Last year, corn belt rates were 85 per cent of parity, and those outside were 75 per cent.

Loans will be available to farmers who met 90 per cent of their 1943 crop goals and available from Dec. 1, 1943, thru June 30, 1944, becoming due Oct. 1, 1944.

Abbott Votes Extra, Usual Bonus

Abbott Laboratories declared its fourth 10 cent extra this year on the common with a quarterly dividend of 40 cents to lift distributions to $2 in 1943 from $1.90 last year. Abbott directors also voted a $1 quarterly preferred dividend and ordered payment of the usual Christmas bonus to employes.

Ward to Pay Same Amounts.

Montgomery Ward & Co. voted quarterly payments of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the $7 class A shares. Aggregate payments this year are the same as in 1942. Chicago Mail Order declared 30 cents on the common, bringing 1943 payments to 60 cents from 50 cents last year.

Initial Payment Ordered.

Dividends elsewhere included a 70 cent initial payment on common shares of United Chemicals and a participating dividend of 80.2 cents on the $3 participating preferred. American Express company voted a $3 special, increasing 1943 payments to $9 from the $6 last year.

Woodall Industries voted 15 cents on capital stock. Payments total 30 cents for the year, against none in 1942. Anaconda Wire & Cable voted 25 cents on the common to bring the year's dividends to $1, against $1.50 last year.

A NIGHT OWL
TALKS . . .

I'm Miss "B." I work on the NIGHT OWL SHIFT from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. at Wards. Hard Work??? NO, it's clean and light . . . easy to do . . . requires no experience and the pay is good.

The really nice part about this night owl shift is having the days to go shopping or get in my special activities. Many girls with husbands in the service are down here, too, also mothers who like the daytime hours free for their children.

We like it at Wards and the liberal employe discount on everything we buy really makes our dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.
